Trash Can Yields Stolen Painting

WILLIAM MORAN, an Art Institute security guard, looks into the wire waste basket in Grant Park, Chicago, where police found a missing painting valued at $500,000. (UPI Telephoto)

CHICAGO (AP) — An anonymous telephone caller with the voice of a frightened teen-ager directed police Sunday night to a trash basket containing a stolen $500,000 painting. The caller said the theft of the Renaissance painting "Madonna and Child with St. John," by Correggio, was a prank that got out of hand.

The painting was found in a trash basket in lakefront Grant Park, about a quarter of a mile down Michigan Avenue from the Art Institute of Chicago.

The richly colored work, on a wooden panel, was taken from the Art Institute early Sunday morning.

Charles C. Cunningham, director of the institute, said the 16th-century Italian masterpiece suffered moderate, but reparable, damage. After it was purchased last year it was described as the institute's most important acquisition in more than 60 years.

The break in the case came shortly before 6 p.m. when the anonymous caller told both the police and Art Institute personnel where to find the painting.

Lt. Stanley Bazarek, 44, driving alone in a squad car when he heard the radio call, said he found the painting "in the first can I looked at, about 30 feet off the street."

Police were uncertain how the burglar got into the institute, which until now had gone without a major art theft. However, they believe he left the building by breaking a second-story window, dropping the painting 20 feet to a roof, then jumping 14 feet to an air-conditioning duct and then 6 feet to the roof.

Three Imprisoned Americans Rescued In Brazil Jungles

RICHARDSON, Tex. (AP) — An ex-Marine says he flew to a remote mountain airport and posed as a cattle buyer to pluck three imprisoned Americans from the Brazilian jungles.

Alan A. Hulsey said the code signal for the Americans to elude their guard and race to his rented plane was the phrase: "Going to Rio."

Hulsey's account, contained in a copyrighted story in today's Dallas Morning News, was the latest disclosure in a tale of intrigue involving the "007" diamond and a South American general's aborted play for political power.

Freed and brought back to their homes after nine months of detention in Brazil were Joseph A. Truhill, 47, of the Dallas suburb of Richardson; Joseph McCutcheon, 36, and Sam Sexton Jr., 41, both of Fort Smith, Ark.

Truhill said Sunday at his home that all three were convicted of smuggling charges in Brazil trumped up by Gen. Rio Grandino Kruel, former chief of Brazil's federal security police.

Hulsey, 41, owner of a Dallas greeting card company, said he and Truhill were friends. He said he and Oliver C. Kavanaugh, 32, of nearby Irving, landed their rented small plane earlier this month on a mountain airstrip near Anapolis, Brazil, 80 miles southwest of Brasilia, where the three were serving 3-year prison terms.

Posing as a cattle buyer, he told the News, he went to the prison in Xrasilia and asked to see the Americans.

Hulsey said he gained the confidence of the guards by giving them fountain pens and taking their photographs.

He said he told Truhill that when everything was set, he would telephone him from the airport and say he was "going to Rio." He said he made the call Wednesday.

As they had customarily done the three Americans took a guard out on the town. They then plied him with liquor and left him at a hotel room.

Truhill said he and the two Arkansans jumped in a cab, sped past a sleeping guard at a federal police checkpoint, and raced for the airstrip. They took off from Anapolis at 4:30 a.m. Thursday and landed at a small Dallas airport Saturday night.

20 'Minutemen' Seized By Police For Plot Against Camps In East

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say they have arrested 20 members of the super-secret, right-wing Minutemen organization, seizing tons of ammunition and weapons and breaking up what they called a plot to blow up three private camps in New York State, New Jersey and Connecticut.

In lightning predawn raids Sunday in Queens, Westchester County, on Long Island, and at Syracuse, more than a hundred state, county and local police went into action. They said they confiscated arsenals that included mortars, bazookas, machine guns, semiautomatic rifles, homemade bombs, machetes, crossbows, garroting nooses, and a million rounds of ammunition.

The raids were announced by Queens Dist. Atty. Nat H. Hentel. He would not disclose the identity of the target camps, but added that the Minutemen group is dedicated to destroying "Communist, left-wing and liberal" installations of any kind.

Hentel said the camps were slated for destruction Sunday, a few days after the start of the hunting season.

Six of the men, all dressed in hunting garb, were seized in a Queens diner. Officers said guns, ammunition and bombs were found in the car of one of them. Another man was arrested in his Katonah, Westchester County home.

Hentel charged the men with conspiracy to commit arson and most received additional charges of violation of the anti-weapons law and unlawful assembly.

During an investigation which began last January, police said they learned the following about the Minutemen:

That they tried to infiltrate the Army Reserve's 11th Special Forces — the "Green Berets" — at Miller Field, Staten Island, to learn guerrilla tactics.

That members of the group distributed racist literature in Queens, purporting to be from Negro extremists and urging Negroes to "kill white devils."

Robert B. DePugh of Norborne, Mo., who established the Minutemen six years ago, was not available for comment. DePugh also is national chairman of the newly organized Patriotic party.

Membership in the Minutemen has been estimated from a few thousand to 100,000.

President Assures South Korea Of Aid If Need Reoccurs

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Crowds estimated to number two million turned out to welcome President Johnson today in the biggest, wildest reception of his Far East tour. Throngs broke down metal fences, swarmed around police, and clung to rooftops for a glimpse of the man hailed in a typical banner as the "Great Texas Giant."

The outpouring obviously pleased him and at a state dinner tonight Johnson promised the United States would come again to the defense of South Korea "if aggression—God forbid—should occur once more."

This nation—torn by war with the Communists 16 years ago—is the President's last stop on his seven-nation tour around the eastern rim of Communist China. The crowd in Seoul was the friendliest of the trip.

There wasn't a sign of the kind of anti-U.S. sentiment that marred otherwise warm and at times boisterous welcomes in other nations on the tour.

The President responded by popping out of his car half a dozen times to mix with the confetti-tossing, flag - waving throng.

Facing massed crowds estimated by police at 350,000 in City Hall Square, the President voiced concern for the safety of those who pushed, shoved and trampled each other in an effort to get a better view. He urged courtesy and caution "so we don't hurt anyone."

Harking back to the Korean War in which 54,246 Americans died, Johnson said he was standing on "hallowed ground."

In a toast at the dinner, Johnson issued the U.S. promise to come to Korea's defense again if it is attacked.

"Korea inspires us to feel that nations can meet the gravest challenges successfully if they can be secured from terror," he said. "And I can assure you that

U.N. Action Linked To New Weapon Of Communist China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — India was expected to react to Communist China's latest atomic weapon test with a speech at the U.N. today urging all the nuclear powers to sign a treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons. The Chinese presumably will reject the appeal if they don't ignore it.

V.C. Trivedi, the Indian representative on the Geneva disarmament committee, was scheduled to explain his government's position in the U.N. General Assembly's main political committee.

The basic Indian position has been that there should be a treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons; that it should involve a balance of obligations between nuclear and non-nuclear countries; that all nuclear powers should adhere to it, and that it should be linked with a freeze on stocks of weapons.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. for a 7-year-old youngster who died Saturday at 8 p. m. at City Hospital, less than 90 minutes after he was struck by an auto on Lisbon St. at 4th Ave., LaCroft.

Gregory Scott Fetty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald B. Fetty of 2122 Lisbon St., died of head and chest injuries suffered when he was hurled 88 feet by a 1964 model two - door sedan driven by Paul F. Tilton, 20, of 7th Ave., LaCroft.

Tilton told police he was driving south on Lisbon St. when he saw the boy walking along the highway, also headed south. As the car neared the youngster, the boy turned suddenly and ran into the path of the auto, he reported.

Police said 98.4 feet of skid marks were found at the accident scene. The force of the impact was indicated by a dent in the front of the hood of the auto, police reported. The mishap was timed at 6:37 p. m.

The child's death brought to 33 the Columbiana County traffic toll for 1966, compared with 34 at the same time in 1965. It was the first traffic fatality in East Liverpool since Sept. 9, when a young man died after his auto struck a utility pole on Park Way.

Restrictions Are Eased On Ambassador

Guinea Had Placed American Diplomat On House Arrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Guinea, which placed newly arrived U.S. ambassador Robinson McIlvaine under house arrest Sunday, apparently lifted restrictions on his movements today.

The State Department reported McIlvaine was allowed to go from his residence to the American chancery this morning without a guard. Sunday he was escorted when he drove to the Foreign Ministry to protest his house detention.

The State Department said the ambassador and G. Lambert Ronstrom, local manager of Pan American Airways, were detained in apparent retaliation for the arrest in Ghana of a 19-member delegation from Guinea which included the foreign minister.

State Department officials said Ronstrom still was restricted to his house this morning.

Rivers Backs Viet Action As 'Frontier Of Freedom'

COLUMBIANA — Rep. Mendel Rivers of Charleston, S. C., a veteran of 25 years in the U. S. House of Representatives, addressed 500 persons Saturday night at Columbiana County's annual Democratic Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner in South Side School here.

"There are those who say we should get out of Viet Nam," said the congressman, chairman of the Armed Services Committee which supervises the expenditure of $58 billion annually in military funds.

"Why should we get out? This is the frontier of freedom," he declared. "We are winning the war and must win it or see Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, the Philippines and Japan fall to the communists."

He told the audience that while the voice of Rep. Wayne L. Hays is respected in capitals of the world as head of the House delegation to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, he has not lost touch with the 18th Ohio District. "Send him back to Washington, as I am sure you will, and keep sending him back time and time again."

Hays, who is completing 18 years in the House, was introduced by Rep. Robert E. Sweeney, a candidate for attorney general of Ohio. Hays said this office needs a change more than any office in state and urged support for Sweeney.

Maurice Rapport, East Liverpool merchant and treasurer of the county Democratic party, received the "Democrat of the Year" plaque. The presentation was made by Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman who initiated the J-J Day dinners 14 years ago.

Sharp Increase Reported In Viet Cong Desertions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese officials today announced a sharp rise in Viet Cong desertions to the South Vietnamese side. They reported 2,062 defectors from the Communist cause in October, the third highest month this year.

The announcement came on the eve of South Viet Nam's National Day which will be celebrated with a big parade that will include 500 former Viet Cong in the line of march.

The war itself lapsed back into a lull after sharp weekend clashes. Only small ground actions were reported and monsoon rains again reduced U.S. air raids over North Viet Nam.

Viet Cong guerrillas shot down a U.S. C123 cargo plane today in the dense jungles of the "iron triangle" 23 miles northwest of Saigon. The plane's three-man crew was rescued unhurt by Air Force helicopters.

B52 bombers from Guam made two raids Sunday night over South Viet Nam.

One wave of the bombers struck for the second straight day in the central highlands near the Cambodian border. The bombers hit at suspected base camps and staging areas of the North Vietnamese regulars who launched five assaults Saturday against units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division and then vanished in the elephant grass and jungle growth. The raid was in support of Operation Paul Revere 4, taking place 43 miles southwest of Kontum City.

The other B52s raided Communist troop concentrations 20 miles west of Quang Ngai City near the central coast.

'Underachiever' Can Be Helped

Few educators are better qualified than Leslie Nason to help parents meet one of the most disconcerting of all school problems: the student who is achieving less than he should. Telling him to "study harder" just won't work. But in a series of 12 articles, of which this is the first, Prof. Nason tells of plans that do work.

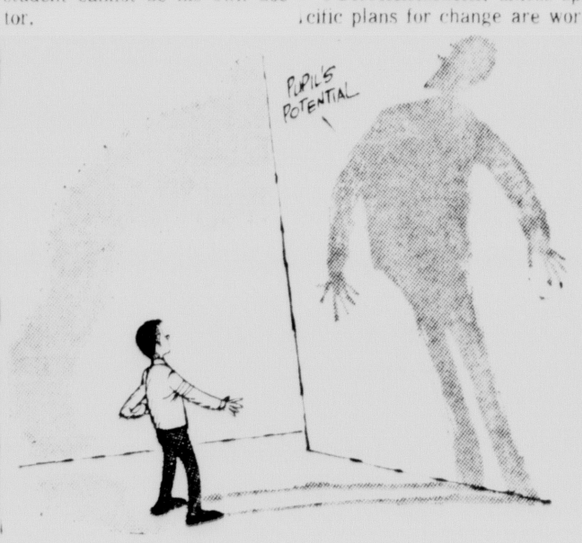

By LESLIE J. NASON
University Southern California

Getting an underachiever to improve his scholarship and approach his potential more closely has long baffled not only parents but educators.

It is, in fact, the most frustrating of all problems for parents concerned with rearing children in this complex, modern age.

Students themselves cannot prescribe for their own deficiencies since they cannot recognize their own troubles, much less determine the course of action to bring about improvement.

The very fact that his own methods produce unsatisfactory results is an indication that the student cannot be his own doctor.

Unless someone helps him bring about a change he will probably continue working below his capacity year after year.

FURTHERMORE, unless specific plans for change are worked out with the student and are accepted by him, there will be little chance of change.

Over the years, I often have been called on to help such students. What my methods were depended upon the problem of the individual. Some merely need to polish already established procedures to make them more satisfactory; some must plan entirely new programs of study.

Persons who want to help students must first clear their own minds of misconceptions regarding the improvement of scholarship.

It is not a matter of:

. . . Inspiring a student to work harder. He doesn't see any reason to expend more energy when his present efforts are not bringing satisfactory results. He doesn't know what else to try!

. . . The student being lazy. I know some students do appear

The announcement came on the eve of South Viet Nam's National Day which will be celebrated with a big parade that will include 500 former Viet Cong in the line of march.

The war itself lapsed back into a lull after sharp weekend clashes. Only small ground actions were reported and monsoon rains again reduced U.S. air raids over North Viet Nam.

Viet Cong guerrillas shot down a U.S. C123 cargo plane today in the dense jungles of the "iron triangle" 23 miles northwest of Saigon. The plane's three-man crew was rescued unhurt by Air Force helicopters.

B52 bombers from Guam made two raids Sunday night over South Viet Nam.

One wave of the bombers struck for the second straight day in the central highlands near the Cambodian border. The bombers hit at suspected base camps and staging areas of the North Vietnamese regulars who launched five assaults Saturday against units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division and then vanished in the elephant grass and jungle growth. The raid was in support of Operation Paul Revere 4, taking place 43 miles southwest of Kontum City.

The other B52s raided Communist troop concentrations 20 miles west of Quang Ngai City near the central coast.

'Underachiever' Can Be Helped

Few educators are better qualified than Leslie Nason to help parents meet one of the most disconcerting of all school problems: the student who is achieving less than he should. Telling him to "study harder" just won't work. But in a series of 12 articles, of which this is the first, Prof. Nason tells of plans that do work.

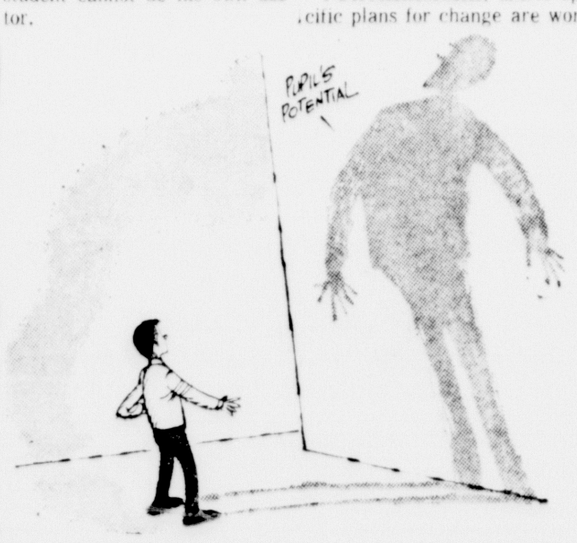

By LESLIE J. NASON
University Southern California

Getting an underachiever to improve his scholarship and approach his potential more closely has long baffled not only parents but educators.

It is, in fact, the most frustrating of all problems for parents concerned with rearing children in this complex, modern age.

Students themselves cannot prescribe for their own deficiencies since they cannot recognize their own troubles, much less determine the course of action to bring about improvement.

The very fact that his own methods produce unsatisfactory results is an indication that the student cannot be his own doctor.

Unless someone helps him bring about a change he will probably continue working below his capacity year after year.

FURTHERMORE, unless specific plans for change are worked out with the student and are accepted by him, there will be little chance of change.

Over the years, I often have been called on to help such students. What my methods were depended upon the problem of the individual. Some merely need to polish already established procedures to make them more satisfactory; some must plan entirely new programs of study.

Persons who want to help students must first clear their own minds of misconceptions regarding the improvement of scholarship.

It is not a matter of:

. . . Inspiring a student to work harder. He doesn't see any reason to expend more energy when his present efforts are not bringing satisfactory results. He doesn't know what else to try!

. . . The student being lazy. I know some students do appear

Traffic's Toll Eases In Ohio

By The Associated Press

The pace was deadly, but not nearly so tragic as the other four weekends this month.

A steady stream of single-fatality traffic accidents during the weekend had left at least 18 persons dead by the time the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday ended Sunday midnight.

The death toll was far short of similar October periods when 28 persons died during each of the first three weekends. Then the toll took a slight dip last weekend to 26.

There was at least one accident which claimed two lives and that was in central Ohio on Sunday.

The deaths since Saturday:

Saturday

Daniel C. Bowser, 20, Akron, whose auto collided head-on with a tractor-trailer on Ohio 43 north of Kent.

Rebecca Nelson, 4 Batavia, when an auto driven by her father collided with a pickup truck at a junction near Batavia.

Lawrence Griffin, 51, Perry, Lake County, whose car wrecked after striking a driveway marker along a Cleveland thoroughfare.

Ronald Carter, 28, Youngstown, in a two-car collision on Youngstown's Mahoning-Market expressway.

Gilbert D. Kendall, 8, Portsmouth, when he ran into the path of a car at a Portsmouth intersection while Halloweening.

Gregory Scott Fetty, 7, East Liverpool, when he darted into the path of a car near his home.

James Haws, 14, Rt. 2, Amherst, when he fell from a farm wagon on a Lorain County road.

Sunday

William M. Jones, 31, Columbus, and James R. Lett, 29, Delaware, in a two-car collision on U. S. 23 north of Worthington.

Buford Hill, 61, Cleveland, in a two-car collision on Cleveland's East Side.

Gary Bonnell, 20, Cleveland, in a two-car crash on Cleveland's East Side.

David Miller, 17, Cuyahoga Falls, when the motor scooter he was riding was struck by a train in Cuyahoga Falls.

Herbert Grover, 17, Port Clinton, when his auto collided with another in Port Clinton.

Erwin M. Ahearn, 62, Springfield, in a two-car collision in Canal Winchester.

Dale Ireland, 33, Swanton, when his motorcycle and a car collided near the Lucas-Fulton county line.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Halloween, Oct. 31, the 304th day of 1966. There are 61 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1517, Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses against the doctrine of indulgences on the chapel door at Wittenberg, Germany.

On this date:

In 1674, Dutch forces evacuated New York City.

In 1754, a royal charter was granted to King's College, known today as Columbia.

In 1864, Nevada was admitted to the Union as the 36th state.

In 1942, the Nazi Luftwaffe bombed the business district of the historic English city of Canterbury.

In 1943, the Moscow conference of foreign ministers ended with a declaration calling for the establishment of a general international organization to maintain peace and security.

Ten years ago — Despite a protest from President Eisenhower, both Britain and France intervened in the hot Israeli-Egyptian dispute in the Middle East.

Five years ago — Soviet Premier Khrushchev proposed a memorial be built in Moscow to commemorate the victims of the Stalin purges. Khrushchev spoke at the final session of the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress in the Soviet capital.

One year ago—Reports from South Viet Nam had it that incorrect map directions from South Vietnamese ground troops sent two U.S. warplanes into an attack on a friendly village in which 48 civilians were killed.

Driver Waiting Light Stabbed With Lance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jacob Susselman told police he was in his car waiting for a traffic light to change Sunday when a man wearing a sheet as a toga and blue and white paint on his face speared him in the arm with a six-foot lance.

The painted man then retrieved his lance and disappeared, Susselman said.

A few minutes later officers booked Alvin Paul Ingram, 22, of West Hollywood, on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

Officers said they found him standing at a nearby corner — holding a lance. Susselman, of Hollywood, was slightly injured.

In 14-Hour Campaign Tour

Ted Kennedy Gives Aid To Ohio Democratic Slate

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)— Sen Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy took up the torch for Ohio Democratic candidates in a 14-hour campaign tour Sunday and got right into the swing of things, contributing more than his share of snipes at the state Republican administation.

In fiery airport speeches at Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Akron-Canton, Cleveland and Toledo, the 34-year-old Massachusetts Democrat showed an unusual grasp of the issues on which the party's gubernatorial candidate has been waging his campaign.

He joined State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. in speaking on Ohio education, highway safety, pollution, and plugged for Democratic congressional candidates in 10 of the state's 24 districts.

Kennedy also took off on his own, chiding Republican Gov James A. Rhodes for refusing to debate Reams early in the gubernatorial campaign and for failing to provide adequate state funds for secondary education.

"Ohio ranks 46th out of the 50 states in money spent on education," Kennedy charged at Toledo. "I know how bad that really is, too," he went on, "because my own state ranks 50th."

"But then we have a Republican governor too," he added as the partisan, sign-waiving crowd roared.

After the first few stops, Reams let Kennedy do most of the talking.

It was the handsome young brother of the late president the crowds had come to see — and Reams knew it.

"It is one of my greatest ambitions," Reams joked, "to one day stand on a platform such as this with Senator Kennedy and have people ask: 'who is that standing up there next to Frazier?'"

Kennedy warmed up each of his audiences with jokes about his brother Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y. The crowds, larger than had been expected, according to Democratic officials, cheered their approval.

Then Kennedy, introduced twice as a future president of the United States, would turn serious.

"We must keep Democratic congressmen who know and understand the needs of their districts and who are respected by their colleagues," he said.

The senator made this point in Cincinnati, where he campaigned for re-election of Rep. John J. Gilligan; Dayton, where he spoke for Rep. Rodney Love; Cleveland, where he backed Reps. Michael Feighan and Charles Vanik, and here, where six-term Rep. Thomas Ashley seeks re-election.

In five districts where Democrats are trying to unseat Republicans or where there is no incumbent, Kennedy changed his tactics, calling for election of "men looking to the future."

"What was good enough years ago is no longer good enough," Kennedy said in pushing for election of Robert Shamansky and Robert Van Heyde in Columbus, Robert Freeman and Charles Madden at Akron-Canton and Anthony Calabrese Jr. and Sheldon Clark in Cleveland.

The day-long tour began before 9 a.m.—prompting Kennedy to call on everyone to depart for church and "pray for victory"—before an estimated 400 to 500 persons in a hanger at Cincinnati Lunken Airport.

The tour winged to Dayton and a crowd of about 200, smallest of the day by far. In Columbus, with a turnout estimated at 500, Kennedy was almost mobbed by fans trying to shake his hand.

The mob scene was repeated when about 2,000 persons in Cleveland's Burke Lakefront Airport prompted security men to order Kennedy's return to the safety of his plane.

Largest turnout, nearly 2,500, was at Akron-Canton Airport.

In each case, many of the fans were teen-agers.

"Kennedy for President" read literally hundreds of signs seen throughout the day. Some persons, questioned as to which Kennedy their signs referred, said "either one." Many signs pushed for "Bobby" by name, others for "Teddy".

Shapp Given Support In Beaver Event

BEAVER FALLS — A crowd of 780 attended the annual Beaver County Democrat dinner Saturday night at the Brodhead Hotel during which Peter Flaharty, Pittsburgh Councilman, spoke in the absence of Milton Shapp, gubernatorial candidate, who was ill with influenza.

Flaharty declared the Democratic party is "100 per cent behind Shapp" in the election. He also referred to Shapp's stand on public education and the need to improve the educational program in Pennsylvania.

Kay Kluz, director of District 20, United Steelworkers of America, said "Shapp is not an alarmist about the state's needs, he is a realist, and has made people aware of the problems in education instead of leaving them swept under a rug."

Rhodes Stresses Plants' Job Gain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that Ohio "not only has caught up but has outdistanced the national growth rate" in manufacturing jobs.

In a prepared statement, he said Ohio, in the past 30 months, had an increase in factory jobs of 6.4 per cent—compared to a national increase of 5.1 per cent.

Rhodes said "This is in sharp contrast to figures for 1960-1962 when employment was at a low ebb. Ohio lost 46,000 manufacturing jobs in 1961 and 1962, while such jobs increased nationally by 3 per cent."

Rhodes, Reams Take Battle To Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes and his opponent for re-election will concentrate their homestretch campaigning this week where the most votes are—Cleveland.

The GOP incumbent is scheduled to tour Cleveland and its suburbs Tuesday, after spending today in Cincinnati. Saturday Rhodes and his rival, Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, get together for what apparently will be their only face-to-face meeting of the race—a debate at the Cleveland City Club.

In 14-Hour Campaign Tour

Ted Kennedy Gives Aid To Ohio Democratic Slate

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)— Sen Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy took up the torch for Ohio Democratic candidates in a 14-hour campaign tour Sunday and got right into the swing of things, contributing more than his share of snipes at the state Republican administation.

In fiery airport speeches at Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Akron-Canton, Cleveland and Toledo, the 34-year-old Massachusetts Democrat showed an unusual grasp of the issues on which the party's gubernatorial candidate has been waging his campaign.

He joined State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. in speaking on Ohio education, highway safety, pollution, and plugged for Democratic congressional candidates in 10 of the state's 24 districts.

Kennedy also took off on his own, chiding Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes for refusing to debate Reams early in the gubernatorial campaign and for failing to provide adequate state funds for secondary education.

"Ohio ranks 46th out of the 50 states in money spent on education," Kennedy charged at Toledo. "I know how bad that really is, too," he went on, "because my own state ranks 50th."

"But then we have a Republican governor too," he added as the partisan, sign-waiving crowd roared.

After the first few stops, Reams let Kennedy do most of the talking.

It was the handsome young brother of the late president the crowds had come to see — and Reams knew it.

"It is one of my greatest ambitions," Reams joked, "to one day stand on a platform such as this with Senator Kennedy and have people ask: 'who is that standing up there next to Frazier?'"

Kennedy warmed up each of his audiences with jokes about his brother Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y. The crowds, larger than had been expected, according to Democratic officials, cheered their approval.

Then Kennedy, introduced twice as a future president of the United States, would turn serious.

"We must keep Democratic congressmen who know and understand the needs of their districts and who are respected by their colleagues," he said.

The senator made this point in Cincinnati, where he campaigned for re-election of Rep. John J. Gilligan; Dayton, where he spoke for Rep. Rodney Love; Cleveland, where he backed Reps. Michael Feighan and Charles Vanik, and here, where six-term Rep. Thomas Ashley seeks re-election.

In five districts where Democrats are trying to unseat Republicans or where there is no incumbent, Kennedy changed his tactics, calling for election of "men looking to the future."

"What was good enough years ago is no longer good enough," Kennedy said in pushing for election of Robert Shamansky and Robert Van Heyde in Columbus, Robert Freeman and Charles Madden at Akron-Canton and Anthony Calabrese Jr. and Sheldon Clark in Cleveland.

The day-long tour began before 9 a.m.—prompting Kennedy to call on everyone to depart for church and "pray for victory"—before an estimated 400 to 500 persons in a hanger at Cincinnati Lunken Airport.

The tour winged to Dayton and a crowd of about 200, smallest of the day by far. In Columbus, with a turnout estimated at 500, Kennedy was almost mobbed by fans trying to shake his hand.

The mob scene was repeated when about 2,000 persons in Cleveland's Burke Lakefront Airport prompted security men to order Kennedy's return to the safety of his plane.

Largest turnout, nearly 2,500, was at Akron-Canton Airport.

In each case, many of the fans were teen-agers.

"Kennedy for President" read literally hundreds of signs seen throughout the day. Some persons, questioned as to which Kennedy their signs referred, said "either one." Many signs pushed for "Bobby" by name, others for "Teddy".

Shapp Given Support In Beaver Event

BEAVER FALLS — A crowd of 780 attended the annual Beaver County Democrat dinner Saturday night at the Brodhead Hotel during which Peter Flaharty, Pittsburgh Councilman, spoke in the absence of Milton Shapp, gubernatorial candidate, who was ill with influenza.

Flaharty declared the Democratic party is "100 per cent behind Shapp" in the election. He also referred to Shapp's stand on public education and the need to improve the educational program in Pennsylvania.

Kay Kluz, director of District 20, United Steelworkers of America, said "Shapp is not an alarmist about the state's needs, he is a realist, and has made people aware of the problems in education instead of leaving them swept under a rug."

Rhodes Stresses Plants' Job Gain

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that Ohio "not only has caught up but has outdistanced the national growth rate" in manufacturing jobs.

In a prepared statement, he said Ohio, in the past 30 months, had an increase in factory jobs of 6.4 per cent—compared to a national increase of 5.1 per cent.

Rhodes said "This is in sharp contrast to figures for 1960-1962 when employment was at a low ebb. Ohio lost 46,000 manufacturing jobs in 1961 and 1962, while such jobs increased nationally by 3 per cent."

Rhodes, Reams Take Battle To Cleveland

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes and his opponent for re-election will concentrate their homestretch campaigning this week where the most votes are—Cleveland.

The GOP incumbent is scheduled to tour Cleveland and its suburbs Tuesday, after spending today in Cincinnati. Saturday Rhodes and his rival, Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, get together for what apparently will be their only face-to-face meeting of the race—a debate at the Cleveland City Club.

Rhodes' Opponent Floundering

Frazier Reams, the Democratic candidate for governor, is so frightfully short of issues in his campaign to unseat incumbent Gov. Jim Rhodes that in making a campaign promise he has struck at one of his own basic weaknesses.

In Cleveland recently, Mr. Reams, in the tradition of aspiring political candidates, pledged himself to something his record in office does not support when he said, "Ohio needs a full-time governor."

The facts speak for themselves. In his four years in the Ohio Senate, Mr. Reams has been anything but a full-time senator, even though the Ohio Assembly is in regular session only about six months every two years.

During the period of his incumbency, he has missed 388 of 2,083 roll calls for an average absentee record of 18.6 per cent.

He started out well enough in the 1963 session of the 105th General Assembly, with an absenteeism of only 8 per cent.

But in the 1964 special session, missed roll calls skyrocketed to 34 per cent. They weren't much better in the 106th General Assembly in 1965 when the records showed 27.2 per cent absences.

With such a performance, how could any candidate stand before the voters of Ohio and, with a straight face, suggest he would be a full-time governor?

What makes his position even weaker is the fact that of all Ohio governors of our recollection Jim Rhodes has been the most active, the most energetic, the most dedicated to the duties of his office.

He has taken care of his homework in the Statehouse at Columbus. He has sold the virtues of Ohio at home and abroad and has moved out among the people in the most remote stretches of the state to feel the pulse and take the reading of the aspirations of the constituents he represents.

The contrived stream of issues which the Democratic candidate has tried to expand into a rapids has run so shallow that about all he can think of is more money for education and welfare.

Support for these causes is not the exclusive motivation of either political party, but all politicians who expound the need for increased appropriations for this or that worthy cause must ultimately come face to face with one ugly fact of life—increased taxes.

We don't recall Mr. Reams ever having mentioned anything about new taxes. He has contemplated well the consequences of any such program.

New taxes may be needed and may be voted by the 107th General Assembly. Gov. Rhodes has left himself a free hand by not renewing his 1962 pledge against increased taxes.

His first job, which he has accomplished with sound fiscal management, was to eliminate an inherited debt, restore the state treasury to solvency and create a surplus conducive to maneuverability.

If the need for more funds can be amply demonstrated, they will be forthcoming. But the people of Ohio can be sure the Rhodes administration will never engage in a free-spending spree.

A Worthy Cause

Because of the foresight and generosity of a local resident, higher education is within the reach of additional deserving students at East Liverpool High School.

Mrs. Carrie Metz Harper, who died Oct. 19 at the age of 89, left the bulk of her $366,000 estate as a scholarship fund for graduates here.

One can have only the greatest respect and admiration for such a person.

Mrs. Harper could not have put her estate to a more useful purpose. Her memory will be perpetuated by the students fortunate enough and deserving enough to reap the rewards of her generosity and thoughtfulness.

That 1956 Attack On Egypt

One of those "days that will live in infamy" happened 10 years ago when an Anglo-French-Israeli attack on Egypt shocked the Western World and gave the lie to the peacekeeping proposals in the United Nations Charter.

Everything about the attack at the time was mysterious — the role of British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, the existence of an international conspiracy, the propriety of military action to enforce a policy of private ownership of the Suez Canal.

Nor was it clear then that the incident had been precipitated earlier when U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles angrily cut off discussions with Egypt about the Aswan High Dam on the Nile.

Egyptian President Famal Abdel Nasser thereupon said he intended to nationalize the Suez Canal and use toll fees to reimburse its private owners. This led to the October crisis.

Now, a decade later, the mystery has been cleared away. The British Parliament, never inclined to be hasty about anything, may even find time one day to discuss what really happened. Christian Pineau, who was French foreign minister 10 years ago, has admitted there was a three-way treaty to act against Egypt.

Fortunately, the United Nations demanded a cease-fire and got it.

Fortunately, a U.N. emergency force was dispatched promptly — and fortunately the Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal has been more than adequate.

But unfortunately the incident destroyed whatever confidence Egyptians ever had in the Western Powers. The only prestige salvaged out of the mess belonged to Egyptian President Nasser, who saved not only the Suez Canal but the Aswan Dam and Egypt's territorial integrity.

Visit Schools

With a controversial 3.5-mill levy on the Nov. 8 ballot and an extensive building program moving into high gear, the observance of American Education Week takes on an added significance in the East Liverpool School District.

Schools have become such an integral part of our every-day life that the more we know about them the better equipped we will be to comment on and attempt to solve in the best possible manner the many issues which go with their operation.

Special visitation programs have been prepared at the various buildings. These suggestions may help you get the most out of the "week";

Talk with teachers and school administrators and arrange a conference if there are specific questions that cannot be answered during the open house period.

Observe the textbooks and instructional materials that are displayed to see how education has changed in the last few years.

Pass along any deserved compliments or thanks to the teacher, principal or other staff members.

Percy's View Of The Future

Six years have passed since Charles H. Percy of Illinois came to attention for his views about national and international problems. He was chairman of the Republican Convention's platform committee in 1960.

Some of the thoughts that earned acclaim for him then are presented again in "The Republican Future," in the current edition of Saturday Review. The magazine is publishing "position papers" by leading political thinkers, as it did in the latest presidential campaign.

He wants the party to forget its ideological obsessions and bickerings and leave those to the Democrats.

He wants it to offer workable alternatives to the Democratic theories that have proved unworkable.

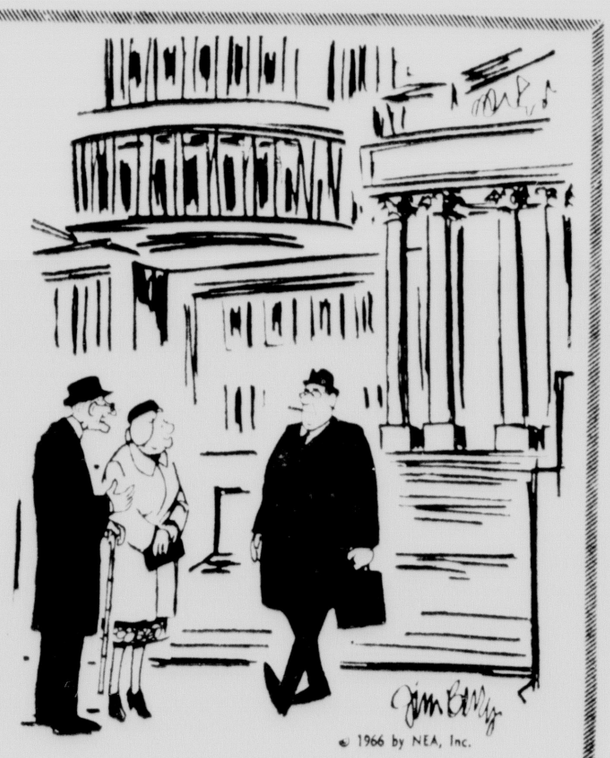

He thinks Republicans should bear down on urban problems. He thinks the party should concentrate on improvement of conditions for individuals, in contrast with Democratic programs designed for masses.

"If our responses are sensible and sensitive," he declares, "if we will forget our liberal-conservative obsessions and devise solutions that are responsible and realistic — if we do these things, we can regain the confidence of the American people. If we do not, we are doomed to minority status, and we would deserve nothing more."

Mr. Percy's bright example is Mayor John V. Lindsay in New York. "What he is doing for the Republican party is almost as important as what he is doing for New York," is the Percy summation. "He is proving in dramatic fashion that Republicans care about people — about people who live in cities, about poor people, about people who are not white. Millions of Republicans, including many party leaders, share these concerns."

The Great Unknown

Medics Are Politicking

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

After suffering a defeat at the hands of congress over Medicare, American physicians are taking an active interest in the political campaigns this year. The Wall Street Journal reports many are not only distributing literature in their waiting rooms (mostly Republican and conservative pamphlets), but the doctors also are going out ringing doorbells. This display of political action is having varied results.

Art Buchwald

Just the other day my friend Block received a call from his physican in Maryland and the doctor asked if he might stop over and discuss the elections with Block at his home.

"I'm sorry," Block replied gleefully, "I never let doctors make house calls."

The physician persisted and Block finally said, "Wait a minute, I just had a cancellation. You can come over and see me at 6 o'clock on Friday night."

The doctor showed up exactly on the hour. But when he rang the doorbell, Mrs. Block answered it. She led him into the living room and handed him a copy of a 1964 National Geographic.

"Please make yourself comfortable," Mrs. Block said. "My husband will be with you as soon as he can."

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES later Mrs. Block returned and said, "Mr. Block will see you now."

Block was seated behind his desk in the library. "Sorry about keeping you waiting, Doctor," he said, "but I just had an emergency. Now what seems to be the trouble?"

"I came to discuss with you the local election situation."

"Hmmnn, I see," Block said, taking out his fountain pen. "Now let me get some background first."

"Background?"

"Yes. Have you had any political problems in the family? Mother, father, grandparents, sisters, brothers?"

"Not that I know of," the doctor said, completely bewildered.

"When did you first start feeling you had to go out and do something about the elections?"

"As soon as Medicare was passed. I said I was not going to see this country go down the socialist rat hole of Europe."

"Are you getting enough sleep?" Block asked.

"Of course I'm getting enough sleep. Now if you'll just let me explain to you the position of my candidate."

"Not so fast, Doctor. We'll get to that in due time. I notice you seem to smoke a lot. How many cigarettes do you smoke a day?"

A pack a day. What has that got to due with what we're talking about.

"I have to get the whole picture," Block replied. "I also note you're overweight. Is that a drinking problem or a will power problem?"

"A little of both. Dammit, Block, are you going to let me talk to you about the campaign or not?"

"Follow my pen with your eye. Doctor. Hmmnn. Now try to touch your toes. Hmmnn. All right, now open your mouth wide."

THE DOCTOR WAS becoming furious. "Block, I'm a busy man, but I've decided to devote several hours to getting the right people elected to Congress."

"All right," Block said. "Now take off your shirt and we'll have a close look."

"What for?"

"I just want to see if in your heart you know you're right."

"Okay, Block, it's obvious you're not interested in hearing the other side. I'm sorry I bothered you."

"Just a minute Doctor — that will be $10."

"Ten dollars! This is an outrage!"

"Listen, if I had to go to your house to discuss politics I would have charged you $20. You're lucky I could see you at home."

History And Charles De Gaulle

By Endre Marton

WASHINGTON

To understand Charles de Gaulle you should leaf back through history. It may help, though you may not understand him even then.

This is the advice one gets from Washington policymakers trying to explain the French president's press conference statement last Friday. What he said was hardly new, but the way he said it was more impatient, more acid than before.

Students of history dismiss the simplification that whatever De Gaulle says or does, his motive is to spite his allies. His motive is much nobler: for decades he tried to play the part of a mediator between East and West, the two blocs superior to France in power, but inferior, he believes, in historical experience.

THE YOUNGER generation cautions against the myth of historical experience. Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach said in a speech the other day that there is danger in "holding too fast to the lessons of experience and believing too certainly that they were right." De Gaulle is 75, Katzenbach 44.

De Gaulle said the United States cannot win the war in Viet Nam. But in De Gaulle's vocabulary there is only one kind of victory: The annihilation of the enemy. He appears not to grasp that the United States has no such ambition in Viet Nam.

Those annoyed by him today should find comfort in reading records of the war years when President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill were frustrated by De Gaulle's dreams of grandeur for himself and his country.

"De Gaulle is impossible," Churchill complained to Secretary of State Cordell Hull in May, 1943. "I am completely disgusted by him."

"De Gaulle may be a good man, but he has a Messianic complex," wrote Roosevelt to Churchill in May, 1943. One month later he added: "I am fed up with De Gaulle. I agree with you that the time has come for us to part company with him."

"It is impossible to trust De Gaulle's friendship," replied Churchill in June. But, he advised, "We cannot forget that he joined us in the darkest hours and that he tried to carry on the struggle against the Germans. The man is impossible, but one must take those facts into account."

DE GAULLE was aware of what his partners thought of him; therefore he always had to be on the alert. He was either defensive or offensive and seldom agreed with neither of them. He did not change in this respect.

Yet even his bitter critics grudgingly accept him as the living symbol of French greatness. He appeared in French history at a time when France was undergoing a fearsome process of aging and he twice pulled the country back onto its feet.

De Gaulle is an aging man. American policy planners ask: Is the regime founded by the general a Gaullist one or merely De Gaulle's? Is Gaullism the work of one man, or is it a coherent doctrine which will survive him?

This 'n That

The largest library in the world is the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. Founded April 24, 1800, latest estimate is that it contains 43,526,600 items, including 13,139,400 books and pamphlets. The two buildings cover six acres and comprise 270 miles of book shelves.

Man really has seven senses, instead of the traditional five, according to some students of the subject. In addition to the five senses of sight, smell, hearing, touch and taste, these people now add the senses of resistance and temperature.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

If your house is on fire, your only alternative is to quickly call the fire department in the hope of saving your home.

The East Liverpool District public school system is faced with a comparable situation in regards to its teaching personnel and must call upon the voters to solve this problem.

The alarming shortage of public school teachers over the country makes it imperative that they have a salary schedule for their teachers comparable and competitive with other school systems.

This shortage of school teachers is a fact. The city of Detroit reports a shortage of 1,000 teachers at this time in its system. Communities that are striving to have the best trained teachers are combing the country for recruits, offering them attractive salaries.

If East Liverpool desires quality teachers, then it must make their positions equally attractive. A school system that is forced to operate with undergraduate teachers cannot expect to do as good a job of educating their children.

A COMMUNITY in New Jersey, of comparable size to East Liverpool, offers its graduate teachers from $1,000 to $2,500 more than the scale of wages our teachers are receiving with their current raise.

The New Jersey system also pays, in part, the tuition costs of teachers working on advance degrees. They do not hire non-graduate teachers and insist on their teachers devoting their full time to their profession.

To keep and obtain more topflight teachers, East Liverpool must face up to its current dilemma. Ohio law provides that any financial assistance for school operation obtained from property taxes over a 10-mill limitation must be approved by public vote.

All states do not have this legislation, so it is the duty of each voter in Ohio to accept this responsibility for his own school district and help provide for its financial needs.

At this time, the East Liverpool district schools need a small levy of 3.5 mills to maintain their present salary schedule and restore cutbacks that were placed in effect this school year.

This means that you would pay $3.50 for each $1,000 valuation of property. This levy will not be a hardship on the majority. And if it does mean some sacrifice, you will have the satisfaction that your money will be used for a worthwhile purpose.

NOW IS NOT the time for petty and personal grievances against the administration or the Board of Education to stand in the way of creating a school system that can rank among the best.

This writer was a member of the East Liverpool District Board of Education during the building program in the 1950's. He urges you to face up to this present responsibility and not be like a lady to whom he talked during that previous building program. Upon requesting her support, her reply was, "My only child graduated last year so I no longer have an interest in the public schools."

Remember Nov. 8 is the day of decision. East Liverpool is a good place to live and all of us should do all we can to keep it that way.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

This is one thing I have always wanted to know: Why was East Liverpool not included in the poverty program of the president? It is an awful depressed area.

Now, to make matters worse, we are being threatened, and it amounts to blackmail, to vote for a 3.5-mill levy against our homes. What fool would vote to make his taxes higher?

Do we have to be put out into the streets to fill teacher's pockets? They work nine months at a good salary. We don't have to pay for their education. It was paid for before they became teachers. We don't owe them a living. We have a hard time getting a living ourselves.

Rhodes' Opponent Floundering

Frazier Reams, the Democratic candidate for governor, is so frightfully short of issues in his campaign to unseat incumbent Gov. Jim Rhodes that in making a campaign promise he has struck at one of his own basic weaknesses.

In Cleveland recently, Mr. Reams, in the tradition of aspiring political candidates, pledged himself to something his record in office does not support when he said, "Ohio needs a full-time governor."

The facts speak for themselves. In his four years in the Ohio Senate, Mr. Reams has been anything but a full-time senator, even though the Ohio Assembly is in regular session only about six months every two years.

During the period of his incumbency, he has missed 388 of 2,083 roll calls for an average absentee record of 18.6 per cent.

He started out well enough in the 1963 session of the 105th General Assembly, with an absenteeism of only 8 per cent.

But in the 1964 special session, missed roll calls skyrocketed to 34 per cent. They weren't much better in the 106th General Assembly in 1965 when the records showed 27.2 per cent absences.

With such a performance, how could any candidate stand before the voters of Ohio and, with a straight face, suggest he would be a full-time governor?

What makes his position even weaker is the fact that of all Ohio governors of our recollection Jim Rhodes has been the most active, the most energetic, the most dedicated to the duties of his office.

He has taken care of his homework in the Statehouse at Columbus. He has sold the virtues of Ohio at home and abroad and has moved out among the people in the most remote stretches of the state to feel the pulse and take the reading of the aspirations of the constituents he represents.

The contrived stream of issues which the Democratic candidate has tried to expand into a rapids has run so shallow that about all he can think of is more money for education and welfare.

Support for these causes is not the exclusive motivation of either political party, but all politicians who expound the need for increased appropriations for this or that worthy cause must ultimately come face to face with one ugly fact of life—increased taxes.

We don't recall Mr. Reams ever having mentioned anything about new taxes. He has contemplated well the consequences of any such program.

New taxes may be needed and may be voted by the 107th General Assembly. Gov. Rhodes has left himself a free hand by not renewing his 1962 pledge against increased taxes.

His first job, which he has accomplished with sound fiscal management, was to eliminate an inherited debt, restore the state treasury to solvency and create a surplus conducive to maneuverability.

If the need for more funds can be amply demonstrated, they will be forthcoming. But the people of Ohio can be sure the Rhodes administration will never engage in a free-spending spree.

A Worthy Cause

Because of the foresight and generosity of a local resident, higher education is within the reach of additional deserving students at East Liverpool High School.

Mrs. Carrie Metz Harper, who died Oct. 19 at the age of 89, left the bulk of her $366,000 estate as a scholarship fund for graduates here.

One can have only the greatest respect and admiration for such a person.

Mrs. Harper could not have put her estate to a more useful purpose. Her memory will be perpetuated by the students fortunate enough and deserving enough to reap the rewards of her generosity and thoughtfulness.

That 1956 Attack On Egypt

One of those "days that will live in infamy" happened 10 years ago when an Anglo-French-Israeli attack on Egypt shocked the Western World and gave the lie to the peacekeeping proposals in the United Nations Charter.

Everything about the attack at the time was mysterious — the role of British Prime Minister Anthony Eden, the existence of an international conspiracy, the propriety of military action to enforce a policy of private ownership of the Suez Canal.

Nor was it clear then that the incident had been precipitated earlier when U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles angrily cut off discussions with Egypt about the Aswan High Dam on the Nile.

Egyptian President Famal Abdel Nasser thereupon said he intended to nationalize the Suez Canal and use toll fees to reimburse its private owners. This led to the October crisis.

Now, a decade later, the mystery has been cleared away. The British Parliament, never inclined to be hasty about anything, may even find time one day to discuss what really happened. Christian Pineau, who was French foreign minister 10 years ago, has admitted there was a three-way treaty to act against Egypt.

Fortunately, the United Nations demanded a cease-fire and got it.

Fortunately, a U.N. emergency force was dispatched promptly — and fortunately the Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal has been more than adequate.

But unfortunately the incident destroyed whatever confidence Egyptians ever had in the Western Powers. The only prestige salvaged out of the mess belonged to Egyptian President Nasser, who saved not only the Suez Canal but the Aswan Dam and Egypt's territorial integrity.

Visit Schools

With a controversial 3.5-mill levy on the Nov. 8 ballot and an extensive building program moving into high gear, the observance of American Education Week takes on an added significance in the East Liverpool School District.

Schools have become such an integral part of our every-day life that the more we know about them the better equipped we will be to comment on and attempt to solve in the best possible manner the many issues which go with their operation.

Special visitation programs have been prepared at the various buildings. These suggestions may help you get the most out of the "week";

Talk with teachers and school administrators and arrange a conference if there are specific questions that cannot be answered during the open house period.

Observe the textbooks and instructional materials that are displayed to see how education has changed in the last few years.

Pass along any deserved compliments or thanks to the teacher, principal or other staff members.

Percy's View Of The Future

Six years have passed since Charles H. Percy of Illinois came to attention for his views about national and international problems. He was chairman of the Republican Convention's platform committee in 1960.

Some of the thoughts that earned acclaim for him then are presented again in "The Republican Future," in the current edition of Saturday Review. The magazine is publishing "position papers" by leading political thinkers, as it did in the latest presidential campaign.

He wants the party to forget its ideological obsessions and bickerings and leave those to the Democrats.

He wants it to offer workable alternatives to the Democratic theories that have proved unworkable.

He thinks Republicans should bear down on urban problems. He thinks the party should concentrate on improvement of conditions for individuals, in contrast with Democratic programs designed for masses.

"If our responses are sensible and sensitive," he declares, "if we will forget our liberal-conservative obsessions and devise solutions that are responsible and realistic — if we do these things, we can regain the confidence of the American people. If we do not, we are doomed to minority status, and we would deserve nothing more."

Mr. Percy's bright example is Mayor John V. Lindsay in New York. "What he is doing for the Republican party is almost as important as what he is doing for New York," is the Percy summation. "He is proving in dramatic fashion that Republicans care about people — about people who live in cities, about poor people, about people who are not white. Millions of Republicans, including many party leaders, share these concerns."

The Great Unknown

Medics Are Politicking

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

After suffering a defeat at the hands of congress over Medicare, American physicians are taking an active interest in the political campaigns this year. The Wall Street Journal reports many are not only distributing literature in their waiting rooms (mostly Republican and conservative pamphlets), but the doctors also are going out ringing doorbells. This display of political action is having varied results.

Art Buchwald

Just the other day my friend Block received a call from his physican in Maryland and the doctor asked if he might stop over and discuss the elections with Block at his home.

"I'm sorry," Block replied gleefully. "I never let doctors make house calls."

The physician persisted and Block finally said, "Wait a minute, I just had a cancellation. You can come over and see me at 6 o'clock on Friday night."

The doctor showed up exactly on the hour. But when he rang the doorbell, Mrs. Block answered it. She led him into the living room and handed him a copy of a 1964 National Geographic.

"Please make yourself comfortable," Mrs. Block said. "My husband will be with you as soon as he can."

FORTY-FIVE MINUTES later Mrs. Block returned and said, "Mr. Block will see you now."

Block was seated behind his desk in the library. "Sorry about keeping you waiting, Doctor," he said, "but I just had an emergency. Now what seems to be the trouble?"

"I came to discuss with you the local election situation."

"Hmmnn, I see," Block said, taking out his fountain pen. "Now let me get some background first."

"Background?"

"Yes. Have you had any political problems in the family? Mother, father, grandparents, sisters, brothers?"

"Not that I know of," the doctor said, completely bewildered.

"As soon as Medicare was passed I said I was not going to see this country go down the socialist rat hole of Europe."

"All right," Block said. "Now take off your shirt and we'll have a close look."

'Go-Go' Girl Murdered In Central Ohio

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Pretty Linda Marie Kohlmeier, a small town girl from a big family, left home to become a secretary — then a go-go girl.

She lost touch with her family about a month ago. They found her Sunday when her father identified her body at a morgue in Columbus. The body, clad in a dancing costume and a jacket, was found on a rural road near here at about dawn.

An autopsy disclosed that the 19-year-old girl died of a blow on the head but authorities said the weapon was not found immediately. "It definitely was a homicide," Deputy Sheriff Pat Dowdell said.

She was reported missing a month ago by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kohlmeier of Beach City, Ohio, a town of just over 1,000 population about 15 miles southwest of Canton in Stark County.

Lt. Louis Napier, a Stark County sheriff's department detective, who had been working on the search for Linda, 19, said Saturday, "I knew the family well. She was one of the finest kids I've ever known."

There were 11 children in the family, including one born last week. Linda was the oldest.

Knox County Sheriff Ralph Peairs said the girl reportedly had been living in the Mount Vernon area, in central Ohio, about six weeks and had danced at night spots in Columbus and Cincinnati, and at a bar here.

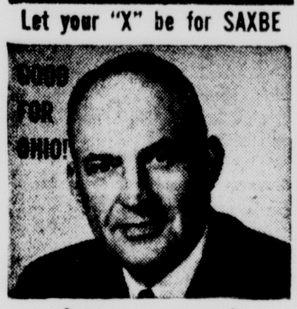

Peairs said witnesses told investigators that Miss Kohlmeier left the bar here after work Saturday night, went to a party and left the party alone to return home.

Her car was found at the farm home east of here where she roomed — about two miles from where the body was found.

A blonde wig was near the body, and although her head was covered with blood there was no blood on the wig, deputies said. A milk truck driver discovered the body.

Authorities in Stark County said Linda had lived in Canton and Massillon earlier this year, holding several secretarial jobs until her disappearance.

versed, I think Joe would come after me," Hulsey told news staff writer Kent Bifflev.

"We were framed on charges in which Gen. Kruel wanted to make a name for himself," Truhill said Sunday at a news conference. "He wanted control of the mining industries and the customs offices."

The three Americans appeared at the U.S. Customs station in Brownsville, Tex., Saturday after nearly nine months of detention at Brasilia, capital city of Brazil.

Truhill would not discuss details of the escape, saying only that it was engineered by the three prisoners and Mrs. Truhill, a trim, brunette pilot who once trained in vain to become a woman astronaut.

2 Area Men Injured In County Accidents

Two area men were injured in separate accidents investigated Sunday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

William A. Conkle, 38, of 1835 Dakota Ave. was hurt when his 1965 compact station wagon struck a concrete culvert on Township Rd. 1002, two and a half miles south of Route 45 yesterday at 4 p.m.

Officers said he was southbound when the vehicle went off the right side of the highway on a curve. It struck the culvert and then overturned.

Conkle was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the nose, contusions of the forehead and a bruise of the left leg. The station wagon was damaged extensively and the culvert was loosened, officers said.

Donald James Hoyt, 23, of the Echo Dell Trailer Court was injured when the motorcycle he was riding struck an embankment on Township Rd. 917, three and a half miles north of County Rd. 430 yesterday at 5 p.m.

Officers reported Hoyt was driving south when he lost control on the crest of a hill. The vehicle went off the road and struck an embankment. He was cited for driving left of center. He was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the shoulders and abrasions of the left shoulder.

A car operated by Edna J. Haught, 49, of Toronto R. D. 2 and a pickup truck driven by Paul F. Posey, 39, of Columbiana were involved in a collision Sunday at 5:13 p. m. on Route 164, three and six - tenths miles south of Columbiana.

Officers said the woman pulled onto Route 164 into the path of the truck.

Posey and a passenger, Arnold Lutton, 55, of Irondale were treated at Salem City Hospital for minor injuries. The woman was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

2 Aides Report On CAC Session Held At Chicago

LISBON — New approaches to aiding the economically deprived in Columbiana County were studied by two top officials of the county's Community Action Committee at a conference in Chicago last week.

Mrs. Helen Welch of Wellsville, president of the county CAC, and Miss Catherine Franzetta, director, attended the Great Lakes Region Conference at which Sergeant Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, spoke.

Shriver said more than 15,000 persons are serving voluntarily on the policy - making boards, "using their talents and energies to uplift the disadvantaged."

Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota make up the OEO's Great Lakes region — the first to call a conference.

Theodore Jones, regional director, said all agencies must substitute high priority programs for marginal ones. The following programs are designated high priorty until further notice, he said:

"Head Start," legal services, health services, multi - service neighborhood centers, Nelson - Schorr manpower (community beautification) projects, and supportive services to manpower projects — Neighborhood Youth Corps and the Job Corps.

Jones said 450 of the 524 counties in the Great Lakes Region, which has 6,500,000 poor people, had established community action agencies by June 30. "We have touched two million of the eight million reached nationally," he said.

Cousins Treated At Hospital When Auto Overturns

Two cousins left an overturned auto with only minor injuries after a wild ride on County Rt. 72 near Hammondsville Saturday afternoon.

State highway patrolmen from the Wintersville barracks said Shirley Rana Cronin, 16, of Hammondsville R. D. 1 swerved her westbound vehicle to the right in order to avoid an oncoming car and left the roadway, traveling 97 feet on the berm. She then re-entered the highway for 54 feet and left it again on the other side of the roadway.

Reports said the four - wheel drive auto traveled sideways for 51 feet, finally coming over to the right side of the road, where it rolled over.

The driver was released from City Hospital after treatment for a head laceration. Nine-year-old Debora Cronin, also of Hammondsville, was released after treatment of similar injuries.

Investigators cited Miss Cronin with using excessive speed for conditions.

'Go-Go' Girl Murdered In Central Ohio

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Pretty Linda Marie Kohlmeier, a small town girl from a big family, left home to become a secretary — then a go-go girl.

She lost touch with her family about a month ago. They found her Sunday when her father identified her body at a morgue in Columbus. The body, clad in a dancing costume and a jacket, was found on a rural road near here at about dawn.

An autopsy disclosed that the 19-year-old girl died of a blow on the head but authorities said the weapon was not found immediately. "It definitely was a homicide," Deputy Sheriff Pat Dowdell said.

She was reported missing a month ago by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kohlmeier of Beach City, Ohio, a town of just over 1,000 population about 15 miles southwest of Canton in Stark County.

Lt. Louis Napier, a Stark County sheriff's department detective, who had been working on the search for Linda, 19, said Saturday, "I knew the family well. She was one of the finest kids I've ever known."

There were 11 children in the family, including one born last week. Linda was the oldest.

Knox County Sheriff Ralph Pears said the girl reportedly had been living in the Mount Vernon area, in central Ohio, about six weeks and had danced at night spots in Columbus and Cincinnati, and at a bar here.

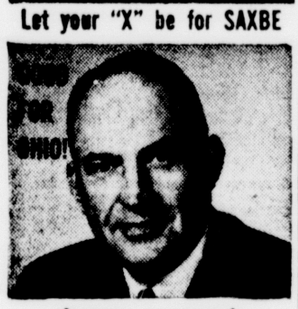

Pears said witnesses told investigators that Miss Kohlmeier left the bar here after work Saturday night, went to a party and left the party alone to return home.

Her car was found at the farm home east of here where she roomed — about two miles from where the body was found.

A blonde wig was near the body, and although her head was covered with blood there was no blood on the wig, deputies said. A milk truck driver discovered the body.

Authorities in Stark County said Linda had lived in Canton and Massillon earlier this year, holding several secretarial jobs until her disappearance.

versed, I think Joe would come after me," Hulsey told news staff writer Kent Biffley.

"We were framed on charges in which Gen. Kruel wanted to make a name for himself," Truhill said Sunday at a news conference. "He wanted control of the mining industries and the customs offices."

The three Americans appeared at the U.S. Customs station in Brownsville, Tex., Saturday after nearly nine months of detention at Brasilia, capital city of Brazil.

Truhill would not discuss details of the escape, saying only that it was engineered by the three prisoners and Mrs. Truhill, a trim, brunette pilot who once trained in vain to become a woman astronaut.

2 Area Men Injured In County Accidents

Two area men were injured in separate accidents investigated Sunday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said he was southbound when the vehicle went off the right side of the highway on a curve. It struck the culvert and then overturned.

Conkle was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the nose, contusions of the forehead and a bruise of the left leg. The station wagon was damaged extensively and the culvert was loosened, officers said.

Officers reported Hoyt was driving south when he lost control on the crest of a hill. The vehicle went off the road and struck an embankment. He was cited for driving left of center. He was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the shoulders and abrasions of the left shoulder.

A car operated by Edna J. Haught, 49, of Toronto R. D. 2 and a pickup truck driven by Paul F. Posey, 39, of Columbiana were involved in a collision Sunday at 5:13 p. m. on Route 164, three and six - tenths miles south of Columbiana.

2 Aides Report On CAC Session Held At Chicago

LISBON — New approaches to aiding the economically deprived in Columbiana County were studied by two top officials of the county's Community Action Committee at a conference in Chicago last week.

Mrs. Helen Welch of Wellsville, president of the county CAC, and Miss Catherine Franzetta, director, attended the Great Lakes Region Conference at which Sergeant Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, spoke.

Shriver said more than 15,000 persons are serving voluntarily on the policy - making boards, "using their talents and energies to uplift the disadvantaged."

Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota make up the OEO's Great Lakes region — the first to call a conference.

Theodore Jones, regional director, said all agencies must substitute high priority programs for marginal ones. The following programs are designated high priorty until further notice, he said:

"Head Start," legal services, health services, multi - service neighborhood centers, Nelson - Schorr manpower (community beautification) projects, and supportive services to manpower projects — Neighborhood Youth Corps and the Job Corps.

Jones said 450 of the 524 counties in the Great Lakes Region, which has 6,500,000 poor people, had established community action agencies by June 30. "We have touched two million of the eight million reached nationally," he said.

Cousins Treated At Hospital When Auto Overturns

Two cousins left an overturned auto with only minor injuries after a wild ride on County Rt. 72 near Hammondsville Saturday afternoon.

State highway patrolmen from the Wintersville barracks said Shirley Rana Cronin, 16, of Hammondsville R. D. 1 swerved her westbound vehicle to the right in order to avoid an oncoming car and left the roadway, traveling 97 feet on the berm. She then re-entered the highway for 54 feet and left it again on the other side of the roadway.

Reports said the four - wheel drive auto traveled sideways for 51 feet, finally coming over to the right side of the road, where it rolled over.

The driver was released from City Hospital after treatment for a head laceration. Nine-year-old Debora Cronin, also of Hammondsville, was released after treatment of similar injuries.

Investigators cited Miss Cronin with using excessive speed for conditions.

TODAY GIRL SCOUTS HONOR THEIR FOUNDER

We join Girl Scouts everywhere in paying tribute to their founder, Juliette Low. She was born today, October 31—in 1860.

In 1912, Juliette Low founded the Girl Scout movement in the United States. American girls rejoiced at the avenues Girl Scouting opened to them, and now over 3½ million Girl Scouts enjoy the legacy left them by this farseeing woman.

For the next three years, the theme will be "Values to Hold • Worlds to Explore," and Girl Scouts the world over will put it into action. This is part and parcel of Juliette Low's legacy, and we hope the movement continues its steady, fruitful growth.

TODAY GIRL SCOUTS HONOR THEIR FOUNDER

We join Girl Scouts everywhere in paying tribute to their founder, Juliette Low. She was born today, October 31—in 1860.

In 1912, Juliette Low founded the Girl Scout movement in the United States. American girls rejoiced at the avenues Girl Scouting opened to them, and now over 3½ million Girl Scouts enjoy the legacy left them by this farseeing woman.

For the next three years, the theme will be "Values to Hold • Worlds to Explore," and Girl Scouts the world over will put it into action. This is part and parcel of Juliette Low's legacy, and we hope the movement continues its steady, fruitful growth.

Blaze Continues In Brush, Woods

NEGLEY — A brush and woods fire along the Negley - Cannellton Rd. continued to burn today, but does not pose any immediate hazard to the Metropolitan Brick Co. plant across the roadway.

Fire Chief Don Mahon of Negley said the blaze began Saturday, possibly started by a small game hunter, and firemen from Negley, Darlington and South Beaver Townships in Pennsylvania have been keeping it under control.

Because of the dry leaves and underbrush, firemen are unable to extinguish the blaze, however, he said.

The brick plant is across the roadway and on a hill, about a quarter of a mile east of the Pennsylvania border.

2 Questions Remain For Sheppard Jury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two questions remain to be answered before preliminaries are concluded in the murder retrial of Samuel H. Sheppard, which resumes today after a weekend recess.

One question is whether the jury of eight men and four women selected last week will be locked up each night during the trial.

Common Pleas Court Judge Francis J. Talty must also decide if the trial will proceed at all — or if it will be moved outside Cleveland as requested by defense attorneys.

Attorney F. Lee Bailey, Sheppard's chief counsel, contends that a fair trial is impossible here because of the extensive news coverage the case has been given. Prejudicial news coverage was one of the factors cited by the federal courts in granting Sheppard a new trial in the 1954 slaying of his first wife, Marilyn.

Chicago Office Gets 'Workable Program'

The Chicago regional office of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has advised Mayor George E. Willshaw it has received a proposed "workable program" of community improvement submitted as the prelude to local applications for aid in such projects as low - cost housing and urban renewal.

The mayor was advised of receipt of the bulky program in a letter from John E. Kane, HUD acting assistant regional administrator for program coordination and services. Kane said a preliminary review indicates his office will be able to process the application, but if further technical information is required he will get in touch with the mayor.

Before being forwarded to Chicago, the city's "workable program" was cleared by the Ohio Development Department office in Columbus, the mayor said.

the United States will continue to play its part in providing that security. Here in Korea, our fighting men stand with your own along the demilitarized zone, and we shall come once more to your defense if aggression—God forbid—should occur once more."

The United States has 50,000 combat troops on the 151-mile armistice line along with 610,000 Koreans.

"I have come to express our gratitude for the brave and generous help you are giving to our common ally, Viet Nam — both on the battlefield and in rebuilding the countryside. This is the act of a nation that understands the nature of aggression and that knows what it means to have help in resisting that aggression."

South Korean President Chung Hee Park, who has sent 45,000 troops to Viet Nam, had waiting a variety of requests for aid, including $300 million for development projects, a guarantee of at least $200 million a year to support the South Korean army, and more orders for South Korean manufacturers to supply the forces in Viet Nam.

The vast outpouring of Koreans came as Johnson entered the last stage of his 17-day, 31,000-mile journey around the eastern rim of Communist China. He leaves for Washington Wednesday, stopping en route for nearly 12 hours in Anchorage, Alaska.

He flew to Korea from Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaysia, where he voiced a new warning to Communist China, the old foe of Korean War days. He said the Chinese Reds were inviting danger by development of nuclear-tipped missiles. He promised that the United States would offer protection against nuclear blackmail to nations that forego development of their own nuclear weapons.

His Malaysia stay was marred by anti-American riots in which one person was killed.

But South Korea, where the United States expended blood and money to resist Communist expansion a decade and a half ago, gave the President a completely enthusiastic welcome.

Johnson will spend 44 hours in Korea. He will visit with South Korean and American troops guarding the armistice line against the Communist North, talk with President Park and other leaders and attend a busy round of social events.

Blaze Continues In Brush, Woods

NEGLEY — A brush and woods fire along the Negley - Cannellton Rd. continued to burn today, but does not pose any immediate hazard to the Metropolitan Brick Co. plant across the roadway.

Fire Chief Don Mahon of Negley said the blaze began Saturday, possibly started by a small game hunter, and firemen from Negley, Darlington and South Beaver Townships in Pennsylvania have been keeping it under control.

Because of the dry leaves and underbrush, firemen are unable to extinguish the blaze, however, he said.

The brick plant is across the roadway and on a hill, about a quarter of a mile east of the Pennsylvania border.

2 Questions Remain For Sheppard Jury

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two questions remain to be answered before preliminaries are concluded in the murder retrial of Samuel H. Sheppard, which resumes today after a weekend recess.

One question is whether the jury of eight men and four women selected last week will be locked up each night during the trial.

Common Pleas Court Judge Francis J. Talty must also decide if the trial will proceed at all — or if it will be moved outside Cleveland as requested by defense attorneys.

Attorney F. Lee Bailey, Sheppard's chief counsel, contends that a fair trial is impossible here because of the extensive news coverage the case has been given. Prejudicial news coverage was one of the factors cited by the federal courts in granting Sheppard a new trial in the 1954 slaying of his first wife, Marilyn.

Hearing Planned On Check Charge

Acting Municipal Judge Robert A. Kapp today scheduled a preliminary hearing Nov. 7 for Richard A. Miles of Substation, accused of passing a fraudulent $80 check Oct. 13 on the Dresden Ave. market of Loblaw, Inc.

Miles was named in an affidavit signed by Gene Stockdale, store manager, alleging he issued the check on the Beaver Trust Co.'s Midland office "when he well knew he had no funds or credit with said bank."

Miles was served with a warrant Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Sid Boydston. When he was taken to court this morning, the acting judge commented that the case would be continued because Miles' counsel was unable to appear today. He set the appearance bond at $1,000.

Canon law is the body of law applicable to the church.

Man, 78, Struck By Midland Auto

Joseph Messe, 78, of 468 Midland Ave., Midland, was injured slightly when struck by an auto in front of the USW-CIO Local 1212 hall Sunday afternoon at 1:50.

Messe was in "good" condition today at Rochester General Hospital with lacerations of the left elbow and bruises of the left hip.

Midland police said Leonard J. Tepsic, 31, of 989 Ohio Ave., Midland, was the driver. Tepsic told officers he saw the pedestrian walking west on Midland Ave. and slowed down, when the man apparently walked in front of the car and was bumped.

The injured man first was taken to the Crucible Steel Co. Midland Works hospital, then transferred to the Rochester hospital by Tepsic.

Hearing Planned On Check Charge

Acting Municipal Judge Robert A. Kapp today scheduled a preliminary hearing Nov. 7 for Richard A. Miles of Substation, accused of passing a fraudulent $80 check Oct. 13 on the Dresden Ave. market of Loblaw, Inc.

Miles was named in an affidavit signed by Gene Stockdale, store manager, alleging he issued the check on the Beaver Trust Co.'s Midland office "when he well knew he had no funds or credit with said bank."

Miles was served with a warrant Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Sid Boydston. When he was taken to court this morning, the acting judge commented that the case would be continued because Miles' counsel was unable to appear today. He set the appearance bond at $1,000.

Man, 78, Struck By Midland Auto

Joseph Messe, 78, of 468 Midland Ave., Midland, was injured slightly when struck by an auto in front of the USW-CIO Local 1212 hall Sunday afternoon at 1:50.

Messe was in "good" condition today at Rochester General Hospital with lacerations of the left elbow and bruises of the left hip.

Midland police said Leonard J. Tepsic, 31, of 989 Ohio Ave., Midland, was the driver. Tepsic told officers he saw the pedestrian walking west on Midland Ave. and slowed down, when the man apparently walked in front of the car and was bumped.

The injured man first was taken to the Crucible Steel Co. Midland Works hospital, then transferred to the Rochester hospital by Tepsic.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

For Love—And Money

Victor Borge had lunch with movie maker Sam Goldwyn not long ago, and the latter said to the Danish funny man, "I saw you recently on TV and liked some of your comedy gags."

Hal Humphrey

Under his breath Borge mumbled to himself, "I wish you'd seen me 20 years ago when I needed you." During those 20 years Borge speaks of with a sardonic air, he has become one of the acknowledged greats in the comedy field and also wealthy from his own one-man shows and concert tours.

-:-

"BUT I'VE BEEN in only one movie, something called 'Higher and Higher' with Frank Sinatra years ago. I was an English nobleman, and I don't think anyone noticed me. Isn't that strange when you figure I can make the whole world laugh now by lifting an eyebrow?" adds Borge with feigned immodesty.

He needn't really feel so put down. That movie he refers to was made in 1943 and was also Sinatra's film debut. It was quite a few years before Hollywood beckoned the Voice back again.

"Joe Pasternak at MGM interviewed me once for a role as a sailor but wanted to know what I did. I asked him to come and see me perform but he wouldn't do it and I never got the part," recalls the forlorn Borge.

HIS VISIT to the Goldwyn lot and lunch with Sam was not for a movie role, but the result of Borge's being asked to play host for the Nov. 4 TV debut on ABC of Goldwyn's 1952 movie, "Hans Christian Andersen," starring Danny Kaye.

If Borge still feels slighted by the movie capital, his wound must be salved partially by his receiving $36,000 for taping 18 minutes of special introduction and intermission comments to go with "Hans Christian Andersen."

That comes to $2,000 per minute, which Borge can figure is considerably more than Kaye was paid to portray the Danish author of children's stories.

"Mr. Goldwyn was very gracious. He invited me to lunch so we could talk about the picture. He thought I should know something of its history before taping my introduction," Borge reports.

-:-

THE TACTFUL Borge did not bring up the fact that the Danish critics were less than kind to the movie when it played Denmark and environs. They saw no similarity between author Andersen and comedian Danny Kaye and also resented the fact that the story had virtually nothing to do with Andersen's life.

During the conversation with Goldwyn, Borge was told that the Hans Christian Andersen movie was based on one page of story from the late Moss Hart and and that Goldwyn himself did the rest.

"Well, now, that really doesn't matter, does it?" says Borge, reflectively, his right eyebrow lifting even higher than before. "I mean, after all, Mr. Goldwyn was out to make entertainment, and maybe Hans Christian Andersen's life was not so entertaining."

-:-

BORGE INVOLVED his two youngest children (Vebe, a boy of 12, and Rikke, a girl, 10) when ABC's color cameras were transported to his Connecticut home to tape his host part for the Goldwyn movie.

And through his offspring, Borge is able subtly to protect his Danish countryman and idol from some of the misunderstandings which the movie may have created.

At one point, for example, the Borge kids ask their father, "Does Danny Kaye look like Hans?" and in his offhand manner Borge naturally punctures any rumor that Kaye looks like anybody but Danny Kaye.

A year ago in April Borge flew back to Andersen's birthplace Odense, Denmark to help commemorate the Danish story teller's 160th birthday.

-:-

SOME YEARS before that he also dug into his pocket for $11,999, which was $1 short of half of the $24,000 needed to complete a Hans Christian Andersen statue in New York's Central Park.

"I said I would donate $1 less than half if someone would match it because I didn't want my name on top as a donor. Now I don't believe it's even on the statue at all," says Borge.

Humphrey, Ford Give Views On LBJ's Trips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson's Asian trip will not have any appreciable effect on the Nov. 8 election.

Republican House leader Gerald R. Ford doesn't think an expected campaign trip by the President later this week will help Democrats, either.

But they took different political paths to reach their conclusions Sunday.

"I do not believe that the President's journey — was in any way politically motivated," said Humphrey on NBC's Meet the Press.

He added: "I am sure the American people are pleased that the President went. I have a feeling that the attitude of the American public will be one of support for the President's efforts."

Ford said the expected campaign trip following Johnson's return Wednesday would not help Democrats because voters have kept their minds on basic issues, headed by inflation.

Ford said on ABC's Issues and Answers that Republican leaders had been apprehensive Johnson's trip would "divert public attention from the basic issues bothering the American people."

Both men delved into Southern politics.

Ford told a GOP fund-raising dinner in Macon, Ga., Saturday night that "Georgia's image in the 49 other states will be at a peak if Bo Callaway is elected."

Rep. Howard H. Callaway is running for governor against segregationist Democrat Lester Maddox. Callaway, a conservative, was called by Ford "one of the most able, most qualified people I know in the House of Representatives."

Meanwhile, Maddox claimed Georgia was the No. 1 target of the national Republican party. He said the national party was spending $500,000 a week on the campaign with funds from Wall Street and Washington.

"The Democratic party has a platform that we ask our fellow Democrats to adhere to. The segregationists have not asked the President of the United States, Mr. Johnson, or the vice president of the United States, Mr. Humphrey, to campaign for them and we have no intention of doing so, and I think that speaks for itself."

Humphrey refused to say if he would vote for George P. Mahoney, an opponent of open housing legislation who is the Democratic candidate for the Maryland governorship, if he lived in Maryland.

Transplant Of Liver Fails To Save Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — A 17-year-old boy died at Metropolitan Hospital Sunday, two days after undergoing a rare liver transplant operation.

The boy, whose name was not disclosed, had been in critical condition after the operation.

In an effort to stem an acute case of hepatitis, a liver disease, doctors performed a six hour transplant operation.

Screen Actors Guild Seeking Strike Okay

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The 17,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild are being asked to authorize a strike against advertising agencies and other producers of television commercials.

Actor Charlton Heston, guild president, told members that actors in commercials are not receiving reasonable wage increases despite what he called enormous profits being made by the television advertising business. He said the guild board of directors wanted strike authority.

Such a strike would not affect theatrical pictures and television entertainment films, a guild spokesman said.

A new guild contract is being negotiated in New York.

Ex-Ohioan, Two Sons Perish In Home Fire

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A former Akron, Ohio, man and his two sons died Sunday in a fire that suburban St. Francis authorities said apparently was started by the father's cigarette.

The body of John G. Butash 31, was found in a bedroom near the bodies of the boys, John Jr., 1, and James, 6 months.

Sweet Adelines Complete Plans For Annual Show

Final arrangements for the annual show, "Cotton Town Caper," were discussed during the meeting of Sweet Adelines, Inc., Friday night at the Potters Savings and Loan Co. annex.

The parade of quartets will be presented at 8 p. m. Saturday at Westgate School.

Miss Norma Jones, ticket chairman, said the remainder of the tickets have been placed on sale at Robins and Sant.

Mrs. Madalyn Mack reported on the uniforms which will be worn for the first time.

A report on the afterglow was given by Mrs. Mary Reed, chairman.

Mrs. Faye Wright, show chairman, said the dress rehearsal will be held at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the school.

Mrs. Nancy Beaver directed the 30 present in a rehearsal.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ruth Rinehart and Mrs. Wright. A Halloween theme was used in luncheon appointments.

The Heathertones quartet, which will appear on the show, entertained.

Ohio Driver Killed

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — David R. Silver, 21, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, was killed early Sunday when his car left I 75 east of Pontiac and rolled over.

Gibraltar, a bone of contention between Great Britain and Spain, has both a city government and a kind of national government. On a per-capita basis, the 19,000 Gibraltarians of the Crown Colony are the most governed people on earth, an official said.

Cincinnati Plays Safe In 'Trick And Treat'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's tiny spooks and goblins have had their treats and authorities hope they'll stay off the street tonight.

A series of murders—especially five unsolved rape-stranglings—have the nerves of residents on edge and authorities asked parents to send their children trick-and-treating on Sunday afternoon.

Police said the day-time trick-and-treating was successful. The main fear had been that some of the little spooks might be mistaken for prowlers.

Raymond E. Clift, executive director of the Greater Cincinnati Safety Council, called it "one of the safest and most sensible of these celebrations that we have seen."

Police believe the victims of the rapist-strangler were killed by the same man. All were women of 50 or older. The first murder occurred Dec. 2, 1965, and two women were killed this month.

Ex-High Communist Dies In Soviet At 63

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikolai I. Belyayev, who rose to the high levels of Communist party power and fell with the failure of Nikita S. Khrushchev's virgin lands farm program, died Friday at the age of 63, Pravda, the Communist party paper, has reported. No cause of death was given.

Belyayev was the Communist party's leader in Kazakhstan, the region containing the virgin lands, from 1957 to 1960, and was associated with Khrushchev's plan to grow grain there.

Attacker Gets Man's Wallet

An 84-year-old East Liverpool man told police he was attacked and robbed of his wallet containing $22 by a young woman who invaded his home early Sunday night.

Henry Ronshausen of 655 Ryder Alley told Patrolman David K. Mumaw the unidentified woman knocked him down in the kitchen of his home after an argument and fled with the wallet containing a $10 bill, 12 $1 bills and some miscellaneous papers.

Ronshausen said he awoke from a nap about 6:30 p. m. to find the young woman in his bedroom. She screamed that she "wanted money," he said. Ronshausen said he replied that he did not have much money but would "try to help her," he told officers.

When he walked to the kitchen, the young woman knocked him down and took the wallet, he said. Ronshausen said he did not know how the intruder entered his home, as he believed all the doors and windows were locked. The officer said he could find no sign of forcible entry. Ronshausen lives alone and has been ill recently, police said.

An entry also was reported by Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Horsley of 702 Princeton Ave. She told police late Saturday afternoon her home was entered about 6 p. m. Friday while she was absent, but it was not determined if anything was missing.

Mrs. Horsley said the intruder gained entrance by hurling a cement block through a window on the south side of her home, then reaching through the opening to manipulate the lock.

Two minor thefts were reported.

Terry Gill of 131 W. 3rd St. told officers late Saturday afternoon a blue and white bicycle was stolen from his home sometime between 9:30 p. m. Friday and 6 a. m. Saturday.

Two 12-volt batteries were stolen from trucks parked at Al's Atlantic Service Station at E. 3rd and College Sts., police said. The thefts were reported Saturday at 4:54 p. m. The batteries were taken sometime in the preceding four days from Hertz Rent-a-Truck vehicles owned by Tony Paletto of Sharon, Pa., officers said.

White Nurse Killed During Racial Riots

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — A white nurse was killed Sunday in race riots in the northern Zambian copper mining town of Kitwe following an explosion and blaze at a fuel depot.

Rumors swept African townships that whites had sabotaged the depot in retaliation for the deportation of 23 whites last week.

Within minutes a mob of 5,000 Africans were rampaging through the area, beating up whites, stoning cars and houses.

Investigation Pushed In Springfield Killing

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Police questioned several persons over the weekend and said apparently no one heard screams from a house where a young mother was raped and beaten Friday night.

The victim, Mrs. Larry Taylor, 20, was near death when her husband returned home from his factory job at Robbins-Myers, Inc., just before 2 a.m. Saturday. She was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The coroner's report listed the cause of death as asphyxiation, saying the slayer stomped on the victim's throat.

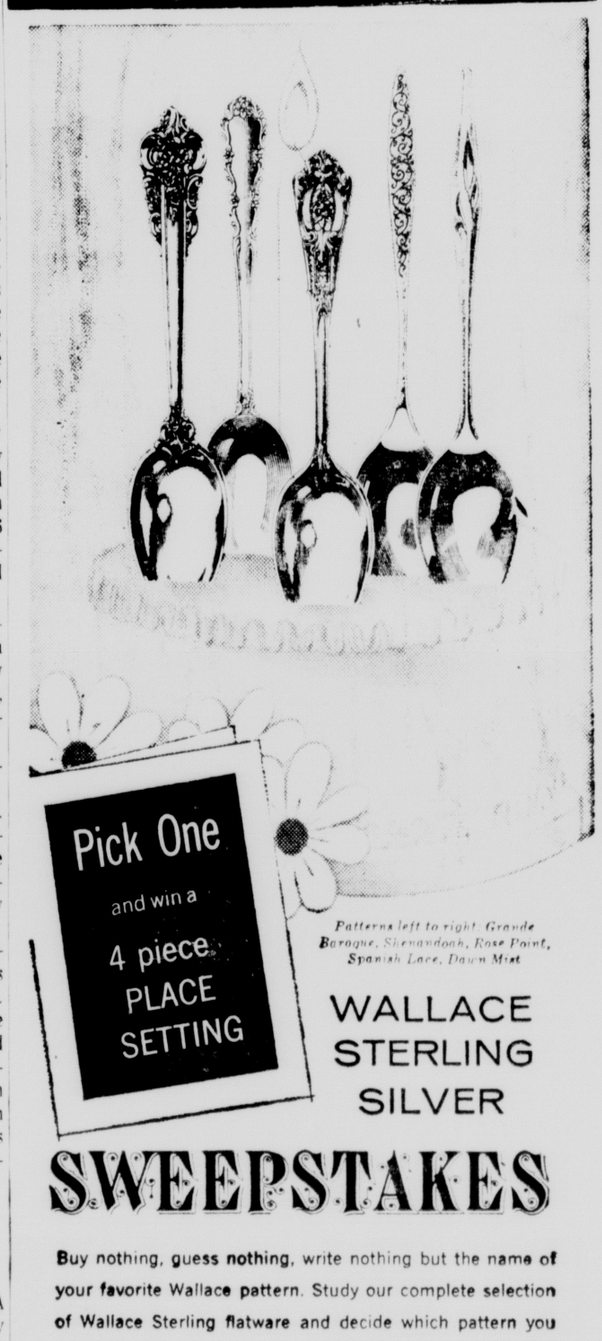

The couple's son, 18-month-old Akron, was also beaten and was in fair condition in Community Hospital Sunday with a broken leg and other injuries.

Goering's Wife Felt Camps 'Educational'

BONN, Germany (AP) — Emmy Goering, once the First Lady of Adolf Hitler's Reich, says she thought concentration camps were educational institutions.

The widow of Hitler's air force chief, now 73, has written her memoirs for "Quick," a popular West German weekly.

"Naturally," she writes, "I know there were concentration camps. No longer now just for Communists, but also for Jews.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

For Love—And Money

Victor Borge had lunch with movie maker Sam Goldwyn not long ago, and the latter said to the Danish funny man, "I saw you recently on TV and liked some of your comedy gags."

Hal Humphrey

Under his breath Borge mumbled to himself, "I wish you'd seen me 20 years ago when I needed you." During those 20 years Borge speaks of with a sardonic air, he has become one of the acknowledged greats in the comedy field and also wealthy from his own one-man shows and concert tours.

-:-

"BUT I'VE BEEN in only one movie, something called 'Higher and Higher' with Frank Sinatra years ago. I was an English nobleman, and I don't think anyone noticed me. Isn't that strange when you figure I can make the whole world laugh now by lifting an eyebrow?" adds Borge with feigned immodesty.

He needn't really feel so put down. That movie he refers to was made in 1943 and was also Sinatra's film debut. It was quite a few years before Hollywood beckoned the Voice back again.

"Joe Pasternak at MGM interviewed me once for a role as a sailor but wanted to know what I did. I asked him to come and see me perform but he wouldn't do it and I never got the part," recalls the forlorn Borge.

-:-

HIS VISIT to the Goldwyn lot and lunch with Sam was not for a movie role, but the result of Borge's being asked to play host for the Nov. 4 TV debut on ABC of Goldwyn's 1952 movie, "Hans Christian Andersen," starring Danny Kaye.

If Borge still feels slighted by the movie capital, his wound must be salved partially by his receiving $36,000 for taping 18 minutes of special introduction and intermission comments to go with "Hans Christian Andersen."

That comes to $2,000 per minute, which Borge can figure is considerably more than Kaye was paid to portray the Danish author of children's stories.

"Mr. Goldwyn was very gracious. He invited me to lunch Borge so we could talk about the picture. He thought I should know something of its history before taping my introduction," Borge reports.

-:-

THE TACTFUL Borge did not bring up the fact that the Danish critics were less than kind to the movie when it played Denmark and environs. They saw no similarity between author Andersen and comedian Danny Kaye and also resented the fact that the story had virtually nothing to do with Andersen's life.

During the conversation with Goldwyn, Borge was told that the Hans Christian Andersen movie was based on one page of story from the late Moss Hart and and that Goldwyn himself did the rest.

"Well, now, that really doesn't matter, does it?" says Borge, reflectively, his right eyebrow lifting even higher than before. "I mean, after all ,Mr. Goldwyn was out to make entertainment, and maybe Hans Christian Andersen's life was not so entertaining."

-:-

BORGE INVOLVED his two youngest children (Vebe, a boy of 12, and Rikke, a girl, 10) when ABC's color cameras were transported to his Connecticut home to tape his host part for the Goldwyn movie.

And through his offspring, Borge is able subtly to protect his Danish countryman and idol from some of the misunderstandings which the movie may have created.

At one point, for example, the Borge kids ask their father, "Does Danny Kaye look like Hans?" and in his offhand manner Borge naturally punctures any rumor that Kaye looks like anybody but Danny Kaye.

A year ago in April Borge flew back to Andersen's birthplace Odense, Denmark to help commemorate the Danish story teller's 160th birthday.

-:-

SOME YEARS before that he also dug into his pocket for $11,999, which was $1 short of half of the $24,000 needed to complete a Hans Christian Andersen statue in New York's Central Park.

"I said I would donate $1 less than half if someone would match it because I didn't want my name on top as a donor. Now I don't believe it's even on the statue at all," says Borge.

Humphrey, Ford Give Views On LBJ's Trips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson's Asian trip will not have any appreciable effect on the Nov. 8 election.

Republican House leader Gerald R. Ford doesn't think an expected campaign trip by the President later this week will help Democrats, either.

But they took different political paths to reach their conclusions Sunday.

"I do not believe that the President's journey — was in any way politically motivated," said Humphrey on NBC's Meet the Press.

He added: "I am sure the American people are pleased that the President went. I have a feeling that the attitude of the American public will be one of support for the President's efforts."

Ford said the expected campaign trip following Johnson's return Wednesday would not help Democrats because voters have kept their minds on basic issues, headed by inflation.

Ford said on ABC's Issues and Answers that Republican leaders had been apprehensive Johnson's trip would "divert public attention from the basic issues bothering the American people."

Both men delved into Southern politics.

Ford told a GOP fund-raising dinner in Macon, Ga., Saturday night that "Georgia's image in the 49 other states will be at a peak if Bo Callaway is elected."

Rep. Howard H. Callaway is running for governor against segregationist Democrat Lester Maddox. Callaway, a conservative, was called by Ford "one of the most able, most qualified people I know in the House of Representatives."

Meanwhile, Maddox claimed Georgia was the No. 1 target of the national Republican party. He said the national party was spending $500,000 a week on the campaign with funds from Wall Street and Washington.

"The Democratic party has a platform that we ask our fellow Democrats to adhere to. The segregationists have not asked the President of the United States, Mr. Johnson, or the vice president of the United States, Mr. Humphrey, to campaign for them and we have no intention of doing so, and I think that speaks for itself."

Humphrey refused to say if he would vote for George P. Mahoney, an opponent of open housing legislation who is the Democratic candidate for the Maryland governorship, if he lived in Maryland.

Screen Actors Guild Seeking Strike Okay

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The 17,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild are being asked to authorize a strike against advertising agencies and other producers of television commercials.

Actor Charlton Heston, guild president, told members that actors in commercials are not receiving reasonable wage increases despite what he called enormous profits being made by the television advertising business. He said the guild board of directors wanted strike authority.

Such a strike would not affect theatrical pictures and television entertainment films, a guild spokesman said.

A new guild contract is being negotiated in New York.

The body of John G. Butash 31, was found in a bedroom near the bodies of the boys, John Jr., 1, and James, 6 months.

Ohio Driver Killed

Gibraltar, a bone of contention between Great Britain and Spain, has both a city government and a kind of national government. On a per-capita basis, the 19,000 Gibraltarians of the Crown Colony are the most governed people on earth, an official said.

Cincinnati Plays Safe In 'Trick And Treat'

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's tiny spooks and goblins have had their treats and authorities hope they'll stay off the street tonight.

A series of murders—especially five unsolved rape-stranglings—have the nerves of residents on edge and authorities asked parents to send their children trick-and-treating on Sunday afternoon.

Police said the day-time trick-and-treating was successful. The main fear had been that some of the little spooks might be mistaken for prowlers.

Raymond E. Clift, executive director of the Greater Cincinnati Safety Council, called it "one of the safest and most sensible of these celebrations that we have seen."

Police believe the victims of the rapist-strangler were killed by the same man. All were women of 50 or older. The first murder occurred Dec. 2, 1965, and two women were killed this month.

Ex-High Communist Dies In Soviet At 63

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikolai I. Belyayev, who rose to the high levels of Communist party power and fell with the failure of Nikita S. Khrushchev's virgin lands farm program, died Friday at the age of 63, Pravda, the Communist party paper, has reported. No cause of death was given.

Belyayev was the Communist party's leader in Kazakhstan, the region containing the virgin lands, from 1957 to 1960, and was associated with Khrushchev's plan to grow grain there.

Attacker Gets Man's Wallet

An 84-year-old East Liverpool man told police he was attacked and robbed of his wallet containing $22 by a young woman who invaded his home early Sunday night.

Henry Ronshausen of 655 Ryder Alley told Patrolman David K. Mumaw the unidentified woman knocked him down in the kitchen of his home after an argument and fled with the wallet containing a $10 bill, 12 $1 bills and some miscellaneous papers.

Ronshausen said he awoke from a nap about 6:30 p. m. to find the young woman in his bedroom. She screamed that she "wanted money," he said. Ronshausen said he replied that he did not have much money but would "try to help her," he told officers.

When he walked to the kitchen, the young woman knocked him down and took the wallet, he said. Ronshausen said he did not know how the intruder entered his home, as he believed all the doors and windows were locked. The officer said he could find no sign of forcible entry. Ronshausen lives alone and has been ill recently, police said.

An entry also was reported by Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Horsley of 702 Princeton Ave. She told police late Saturday afternoon her home was entered about 6 p. m. Friday while she was absent, but it was not determined if anything was missing.

Mrs. Horsley said the intruder gained entrance by hurling a cement block through a window on the south side of her home, then reaching through the opening to manipulate the lock.

Two minor thefts were reported.

Terry Gill of 131 W. 3rd St. told officers late Saturday afternoon a blue and white bicycle was stolen from his home sometime between 9:30 p. m. Friday and 6 a. m. Saturday.

Two 12-volt batteries were stolen from trucks parked at Al's Atlantic Service Station at E. 3rd and College Sts., police said. The thefts were reported Saturday at 4:54 p. m. The batteries were taken sometime in the preceding four days from Hertz Rent-a-Truck vehicles owned by Tony Paletto of Sharon, Pa., officers said.

White Nurse Killed During Racial Riots

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — A white nurse was killed Sunday in race riots in the northern Zambian copper mining town of Kitwe following an explosion and blaze at a fuel depot.

Rumors swept African townships that whites had sabotaged the depot in retaliation for the deportation of 23 whites last week.

Within minutes a mob of 5,000 Africans were rampaging through the area, beating up whites, stoning cars and houses.

Investigation Pushed In Springfield Killing

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)— Police questioned several persons over the weekend and said apparently no one heard screams from a house where a young mother was raped and beaten Friday night.

The victim, Mrs. Larry Taylor, 20, was near death when her husband returned home from his factory job at Robbins-Myers, Inc., just before 2 a.m. Saturday. She was dead on arrival at a hospital.

The coroner's report listed the cause of death as asphyxiation, saying the slaver stomped on the victim's throat.

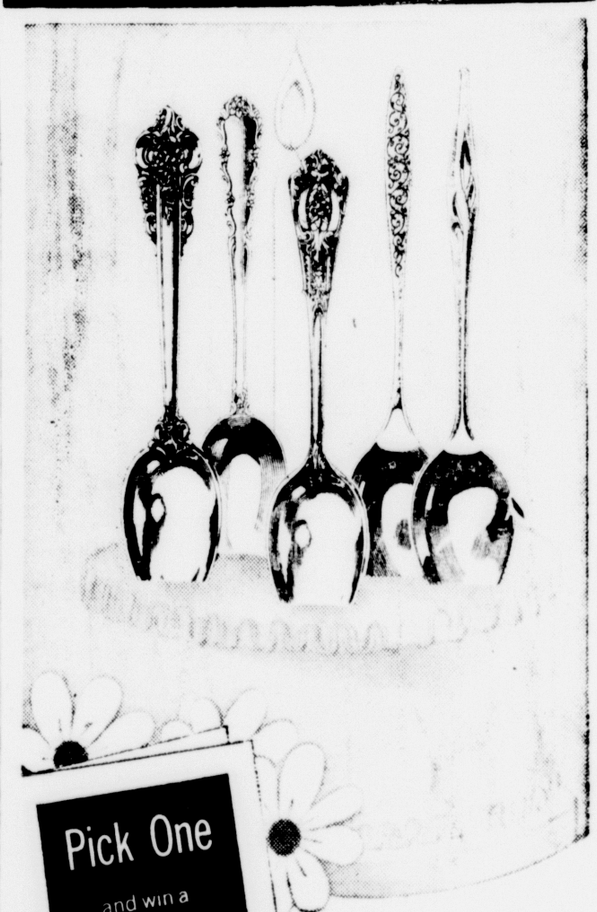

The couple's son, 18-month-old Akron, was also beaten and was in fair condition in Community Hospital Sunday with a broken leg and other injuries.

Goering's Wife Felt Camps 'Educational'

BONN, Germany (AP) — Emmy Goering, once the First Lady of Adolf Hitler's Reich, says she thought concentration camps were educational institutions.

The widow of Hitler's air force chief, now 73, has written her memoirs for "Quick," a popular West German weekly.

"Naturally," she writes, "I know there were concentration camps. No longer now just for Communists, but also for Jews.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I read in a household hints column recently that a wife bought herself men's pajamas because she discovered they were much more comfortable than her own.

This little item gave me the courage to write to you about something that has been bothering me for a long time. My husband likes to sleep in my nightgowns.

Before you get any crazy notions I want to make it perfectly clear he is normal in every way. We have two children and get along fine together. There is nothing funny about this guy. He just likes the feel of a silky fabric and the looseness of a nightie.

I bought him a man's nightshirt for his birthday last April but he didn't like it and went right back to my nighties.

When I suggested to a few women friends that they ask their husbands to try their nightgowns for comfort they looked at me as if I had gone stark, raving mad.

Please tell me why it's all right for a woman to sleep in her husband's pajamas, but if a man sleeps in his wife's nightgown he is considered some kind of nut? — SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

-:-

Dear Sauce: If your husband wants to sleep in Army shoes it's his business. More to the point, however, a wife should not blab around a description of her husband's sleeping apparel.

A man who prefers his wife's nightie to his own pajamas is plenty off in spite of your insistance he is perfectly normal. Consider yourself fortunate that his oddities stop there.

Rude Awakening

Dear Ann: Rick (fake name) and I have been married for four years. We have a son 3 years old.

Don't tell me the reason we are having trouble is because we were married too young. I realize that but it's too late to do anything about it now. I was 16 and Rick was 18. Our folks tried to persuade us to wait but we were smarter than everybody.

Money is not a problem any more, Rick has a good job and he gets a lot of overtime because he'd rather work than come home. I guess I should consider myself lucky. Some married men don't want to go home but they don't want to work either.

Rick is always picking on me about something. Either I'm too heavy, or his shirts don't look right, or I'm making his mind stagnant because I can't discuss current events with him. Current events are depressing these days and I have so many problems of my own that I don't want to read about anybody else's.

Can this marriage be saved or am I going to be just another divorcee at age 21?—S.W.W.

Dear S.W.W.: Kids who get married too young, as you did, find after the glamor wears off that there's more to making a life together than teenage kicks. Now that you know marriage is not one glorious dream but rather the difficult business of living with another person, you'd better grow up and accept your role as a real person in a real world.

Counseling might be very helpful. The YMCA has a superb counseling program. Get going — and good luck. You'll need it.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Hold It! Next Bite Means Fat!

"Give us some guidelines. . . tell us how others cut their appetites down. At the table I am into second helpings almost before I realize it."

Ida Jean Kain

Are you game to give yourself a two-week challenge? Stop overeating for just two weeks and you stop wanting to overeat. The process is physiological — you lessen your food capacity. Many ingenious suggestions are passed along in letters. For instance:

A homemaker who resolutely decided to stop overeating at meals, did this: She had pictures taken and the photographs enlarged. She cut out two of them, "so that just my fat self was outlined." These cutouts she mounted on cardboard and placed on the wall opposite her place at the table. "Every time I was tempted to take more than my slimming portions planned for the meal, I would stare at that awful sight on the wall," she wrote.

PRIOR TO this drastic step, this homemaker took the time to face facts, set her mind to the project, planned her strategy and made a definite commitment to herself. Then she wisely talked it over with her doctor, telling him she was ready.

For exercise, she started walking, and walked two or more miles every day, never failing. This homemaker reduced 44 pounds, bringing her weight to 130 pounds for 5 feet 2. The doctor decided this weight was right for her. A year and a half after she had reduced she wrote to report she still held the weightline.

Another would - be-slimmer woman, on the spur of the moment, tried the overloading plan. One night at dinner she took her usual amount of food on the plate. Then she piled on seconds, right along with the first helping. She explained to her astonished husband that she wanted to view the amount of food she really was eating.

IT'S AN eye - opener. After you've eaten a serving of everything, your plate is empty but the lure of the palate is still strong. Food tastes so good. At this point challenge yourself with an enlightening idea.

You have eaten enough to satisfy true hunger, and from here on every forkful of food supports the excess fat. Resolve to stop overeating. If you get up from the table before you have reached that comfortable, full feeling, in 30 minutes you will feel content and in control.

Once you set your mind to slimming, it becomes an exciting adventure. The woman who reduced 44 pounds wrote that, to her enormous surprise, she found her slimming program brought her the greatest happiness of any project she had ever tackled.

Send a self - addressed, stamped, long envelope for Ida Jean Kain's new calorie chart. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

Men And Women Locked In Battle At Midwest Firm

SOUTH ROCKWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Opposing forces resume negotiations today, hoping to end a long and unusual strike — one pitting men against women.

Negotiators for the United Auto Workers Union and company representatives were to meet to try to settle a 105-day strike by women employes of a plant owned by Better Plastics of Michigan, Inc.

The strike already had:

Forced the closing of the plant.

Resulted in a court order limiting picketing and forbidding threats and acts of violence.

Prompted charges of unfair labor practices by both sides.

"It's a weird situation," said plant manager Renato Tordi.

The plant's 19 women employes remained on strike while the 10 men workers went back to work one day after the walkout began July 18.

The central issue appears to be disagreement between men and women employes over union representation.

The employes voted last March to be represented by the Brewery Workers Union. Five dissenting votes were cast by men. The strike began in July after negotiations for a first one-year contract failed.

On Sept. 21, the women voted to leave the Brewery Workers Union and join the UAW.

Friction between the striking women and the working men began to grow when nonunion women were hired to replace the strikers.

Marlynn Parrish, formerly stewardess of the Brewery Workers Union local and now stewardess of the UAW local, said the male employes maintain molding machines for the women. The plant manufactures flower pots and dairy containers.

Tordi said the men do not want a union because, among other things, they would be outvoted by the women 2-1.

More than a hundred snowy owls were seen in Wisconsin during the winter of 1960-61.

After leaving Knowles, he worked for the Department of Employment Security in Weirton.

Yoder & Frey Auctioneers, Inc., was formed about six months after LaNeve began working with the parent firm of Yoder & Frey, Inc.

LaNeve is married to the former Ethel Virden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Virden of Glenmoor. They reside at 321 Stryker St. in Archbold with their six children.

WHEN MONEY IS THE QUESTION
City Loan IS THE ANSWER

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I read in a household hints column recently that a wife bought herself men's pajamas because she discovered they were much more comfortable than her own.

This little item gave me the courage to write to you about something that has been bothering me for a long time. My husband likes to sleep in my nightgowns.

Before you get any crazy notions I want to make it perfectly clear he is normal in every way. We have two children and get along fine together. There is nothing funny about this guy. He just likes the feel of a silky fabric and the looseness of a nightie.

I bought him a man's nightshirt for his birthday last April but he didn't like it and went right back to my nighties.

When I suggested to a few women friends that they ask their husbands to try their nightgowns for comfort they looked at me as if I had gone stark, raving mad.

Please tell me why it's all right for a woman to sleep in her husband's pajamas, but if a man sleeps in his wife's nightgown he is considered some kind of nut? — SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

Dear Sauce: If your husband wants to sleep in Army shoes it's his business. More to the point, however, a wife should not blab around a description of her husband's sleeping apparel.

A man who prefers his wife's nightie to his own pajamas is plenty off in spite of your insistance he is perfectly normal. Consider yourself fortunate that his oddities stop there.

Rude Awakening

Dear Ann: Rick (fake name) and I have been married for four years. We have a son 3 years old.

Don't tell me the reason we are having trouble is because we were married too young. I realize that but it's too late to do anything about it now. I was 16 and Rick was 18. Our folks tried to persuade us to wait but we were smarter than everybody.

Money is not a problem any more, Rick has a good job and he gets a lot of overtime because he'd rather work than come home. I guess I should consider myself lucky. Some married men don't want to go home but they don't want to work either.

Rick is always picking on me about something. Either I'm too heavy, or his shirts don't look right, or I'm making his mind stagnant because I can't discuss current events with him. Current events are depressing these days and I have so many problems of my own that I don't want to read about anybody else's.

Can this marriage be saved or am I going to be just another divorcee at age 21?—S.W.W.

Dear S.W.W.: Kids who get married too young, as you did, find after the glamor wears off that there's more to making a life together than teenage kicks. Now that you know marriage is not one glorious dream but rather the difficult business of living with another person, you'd better grow up and accept your role as a real person in a real world.

Counseling might be very helpful. The YMCA has a superb counseling program. Get going — and good luck. You'll need it.

TO NEED A PERFECT COMEBACK: Why waste words? Nothing expresses contempt so eloquently as silence.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Hold It! Next Bite Means Fat!

"Give us some guidelines. . . tell us how others cut their appetites down. At the table I am into second helpings almost before I realize it."

Ida Jean Kain

Are you game to give yourself a two-week challenge? Stop overeating for just two weeks and you stop wanting to overeat. The process is physiological — you lessen your food capacity. Many ingenious suggestions are passed along in letters. For instance:

A homemaker who resolutely decided to stop overeating at meals, did this: She had pictures taken and the photographs enlarged. She cut out two of them, "so that just my fat self was outlined." These cutouts she mounted on cardboard and placed on the wall opposite her place at the table. "Every time I was tempted to take more than my slimming portions planned for the meal, I would stare at that awful sight on the wall," she wrote.

PRIOR TO this drastic step, this homemaker took the time to face facts, set her mind to the project, planned her strategy and made a definite commitment to herself. Then she wisely talked it over with her doctor, telling him she was ready.

For exercise, she started walking, and walked two or more miles every day, never failing. This homemaker reduced 44 pounds, bringing her weight to 130 pounds for 5 feet 2. The doctor decided this weight was right for her. A year and a half after she had reduced she wrote to report she still held the weightline.

Another would - be-slimmer woman, on the spur of the moment, tried the overloading plan. One night at dinner she took her usual amount of food on the plate. Then she piled on seconds, right along with the first helping. She explained to her astonished husband that she wanted to view the amount of food she really was eating.

IT'S AN eye - opener. After you've eaten a serving of everything, your plate is empty but the lure of the palate is still strong. Food tastes so good. At this point challenge yourself with an enlightening idea.

You have eaten enough to satisfy true hunger, and from here on every forkful of food supports the excess fat. Resolve to stop overeating. If you get up from the table before you have reached that comfortable, full feeling, in 30 minutes you will feel content and in control.

Once you set your mind to slimming, it becomes an exciting adventure. The woman who reduced 44 pounds wrote that, to her enormous surprise, she found her slimming program brought her the greatest happiness of any project she had ever tackled.

Send a self - addressed, stamped, long envelope for Ida Jean Kain's new calorie chart. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review.

Men And Women Locked In Battle At Midwest Firm

SOUTH ROCKWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Opposing forces resume negotiations today, hoping to end a long and unusual strike — one pitting men against women.

Negotiators for the United Auto Workers Union and company representatives were to meet to try to settle a 105-day strike by women employes of a plant owned by Better Plastics of Michigan, Inc.

The strike already had:

Forced the closing of the plant.

Resulted in a court order limiting picketing and forbidding threats and acts of violence.

Prompted charges of unfair labor practices by both sides.

"It's a weird situation," said plant manager Renato Tordi.

The plant's 19 women employes remained on strike while the 10 men workers went back to work one day after the walkout began July 18.

The central issue appears to be disagreement between men and women employes over union representation.

The employes voted last March to be represented by the Brewery Workers Union. Five dissenting votes were cast by men. The strike began in July after negotiations for a first one-year contract failed.

On Sept. 21, the women voted to leave the Brewery Workers Union and join the UAW.

Friction between the striking women and the working men began to grow when nonunion women were hired to replace the strikers.

Marlynn Parrish, formerly stewardess of the Brewery Workers Union local and now stewardess of the UAW local, said the male employes maintain molding machines for the women. The plant manufactures flower pots and dairy containers.

Tordi said the men do not want a union because, among other things, they would be outvoted by the women 2-1.

More than a hundred snowy owls were seen in Wisconsin during the winter of 1960-61.

Ex-Area Resident Made Secretary For Ohio Firm

LaNeve, a graduate of the former Wells High School, worked 24 years for the Edwin M. Knowles China Co.

After leaving Knowles, he worked for the Department of Employment Security in Weirton.

Yoder & Frey Auctioneers, Inc., was formed about six months after LaNeve began working with the parent firm of Yoder & Frey, Inc.

LaNeve is married to the former Ethel Virden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Virden of Glenmoor. They reside at 321 Stryker St. in Archbold with their six children.

Burns To Death

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A 58-year-old transient, Thomas C. Price, burned to death Sunday in a fire in his shanty on the city's West Side. The fire, authorities said, was caused by an overheated oil drum.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: What can you do with leftover ham after you are sick of baked him, fried ham and ham sandwiches?

I try to save any way I can, and always find it cheaper to buy and cook big hams.

MOTHER.

-:-

Never keep ham too long. When you get near this point, get out that meat grinder.

Also your sharpest paring knife.

Naturally you can't get pretty slices any more, down near the bone of the ham, so cut out all the nice chunks you can — removing all the fat.

Put these chunks in a fruit jar and tightly cap it, or put them in a plastic bag, and freeze them.

Then grind the small pieces. I always use the largest grinder blade for this.

DON'T add anything else. Jars or plastic bags are dillies for the ground-up parts to store in the freezer.

Later, this is delicious for making ham salad (wonderful for lunches), or ham croquettes. The greatest part about it all is that you can take a spoon and remove any amount of the frozen ham that you want for that day. It doesn't stick together like most frozen foods.

The chips or small chunks can be used in scrambled eggs, soups, and salads (especially macaroni — either hot or cold).

The bones can be boiled for soup. If you don't eat soup, let the liquid boil down and save it for making gravy. Lush.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I use a strip of elastic instead of ties on my baby's bibs. Just sew the ends to each side of the neck band, making it rather loose so it will go over the baby's head.

No more fiddling with knots and bows and junior can put it on and take it off by himself.

SHIELA D. H. PIERCE

DEAR HELOISE: I'm 10 years old and take music lessons.

I was polsihing my flute (with silver polish) when I discovered that cotton swabs are good for cleaning hard-to-get-at places.

It works beautifully.

KAREN ROOT.

DEAR HELOISE: I've always worn rubber gloves for wet household chores but one day I wore them when dusting and since then that job has been so much less disagreeable.

At the finish, I wash off the gloves. My hands are still nice and clean and free from grit, dirt and oil.

It's worth trying.

G. G. KELLEY.

DEAR HELOISE: I noticed in your column that you like incense.

Have you tried what I do to make double use of it?

I get several boxes of my favorite scent at a time. Then I open each box about one-third of an inch and put them under my slips or right in among the piles of underwear.

My garments have such a delightful aroma when I put them on.

LITTLE IDA

-:-

I hadn't tried that one but I just opened a box and set it in our linen closet.

Thanks, Ida.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's another use for gallon plastic bleach jugs.

Wash and dry thoroughly, then fill with powdered laundry detergent, using a funnel to simplify the job.

Now you have a handle on your detergent and a cap (no more spilling if it tips over in the car).

I use a marking pen to identify the contents.

PAT BLAKE.

Study Indicates Fluorides Check Artery Problems

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University researchers say a study indicates water with fluorides may help prevent severe hardening of the arteries.

Five doctors from Harvard's nutrition department conducted the study with two groups of people in North Dakota. Results were published Sunday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Severe calcium deposits in the aorta — the major artery carrying blood from the heart to branch arteries in the body — were less in high fluoride areas, the scientists said.

In the same issue, the AMA Journal commented editorially on the study, saying fluoride may help keep calcium deposited in the teeth and bones and out of the arteries.

Fluorides have a proven role of cutting tooth decay 60 to 70 per cent, the editorial said.

Mystery Lingers On In Florida

By ANNE SMITH
Miami Herald Writer

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — One of the eeriest of Halloween happenings in the United States began here — in the nation's southernmost city — 35 years ago. The mystery lingers on.

It was a chilly end of October night when beautiful Elena Hoyos, 22, died of tuberculosis. The torture she had felt in life was gone, but even in death her body would not rest in peace.

As Elena died, a friend named Bienvenido Perez marched in a Halloween parade in a devil costume Elena had made for him.

Minutes later he was pounding at her door. "Something told me she was dying and I rushed to her house," Perez said. His suspicion was right.

One of the mourners at Elena's funeral was German-born Karl Von Cosel, a man in his 60s who was a technician at the Marine Hospital. He held a deep admiration for the girl.

He painted her name on the side of his airplane after the funeral. Perez visited Von Cosel a few days later.

Inside the plane, propped up in a chair, was Elena's body. Perez, ordered away by Von Cosel, raced to the home of Elena's sister, Florinda Lachina Medina.

Mrs. Lachina Medina didn't believe Von Cosel had her sister's body. She told Perez it was only a wax replica.

The macabre events quieted for a while.

But eight years later Von Cosel had built a shack in the brush near 17th and Flager Ave. Perez, who had been elected constable, received word from undertaker Ben Lopez to take a look.

Inside, he said, he found Elena's body.

A young attorney, Enrique Esuqinaldo Jr., became interested in the case. He said Mrs. Lachina Medina had been to see him and spoke of a fear she felt every time she visited her sister's crypt.

She had been to see Von Cosel, too. "Don't worry," she said he told her. "Your sister is all right. I have her here with me."

Elena was lying in Von Cosel's shack on the same bed she died in. Esquinaldo took the news to the sheriff. But the sheriff said Von Cosel was innocent: He liked to work with papier mache dolls.

Mrs. Lachina Medina still wanted Esquinaldo to do something. She had begged Von Cosel to take Elena's body back to the crypt. But he didn't.

Esquinaldo swore out a warrant for his arrest. Deputies strapped guns to their hips to nab him.

They found Elena in the shack. The body was wrapped in gauze, covered with plaster, dressed like a bride, and wearing a wedding band.

Von Cosel was freed under the statute of limitations. He tried to reclaim the body, but was denied. He died when he was 83 at Zephyr Hills, Fla., in 1952.

Perez said he buried Elena's remains secretly. Perez, 66, a night watchman at the Key West Airport, still won't tell where she is buried. He says he is the only one who knows.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: What can you do with leftover ham after you are sick of baked him, fried ham and ham sandwiches?

I try to save any way I can, and always find it cheaper to buy and cook big hams.

MOTHER.

-:-

Never keep ham too long. When you get near this point, get out that meat grinder.

Also your sharpest paring knife.

Naturally you can't get pretty slices any more, down near the bone of the ham, so cut out all the nice chunks you can — removing all the fat.

Put these chunks in a fruit jar and tightly cap it, or put them in a plastic bag, and freeze them.

Then grind the small pieces. I always use the largest grinder blade for this.

DON'T add anything else. Jars or plastic bags are dillies for the ground-up parts to store in the freezer.

Later, this is delicious for making ham salad (wonderful for lunches), or ham croquettes. The greatest part about it all is that you can take a spoon and remove any amount of the frozen ham that you want for that day. It doesn't stick together like most frozen foods.

The chips or small chunks can be used in scrambled eggs, soups, and salads (especially macaroni — either hot or cold).

The bones can be boiled for soup. If you don't eat soup, let the liquid boil down and save it for making gravy. Lush.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I use a strip of elastic instead of ties on my baby's bibs. Just sew the ends to each side of the neck band, making it rather loose so it will go over the baby's head.

No more fiddling with knots and bows and junior can put it on and take it off by himself.

SHIELA D. H. PIERCE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I'm 10 years old and take music lessons.

I was polsihing my flute (with silver polish) when I discovered that cotton swabs are good for cleaning hard-to-get-at places.

It works beautifully.

KAREN ROOT.

DEAR HELOISE: I've always worn rubber gloves for wet household chores but one day I wore them when dusting and since then that job has been so much less disagreeable.

At the finish, I wash off the gloves. My hands are still nice and clean and free from grit, dirt and oil.

It's worth trying.

G. G. KELLEY.

DEAR HELOISE: I noticed in your column that you like incense.

Have you tried what I do to make double use of it?

I get several boxes of my favorite scent at a time. Then I open each box about one-third of an inch and put them under my slips or right in among the piles of underwear.

My garments have such a delightful aroma when I put them on.

-:-

I hadn't tried that one but I just opened a box and set it in our linen closet.

Thanks, Ida.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's another use for gallon plastic bleach jugs.

Wash and dry thoroughly, then fill with powdered laundry detergent, using a funnel to simplify the job.

Now you have a handle on your detergent and a cap (no more spilling if it tips over in the car).

I use a marking pen to identify the contents.

PAT BLAKE.

Study Indicates Fluorides Check Artery Problems

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University researchers say a study indicates water with fluorides may help prevent severe hardening of the arteries.

Five doctors from Harvard's nutrition department conducted the study with two groups of people in North Dakota. Results were published Sunday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Severe calcium deposits in the aorta — the major artery carrying blood from the heart to branch arteries in the body — were less in high fluoride areas, the scientists said.

In the same issue, the AMA Journal commented editorially on the study, saying fluoride may help keep calcium deposited in the teeth and bones and out of the arteries.

Fluorides have a proven role of cutting tooth decay 60 to 70 per cent, the editorial said.

Mystery Lingers On In Florida

By ANNE SMITH
Miami Herald Writer

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — One of the eeriest of Halloween happenings in the United States began here — in the nation's southernmost city — 35 years ago. The mystery lingers on.

It was a chilly end of October night when beautiful Elena Hoyos, 22, died of tuberculosis. The torture she had felt in life was gone, but even in death her body would not rest in peace.

As Elena died, a friend named Bienvenido Perez marched in a Halloween parade in a devil costume Elena had made for him.

Minutes later he was pounding at her door. "Something told me she was dying and I rushed to her house," Perez said. His suspicion was right.

One of the mourners at Elena's funeral was German-born Karl Von Cosel, a man in his 60s who was a technician at the Marine Hospital. He held a deep admiration for the girl.

He painted her name on the side of his airplane after the funeral. Perez visited Von Cosel a few days later.

Inside the plane, propped up in a chair, was Elena's body. Perez, ordered away by Von Cosel, raced to the home of Elena's sister, Florinda Lachina Medina.

Mrs. Lachina Medina didn't believe Von Cosel had her sister's body. She told Perez it was only a wax replica.

The macabre events quieted for a while.

But eight years later Von Cosel had built a shack in the brush near 17th and Flager Ave. Perez, who had been elected constable, received word from undertaker Ben Lopez to take a look.

Inside, he said, he found Elena's body.

A young attorney, Enrique Esuqinaldo Jr., became interested in the case. He said Mrs. Lachina Medina had been to see him and spoke of a fear she felt every time she visited her sister's crypt.

She had been to see Von Cosel, too. "Don't worry," she said he told her. "Your sister is all right. I have her here with me."

Elena was lying in Von Cosel's shack on the same bed she died in. Esquinaldo took the news to the sheriff. But the sheriff said Von Cosel was innocent: He liked to work with papier mache dolls.

Mrs. Lachina Medina still wanted Esquinaldo to do something. She had begged Von Cosel to take Elena's body back to the crypt. But he didn't.

Esquinaldo swore out a warrant for his arrest. Deputies strapped guns to their hips to nab him.

They found Elena in the shack. The body was wrapped in gauze, covered with plaster, dressed like a bride, and wearing a wedding band.

Von Cosel was freed under the statute of limitations. He tried to reclaim the body, but was denied. He died when he was 83 at Zephyr Hills, Fla., in 1952.

Perez said he buried Elena's remains secretly. Perez, 66, a night watchman at the Key West Airport, still won't tell where she is buried. He says he is the only one who knows.

Six Democratic, Four Republican

10 Senate Races Are Cliff-Hangers

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political strategists are classing 10 Senate races, involving six Democratic and four Republican seats, as cliff-hangers as the final full week of active campaigning starts.

Although other close contests might provide election upsets, leaders of both parties now are concentrating their attention on Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oregon, Tennessee and Texas.

The consensus of party workers who have followed the campaigns closely is that there is no predictable sweep for either party and that most races will be settled primarily on personalities and local situations.

This could mean that the current Senate ratio of 67 Democrats and 33 Republicans may change only slightly in an off-year election in which the minority party customarily picks up additional strength.

The 10 races regarded as down to the wire affairs illustrate the seeming lack of an overriding issue that reaches across the nation.

In New England, for example, there is a sharp contrast between the campaigns in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

In Massachusetts, the Republicans are running Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, a Negro, against former Gov. Endicott Peabody for the seat being vacated by GOP Sen. Leverett Saltonstall. Some Republicans fear a white backlash against Brooke but even that issue is blunted by Peabody's strong civil rights stand.

In New Hampshire, Republican nominee Harrison Thyng, a retired Air Force general, is trying to combine an outstanding World War II and Korean record with proposals to step up the Viet Nam fighting into a defeat of Democratic Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre. McIntyre generally has supported President Johnson's policies.

In Texas, GOP Sen. John G. Tower is depending on a Democratic split to bring him through in his contest with Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr. Although both are conservatives, Democratic liberals are angry with the administration of Gov. John Connally and may give Tower some help.

In Tennessee, it seems to be a case of whether Gov. Frank G. Clement, a veteran of many political wars, has picked up enough enemies to give Republican Howard H. Baker Jr. a winning margin. Baker is the son-in-law of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and thus has got a little added attention from Republican campaigners.

The Middle West provides two top contests in Illinois and Michigan and a race in Nebraska where the Democrats think they have a chance of knocking off GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis with Gov. Frank B. Morrison. This is largely a test between Curtis' conservative views and Morrison's support of the Johnson "Great Society" program.

In Illinois, the white backlash, Viet Nam and a potential sympathy vote for Republican Charles H. Percy, whose daughter was murdered, figure in his contest with Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas. But many politicians believe a decisive factor may be Percy's age of 47 matched against Douglas' 74.

In Michigan, the pros think it's a case of whether Gov. George Romney, seeking re-election, will be able to pull his senatorial appointee, Robert P. Griffin, with him into the win column. Griffin faces former Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

In Montana, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is working hard to save the Senate seat of Sen. Lee Metcalf, who has lined up with Mansfield against any escalation of the Viet Nam conflict. GOP Gov. Tim M. Babcock, who went all the way with Barry Goldwater in 1964, is regarded as something of a hawk.

GOP Sen. Len B. Jordan has run into a Republican split in Idaho that festered with the defeat of Gov. Robert E. Smylie in the primary. Although Jordan has tried to steer clear of the intraparty fighting, it could affect his chances against former Rep. Ralph R. Harding, a Democrat.

In Oregon, GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield has toned down his previous dissent with Johnson's course in Viet Nam. But his Democratic rival, Rep. Robert B. Duncan, continues to cite his support of Johnson's policies. Party strategists think the personalities of the candidates may finally settle this contest.

Traffic Accidents Claim 13 Across Pennsylvania

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents claimed 13 lives in Pennsylvania this weekend, while two other persons were the victims of accidental shootings while they were hunting.

The traffic victims included a young Fleetwood man who was killed Sunday in a crash as he was returning from a wedding where he had been best man. The man, Donald Schlegal, 23, died when his car left the road and crashed into a utility pole and vacant house, police said.

The two shooting victims died Saturday as the hunting season opened.

The victims:

Mt. Pocono — Mrs. Veronica Cunningham, 22, of Bernardsville, N.K., was killed when a car driven by her husband, James, skidded on Interstate 80 and hit a guard rail near here.

Stroudsburg—Unidentified man killed when his auto veered off the road and slammed into a guard rail in nearby Resica Falls.

Dover — Chauncey E. Seidenstricker, 76, of Dallastown, killed when a car ran off Route 74 and struck a utility pole.

Halifax—Paul W. Hoffman, 41, of Halifax RD 1, died Sunday following an accident Saturday in which his motorcycle collided with a deer.

Pittsburgh — Janet H. Stanford, 24, of Warrendale, a Pittsburgh suburb, killed when her auto left a road and crashed into a wooded area near Sewickley.

Philadelphia—Reginald Reese, 35, struck and killed Sunday by a hit-and-run auto in nearby Darby Township.

Reading—Harry J. Edison, 39, of Alburtis R. D. 1, killed on a rural road 15 miles southeast of Reading when the car in which he was a passenger hit an embankment and upset, throwing him to the highway.

Reading — Donald C. Schlegel, 23, of Fleetwood R D 3, killed eight miles north of Reading when his car hit a pole and crashed into a vacant house. He had served as best man at a wedding in Reading several hours before the fatal crash.

Waynesburg — John Melvin Bonar Jr., 18, of Cameron, W. Va., killed when the car in which he was riding ran off Route 21 and struck a tree about 15 miles west of Waynesburg.

Saturday

Reynoldsville — Ivan Miller, 30, of Knoxdale, killed by a car while standing on Route 323 just west of Reynoldsville, Jefferson County.

Philadelphia — Curtis Leslie, 19, of Philadelphia, killed in a crash near the Philadelphia zoo.

Lansdale — Mrs. Arlene V. Bell, 38, of Lansdale, killed when her car hit a tree in Lansdale.

Brookville — Albert Carbury, 82, of Brookville R D. 1, Jefferson County, accidentally shot to death by a companion in a hunting accident near his home.

Wellsboro — William L. Brill, of Wellsboro, shot fatally when a hunting companion apparently mistook him for game.

Friday

Somerset—Mrs. Sadie J. Beck, 84, of Somerset R.D. 6, killed when a jeep in which she was a passenger hit an embankment near Somerset.

Burke Family Singers Bring 'Togetherness'

By ROBERT SHANKOVICH
High School Music Instructor

The Tri-State Civic Music Association opened its current concern season with the Burke Family Singers Saturday night at Westgate Auditorium.

The Rhode Island family of singers — father, mother and 10 children — began singing together professionally in 1960. Since that time they have traveled a circuit which has taken them all over New England, New York, as well as to other parts of the United States.

The Burkes have enjoyed nationwide television exposure on the CBS "Look Up And Live" Program and have been enthusiastically received on the Ed Sullivan Show. The children, ranging in age from 12 to 25, are coached and directed by their father, Walter V. Burke, organist and choirmaster.

Through his guidance and the inspiration provided by Mrs. Ann Burke, a former teacher of speech, the family has grown musically from singing at home for their own enjoyment to their present professional status. Nineteen-year-old John did not appear with his family Saturday night. His singing career has been suspended temporarily during his service with the Marine Corps.

THE PROGRAM consisted of an array of choral literature representing a variety of mood and style. Among the sacred works were the opening prayer, "Non Nobis Domine" by the 16th - century composer, William Byrd, "Tu Es Petrus" by Palestrina, and the familiar "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Extracted from Russian Liturgy was "Hospodi Pomilui" in which the same words ("Lord have mercy") are sung 75 times in rapid succession.

Especially beautiful was a bit of Gregorian Chant — "Ave Maria", sung with pure, monastic tone color. The singers employed a staggered breathing technique giving the illusion of singing the entire text without audibly stopping to take a breath.

Folk songs included the Appalachian Carol, "I Wonder As I Wander," a sea chantey, "Shenandoah," "Skip to M'Lou," with added folk dance gestures, and "Dixie." A delightful rendition of "The Irish Girl" presented conductor - father as soloist. Interesting contrast was provided by the spiritual "Little David" and the haunting folk hymn "I Am a Poor and Homeless Stranger."

Fourteen - year - old Sarah Jo demonstrated her musical versatility with two flute solos by Gluck. The program closed with selections from "The Sound of Music."

Appropriately, the Burke Family Singers assumed the role of American counterparts of the Austrian Trapp Family, sharing the same songs from the musical by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

FROM A sheerly musical standpoint, the ensemble was somewhat lacking in vocal homogeneity. Attempts at uniformity of tone production were not very successful. A boy's voice assigned to a treble line, and a female voice assigned to a tenor line further detracted from satisfactory blend in mixed choral texture. However, from time to time, one could not mistake the presence of good voices during brief solo passages.

Much of the show's appeal was visual. It was a delight to watch the performers. Rapport increased as the audience became better acquainted with individual members of the Burke family. Post - intermission introductions and frequent anecdotal commentary were made by Mr. Burke.

The chief value of Saturday evening's concert was the manner in which the audience could relate to the Burke family circle. The listeners reacted warmly to comments preceding the encores, "'Brahms Lullaby' started out in our house as a solo." (The audience was invited to sing along.) A charming Christmas carol and a perpetual motion type of canon endeared the family in the hearts of the listeners.

The Burke Family Singers are the supreme example of that wholesome togetherness which comes from disciplined, concerted effort. In addition to sincere entertainment, there was a lesson for everyone who attended the concert.

Usherettes for the evening were Janet Andrews, Marlane Christian, Loretta DeSarro, Brenda Samberson and Marylee Strub — all members of the High School Girls' Choir.

The next Civic Music concert is scheduled for Jan. 17 and will feature baritone William Metcalf.

Baker is the son-in-law of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and thus has got a little added attention from Republican campaigners.

The Middle West provides two top contests in Illinois and Michigan and a race in Nebraska where the Democrats think they have a chance of knocking off GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis with Gov. Frank B. Morrison. This is largely a test between Curtis' conservative views and Morrison's support of the Johnson "Great Society" program.

In Illinois, the white backlash, Viet Nam and a potential sympathy vote for Republican Charles H. Percy, whose daughter was murdered, figure in his contest with Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas. But many politicians believe a decisive factor may be Percy's age of 47 matched against Douglas' 74.

In Michigan, the pros think it's a case of whether Gov. George Romney, seeking reelection, will be able to pull his senatorial appointee, Robert P. Griffin, with him into the win column. Griffin faces former Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

In Montana, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is working hard to save the Senate seat of Sen. Lee Metcalf, who has lined up with Mansfield against any escalation of the Viet Nam conflict. GOP Gov. Tim M. Babcock, who went all the way with Barry Goldwater in 1964, is regarded as something of a hawk.

GOP Sen. Len B. Jordan has run into a Republican split in Idaho that festered with the defeat of Gov. Robert E. Smylie in the primary. Although Jordan has tried to steer clear of the intraparty fighting, it could affect his chances against former Rep. Ralph R. Harding, a Democrat.

In Oregon, GOP Gov. Mark O. Hatfield has toned down his previous dissent with Johnson's course in Viet Nam. But his Democratic rival, Rep. Robert B. Duncan, continues to cite his support of Johnson's policies. Party strategists think the personalities of the candidates may finally settle this contest.

Burke Family Singers Bring 'Togetherness'

By ROBERT SHANKOVICH
High School Music Instructor

The Tri-State Civic Music Association opened its current concern season with the Burke Family Singers Saturday night at Westgate Auditorium.

The Rhode Island family of singers — father, mother and 10 children — began singing together professionally in 1960. Since that time they have traveled a circuit which has taken them all over New England, New York, as well as to other parts of the United States.

The Burkes have enjoyed nationwide television exposure on the CBS "Look Up And Live" Program and have been enthusiastically received on the Ed Sullivan Show. The children, ranging in age from 12 to 25, are coached and directed by their father, Walter V. Burke, organist and choirmaster.

Through his guidance and the inspiration provided by Mrs. Ann Burke, a former teacher of speech, the family has grown musically from singing at home for their own enjoyment to their present professional status. Nineteen-year-old John did not appear with his family Saturday night. His singing career has been suspended temporarily during his service with the Marine Corps.

THE PROGRAM consisted of an array of choral literature representing a variety of mood and style. Among the sacred works were the opening prayer, "Non Nobis Domine" by the 16th - century composer, William Byrd, "Tu Es Petrus" by Palestrina, and the familiar "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Extracted from Russian Liturgy was "Hospodi Pomilui" in which the same words ("Lord have mercy") are sung 75 times in rapid succession.

Especially beautiful was a bit of Gregorian Chant — "Ave Maria", sung with pure, monastic tone color. The singers employed a staggered breathing technique giving the illusion of singing the entire text without audibly stopping to take a breath.

Folk songs included the Appalachian Carol, "I Wonder As I Wander," a sea chantey, "Shenandoah," "Skip to M'Lou," with added folk dance gestures, and "Dixie." A delightful rendition of "The Irish Girl" presented conductor - father as soloist. Interesting contrast was provided by the spiritual "Little David" and the haunting folk hymn "I Am a Poor and Homeless Stranger."

Fourteen - year - old Sarah Jo demonstrated her musical versatility with two flute solos by Gluck. The program closed with selections from "The Sound of Music."

Appropriately, the Burke Family Singers assumed the role of American counterparts of the Austrian Trapp Family, sharing the same songs from the musical by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

—:—

FROM A sheerly musical standpoint, the ensemble was somewhat lacking in vocal homogeneity. Attempts at uniformity of tone production were not very successful. A boy's voice assigned to a treble line, and a female voice assigned to a tenor line further detracted from satisfactory blend in mixed choral texture. However, from time to time, one could not mistake the presence of good voices during brief solo passages.

Much of the show's appeal was visual. It was a delight to watch the performers. Rapport increased as the audience became better acquainted with individual members of the Burke family. Post - intermission introductions and frequent anecdotal commentary were made by Mr. Burke.

The chief value of Saturday evening's concert was the manner in which the audience could relate to the Burke family circle. The listeners reacted warmly to comments preceding the encores, "'Brahms Lullaby' started out in our house as a solo." (The audience was invited to sing along.) A charming Christmas carol and a perpetual motion type of canon endeared the family in the hearts of the listeners.

The Burke Family Singers are the supreme example of that wholesome togetherness which comes from disciplined, concerted effort. In addition to sincere entertainment, there was a lesson for everyone who attended the concert.

Usherettes for the evening were Janet Andrews, Marlane Christian, Loretta DeSarro, Brenda Samberson and Marylee Strub — all members of the High School Girls' Choir.

The next Civic Music concert is scheduled for Jan. 17 and will feature baritone William Metcalf.

'Waiting Wives' Club Formed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The women have formed a "waiting wives" club while the men are away. They take turns babysitting for one another. Town and a hairdresser are nearby. Elementary school is just around the corner.

A cozy suburb? Almost. Actually, it's a military housing experiment that could lead to the conversion of some deactivated bases into bustling communities of wives and children.

The name is Schilling Manor. Population: 3,100, including 2,500 children. It's on a portion of Schilling Air Force Base, Kan., shut down last December as a part of Pentagon economy moves.

Now, use of the base's housing is getting a favorable once over as a new approach to assuring living quarters for families of servicemen ordered to such isolated duty areas as Viet Nam.

At Schilling Manor, servicemen's families are guaranteed housing the entire period their "sponsors" — the menfolk — are serving out one-year overseas.

"This housing is especially for what we call 'short-fuse' guys who have to go pretty fast without much time to arrange something for their wives," a spokesman said.

The military services routinely accommodate such families wanting or needing government quarters by assigning them excess housing on a what's-available basis at various installations. But people assigned to those bases naturally get first choice.

After 10 months, Schilling Manor's success seems assured. The project will be continued at least through 1968, a spokesman said.

Whether to open other housing at deactivated bases is being considered. Army studies are under way to determine what future housing needs will be.

More than 600 wives from all over the country have chosen Schilling Manor, near Salina, Kan., over "going home to mama," the defense spokesman said.

Officials expect the 730 homes — two, three and four-bedroom houses — to be filled by the end of the year.

The project is open to families of all services but the Army is more or less in charge of the operation.

The rent ranges from $135 a month to $205, depending on a man's rank.

Revolt Fails In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — One rebel officer was killed and another was captured as they tried to start a revolt at a National Guard school outside Caracas Sunday, the defense ministry announced.

It was the first reported rebellion of consequence against the 2½-year-old administration of President Raul Leoni.

Military spokesmen said the slain officer, Lt. Col. Clemente Pacheco Ochoa, had left the country in 1962 with a group of officers suspected of leftist activities. Unconfirmed reports said rightist supporters of former Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez instigated the uprising.

Leaders of the Civic National Crusade, a small party that plans to run Perez Jimenez for president in 1968, were reported being sought for questioning. The government blames the crusade for several recent disturbances, including an attempted general strike to protest Perez Jimenez' imprisonment on embezzlement charges.

Leoni, the first constitutionally elected leader to succeed another elected president since Venezuela became independent in 830, has formed a coalition with labor and peasant support and has carried out a land reform program.

Vodrey To Speak During Event Of Hancock Society

William H. Vodrey Jr. of Armstrong Ln. will be the principal speaker during the first "Panhandle" dinner sponsored by the Hancock County Historical Society Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the Millsop Community Center in Weirton.

Vodrey, an attorney, is president of the Ohio Historical Society, treasurer of the East Liverpool Historical Society and co-author with R. M. Gard of the book, "The Sandy and Beaver Canal."

He is an authority on the early history of the upper Ohio River Valley. Mrs. James O'Roark will be the dinner soloist.

The purpose of the dinner is to promote a more knowledgeable interest in and a greater appreciation of the early history of the entire Panhandle area. The public is invited. Mrs. Frank Bowman of Weirton is the dinner chairman.

The famed writer Robert Lewis Stevenson spent most of his life as an invalid in bed.

Candidates Are Initiated At K.C. Rally

Sixty major degree candidates from District 6 Knights of Columbus Councils were initiated Sunday afternoon in exercises held at the St. Aloysius school hall here.

The class was named in honor of Fr. William Hohman, pastor of St. Ann's church in the East End.

James McPeak, Wellsville district deputy, presided at the rites.

Toastmaster was Fred Baldasare and the guest speaker John K. Mahaney, Warren attorney.

More than 200 attended the dinner. Guests included Robert Becker of Canton; Charles Emery, district deputy of Sharon, Pa.; Hugh Taylor, district deputy from Sebring; Bruno Zito, Knights of Columbus general insurance councilor from Warren; Fr. Raymond of St. Theresa's Monastery in Youngstown; Fr. Christopher Lynch, assistant pastor at St. Aloysius, and Fr. Donald DiCarlo, an assistant pastor at St. Aloysius.

Speaking for the new class was Paul Barbuto of Fr. Thome Council 5885 in East End.

The invocation was given by Fr. William Lawler, pastor at St. Aloysius. Fr. Frederick Anzivino of St. John's Church in Summittville offered the benediction.

"No Inflation Here" could be a sign displayed at the ticket office of the Mt. Washington Carriage Road to Pinkham Notch, New Hampshire. The road was 100 years old in 1961, but the toll of $5 for car and driver was started back in 1911, just a little over 50 years ago, and has not changed to this day.

Warning Issued Against Pranks Involving Autos

"A thoughtless Halloween prank often leads to a serious traffic accident," Sergeant R. J. Rizzo, commander of the Lisbon Ohio Highway Patrol Post, warned today.

"Placing obstructions on roadways, throwing objects from highway overpasses onto traffic below and similar pranks are extremely dangerous," points out the Sergeant. "In addition, they are definite violations of law."

State Patrolmen will be especially alert for any pranks that might affect traffic on the highways. Pranksters will be dealt with to the full extent of the law. If a highway death should result, this could mean a manslaughter charge.

Backing up regular officers will be the Patrol Auxiliary and volunteer members of amateur radio groups. These men will guard the more dangerous overpasses in the area as a deterrent to dangerous acts.

Sergeant Rizzo appealed to parents to keep a close watch on their children to see that things don't get out of hand and turn into acts that are dangerous or harmful to property.

He urged that children wearing masks and false faces be cautioned about crossing streets and highways. A combination of darkness and restricted visibility could add up to a child's failure to see an approaching vehicle. The result could be tragic.

"One single traffic accident could turn this season of celebration and fun into one of tragedy," said the Sergeant.

Suicide ranks 10th among the causes of death among American adults.

Paint With The Season

Now, when the air is brisk, is the time to create a stimulating adventure in your own home—an adventure that's as easy as wielding a paint brush!

Look at your living, dining and recreation areas with a creative eye and imagine how a sudden change of color can add liveliness and warmth to the happiest rooms in your home.

All artists know that color is a psychological medium, so let the magic of color bring out the artist in you. In a room where the four walls seem to enclose you, push those walls away with a light, fresh color like yellow or pale blue.

IF YOU HAVE a room that seems chilly, take the ice out of the air by using a vibrant color. Remember that blues, violets and greens will give the opposite impression — that of coolness. Or try a splash of color on one wall for a special effect. Your color choice can complement both your personality and the needs of individual rooms.

To begin your adventure, fill all large cracks with patching plaster and small hairline cracks with spackling material, using a putty knife, an old kitchen knife, or the handiest tools of all — a finger and a thumb. When the patches are dry, sandpaper them until they are even with the surface of the wall. Be sure to dust the walls thoroughly to assure a perfect finish.

Remove all light fixtures. And to avoid that speckled effect and to make your painting easier, remove all hardware from doors and windows. At this point, completely cover your furniture and floors to eliminate damage from errant paint spatters.

USE ANY application tools that you wish — a paint brush, roller or both. Or try a spray gun for a quick job. If you use a roller, you will find a paint brush useful in hard to reach areas such as corners, woodwork and the edges of walls.

Before you begin to paint, read the manufacturer's directions on the paint can — you will find that they differ according to the type of paint used. And remember this tip from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association — a protective cream on your hands will make cleanup a snap.

After applying the undercoater or sealer, use the following steps as a guide to easier and more efficient painting. Paint the ceiling first, using this time-saving pattern — work across the width rather than the length of the room in order to begin the second coat before the first has dried.

For walls, start at the upper left hand corner and work down, using either a brush or a roller. When the walls are dry, you are ready to paint the woodwork and trim.

Tips Are Offered For Handling Of Hairline Cracks

AP Newsfeatures

Question: We moved into a new home three months ago. We are having trouble with the plaster. Hairline cracks are showing, not just in one room, but throughout the house — above and under windows, around doors, etc. Will these get more numerous? How serious are they? What should I do?

Answer: Hairline cracks are not unusual in new houses. They are the result of the house settling into position in the soil. They are not serious as long as they remain hairline cracks and if they do not continue indefinitely.

Your first step should be to notify the builder and to see whether his opinion coincides with the above. If it does, you probably have nothing to worry about. Ask him, on the basis of his experience in that area, how long the condition will persist.

However, make your own tests to determine whether things are static or getting worse. Make small pencil marks on the walls at the two ends of each crack, or at least at the two ends of some of the cracks. Inspect these marks every few days to see whether they are getting longer.

You cannot rely on your eyes alone for this test. If you do, you may imagine the openings are getting longer or, just the opposite, you may get so used to seeing them you won't notice any increases in size. Should the test reveal that the cracks are getting longer and wider past the time estimate made by the builder, get back to him and find out what's going on.

Another Flight Move Mapped For Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists tried today to determine the new flight pattern of the Intelsat 2 communications satellite after an unsuccessful attempt Sunday to propel it into its permanent orbit.

Spokesmen for the Communications Satellite Corp. did not indicate when they would try again to put the drum-shaped satellite into a synchronous orbit which would cause it to hover over the equator at the international dateline, 22,300 miles above the Gilbert Islands.

Sealer Urged In Hardboard

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

Hardboard, smooth and without the grain characteristic of natural wood, is easy to paint because of its lack of surface irregularities.

But the density fools many persons into thinking that it does not require a primer before applying the finishng coat.

To be certain that the top coat is not unevenly absorbed by the hardboard, sealing most definitely is necessary.

Standard hardboard, generally used indoors, especially absorbs paint because it has a more porous surface than the tempered variety, which is designed principally for the outdoors.

However, tempered hardboard, if it has not been factory-primed, also requires sealing because, in most cases, it is directly exposed to the weather. In fact, tempered hardboard used in the open should be sealed along its edges as well as on the front and back.

Indoors, the sealer can be shellac, latex paint, enamel undercoater or any oil or alkyd base primer. Outdoors, the best bet probably is an exterior house paint primer, followed by two coats of exterior paint.

When the hardboard is being installed horizontally — which means that rain may fall on it and stay there for periods of time — it's a good idea to use a good grade of floor-and-deck enamel as the top coat.

Hardboard should be clean and dry before being painted. Since it is often painted after being nailed to studding or other framework, it is important that the nailheads be countersunk and puttied.

Some professional painters eliminate the trouble of countersinking large numbers of nails by using, instead, an anti-corrosive primer.

Some persons like the brownish appearance of hardboard and do not want to change the color. They can retain the original tone and yet provide protection against grease and dirt by giving the hardboard one or two coats of a penetrating wood sealer.

Incidentally, it should be remembered that hardboard is reconstituted natural wood and is made by "exploding" wood chips into wood fibers under high - pressure steam. The fibers are then pressed together by huge machines to form panels of various sizes and thicknesses.

Women's Rights To Be Pushed By National Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 300 men and women have formed the National Organization for Women designed to break through what it calls "the silken curtain of prejudice and discrimination against women" in all fields in America.

The group, formed after a weekend organizational meeting, said it would work for "a fully equal partnership of the sexes, as part of the worldwide revolution of human rights."

In a statement of purpose, it urged women to work for equality "not in pleas for special privilege, nor in enmity toward men, who are also victims of the current half-equality between the sexes, but in self-respecting partnership with men."

Betty Friedan, social critic and author who wrote the best-selling book "The Feminine Mystique," was elected president. Named chairman of the board was Dr. Kathryn Clarenbach, University of Wisconsin director of continuing education and chairman of the Wisconsin governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

The 300 charter members include men and women representing all religious, ethnic and economic groups.

Richard Graham, director of the National Teacher Corps and former commissioner of equal employment opportunity, was elected vice president and four other men were named to the 20-member board of directors.

The group called on the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to enforce laws prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex and urged wider use of women in industry and government.

Paint With The Season

Now, when the air is brisk, is the time to create a stimulating adventure in your own home—an adventure that's as easy as wielding a paint brush!

Look at your living, dining and recreation areas with a creative eye and imagine how a sudden change of color can add liveliness and warmth to the happiest rooms in your home.

All artists know that color is a psychological medium, so let the magic of color bring out the artist in you. In a room where the four walls seem to enclose you, push those walls away with a light, fresh color like yellow or pale blue.

IF YOU HAVE a room that seems chilly, take the ice out of the air by using a vibrant color. Remember that blues, violets and greens will give the opposite impression — that of coolness. Or try a splash of color on one wall for a special effect. Your color choice can complement both your personality and the needs of individual rooms.

To begin your adventure, fill all large cracks with patching plaster and small hairline cracks with spackling material, using a putty knife, an old kitchen knife, or the handiest tools of all — a finger and a thumb. When the patches are dry, sandpaper them until they are even with the surface of the wall. Be sure to dust the walls thoroughly to assure a perfect finish.

Remove all light fixtures. And to avoid that speckled effect and to make your painting easier, remove all hardware from doors and windows. At this point, completely cover your furniture and floors to eliminate damage from errant paint spatters.

USE ANY application tools that you wish — a paint brush, roller or both. Or try a spray gun for a quick job. If you use a roller, you will find a paint brush useful in hard to reach areas such as corners, woodwork and the edges of walls.

Before you begin to paint, read the manufacturer's directions on the paint can — you will find that they differ according to the type of paint used. And remember this tip from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association — a protective cream on your hands will make cleanup a snap.

After applying the undercoater or sealer, use the following steps as a guide to easier and more efficient painting. Paint the ceiling first, using this time-saving pattern — work across the width rather than the length of the room in order to begin the second coat before the first has dried.

For walls, start at the upper left hand corner and work down, using either a brush or a roller. When the walls are dry, you are ready to paint the woodwork and trim.

That's Advice To Housewives

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you're putting a new addition on your house ladies, learn to speak Chinese or Swahili.

That is, unless you are in an area where workmen are African or Chinese. In other words, play dumb.

Whenever you are asked a question, say (in Chinese or Swahili) "I don't know," "call my husband at his office," or "come back tomorrow."

The workmen won't understand, but that should make you even. You probably don't understand what he is saying or doing either.

—:—

THE MAN of the house goes off to the rigors of the work day and leaves his wife to cope with such aesthetic pleasures as directing traffic for a bulldozer, finding a missing level for a carpenter or playing footings with the mason. Footings (and why should you know) is what your new house addition will rest on.

In between getting youngsters off to school, doing laundry and canning tomatoes, she's supposed to slosh around in cement to see that everything is just dandy and going the way the architect suggested.

When the excavator hits ledge it's the lady of the house who must make the split - second decision of whether they are going to blast (at $500 a stick of dynamite) or give up a crawl space and settle for a 3-inch foundation. That — her husband will tell her later was the wrong decision. Whichever one.

If you don't think things can get stuccoed up with masonry, talk to any housewife who has been on the scene where the action takes place.

—:—

ONE MASON put a slab foundation down before the heating duct was laid. Another ignored a plan that called for a bed of gravel before cement and block, and utilized the owner's large stones that were put aside for a stone wall.

The mason can blame the architect. But the likely candidate for a husband's blame is who else?

There are pitfalls that even a husband can't anticipate.

For example, if a mason shows up with a crew on a day when rain is threatening, he'll make sure it's not going to be a total loss.

He hastens to complete the job before a downpour, and later when you examine the perimeter, you're likely to discover that all bulges in foundations aren't on the human anatomy. This situation, your husband will tell you as an afterthought, is because the mason used quarter-inch plywood to hold back the cement. He wants you to remember that next time. Next time?

Masons can get into rough spots unwittingly. Can't we all. But masons have slide rules in their heads. No matter how rough the going gets, his head is going like a computer.

He's not going to give up without a fight, come high water, snow fall or a new form of mathematics. There will not be enough sand left over for a mudpie, lending credance to the often-heard rumor that many masons build their own houses out of gold bricks.

ANYONE who has had problems keeping on an even footing with a mason, has a real treat when she tries to get through to a bulldozer operator. This is an assignment that you should never accept from your husband.

The scene goes like this: Your husband spends the entire weekend marking trees that should be removed, and trees that absolutely must be saved like his favorite dogwood tree or 400-year-old maple. They'll be the first to go.

A bulldozer operator considers anything in his path as fair game. You've been given all the instructions, but swoosh, it's all over in a minute.

The only comfort for do-it yourselfers who must supervise their own house building is the thought that all humans err, even those who decide to build an addition to their house.

Steel Picture Looks Better

CLEVELAND (AP) — Again this week, the reduction in steel inventories by users that has been largely responsible for the current decline in steel production showed signs of nearing an end, Steel Magazine said today.

The metalworking weekly said users are doing good business over - all, and are consuming steel at a high rate. "Many of them . . . have reduced their inventories to a point where they can't pare them much more and preserve operating efficiency," Steel said.

The magazine said steel users anticipate a return to a pattern of steady buying soon. It said a Chicago area mill expects a 10 per cent gain next month over October orders, its optimism based on a resumption of steel ordering by tank and heavy equipment manufacturers.

Steel also said buyers of components would boost their inventories during the November-January period. "Stocks are lower than expected because of longer lead times from suppliers and higher-than-predicted consumption in their own plants," it added.

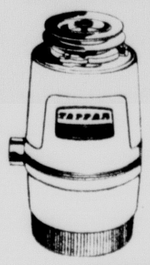

Although ingot production is in its third consecutive week of decline, mills are producing 500,000 tons a week more than the pace a year ago, Steel said.

Ingot production for the year to date continues to gain on last year, now only .6 per cent behind (109.4 million tons this year compared with 110.1 million tons last year through this date), the magazine said.

Automakers are ordering sheets in a little larger volume than a month ago, Steel said. "Some sheet sellers are looking for a 10 per cent increase next month and a similar showing in December."

In general, lead times on steel products are short, the weekly said. But deliveries of specialty steels are extended, with a large part of the tonnage going into defense and related work.

Ingot production for the year to date continues to gain on last year, now only .6 per cent behind (109.4 million tons this year compared with 110.1 million tons last year through this date), the magazine said.

Automakers are ordering sheets in a little larger volume than a month ago, Steel said. "Some sheet sellers are looking for a 10 per cent increase next month and a similar showing in December."

In general, lead times on steel products are short, the weekly said. But deliveries of specialty steels are extended, with a large part of the tonnage going into defense and related work.

Hale, Koehnlein Spark Raider Win

BRILLIANT — Stanton Local, the district's only undefeated team and ranked among the top 10 Class A teams in the state, ran its winning streak to seven in a row with a 38-16 rout of Brilliant here Saturday afternoon.

The victory served as a warm-up to Stanton's crucial game coming up Friday night with Jefferson Union, possibly the only team to stand between the Red Raiders and an undefeated season. After JU, Stanton closes the season at home against Smithfield.

LEADING the victory over Brilliant for Coach Glenn Trout's forces were Jack Hale who scored two touchdowns including one on a 94-yard dash for what might be a school record while the other hero was tackle Bill Koehnlein who is credited with blocking two punts which set up two touchdowns.

The first time Stanton got possession of the ball it was a touchdown as Hale raced 94 yards on the first play from scrimmage to give Stanton a 6-0 lead.

A FEW MINUTES later, Koehnlein blocked his first of two punts with Stanton taking over on the Brilliant 16. On the first play again, Hale streaked 16 yards for the TD.

Before the first quarter ended, Stanton scored again when Koehnlein blocked another punt giving the Raiders possession on the Brilliant nine. Two plays later Norm Grimm went over from seven yards out.

All three first period touchdowns came within five minutes time.

STANTON went on to add a pair of touchdowns in the third period when Rich Seevers passed 15 yards to Tom Dunlap then Joe Wickham cashed in from six yards out.

Elmer Tice capped Stanton's scoring in the fourth period on an eight-yard jaunt.

The other touchdown came in the closing seconds of the game when Gary Schafer stole the ball from the Stanton quarterback and went 15 yards to paydirt.

Stanton showed a 12-5 edge in first downs.

United Drops 4th Contest To W. Branch

HANOVERTON — United's season record was all even at 4-4 after Saturday's 22-2 loss at the hands of West Branch.

West Branch which is now 5-2 on the season was led by Bob Grove who scored on runs of 53 and five yards while the other Warrior TD came on a 47 yard jaunt by John Runzo.

United's only score came in the third period when Grove was tackled in the end zone.

World's Amateur Golf Crown Won By Australians

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Australia used an old, beat-up strategy but it worked—and so today the Aussies are the men's amateur golf team champions of the world.

"I told my boys to go out and play the course and not worry about the individuals," said the gray-haired team captain, D.W. Dwyer.

"They did just that, and we won. I am proud of them."

The Australians won the Eisenhower Trophy — just as they had done in the inaugural event at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1958 with a four-day score of 877.

They beat out a rallying United States team by two shots. The Americans were at 879 with Japan third at 892 and South Africa fourth at 894. The South Americans, leaders going into the final round, collapsed on the final day, with Bobby Cole, their 19-year-old ace, skying to a 77.

The Aussies won by keeping their heads while their opposition was fighting the tricky greens and each other over the 6,125-yard Club de Golf Mexico, a demanding test of golf.

Only Deane Beman, the little tiger of Bethesda, Md., made a real charge at it. He shot a three-under-par 69 to put the Americans within shooting range but the Yanks couldn't do it.

Dorning Gray of Pensacola, Fla., 28-year-old Walker Cup veteran, had a 75.

The other two Americans, Bob Murphy of the University of Florida, and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., shot 73 and 74, respectively.

Romeo's Owners Renew Challenge To Bret Hanover

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — "We'd like to go for Horse-of-the-Year honors now," said Milton Goldstein, one of the co-owners of Romeo Hanover the 1966 winner of pacing's Triple Crown.

"We're renewing our challenge to Bret Hanover for a winner take-all match race," Goldstein said after Romeo had romped by 4¾ lengths in the $169,885 Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

It was Romeo's 18th straight victory, his 31st in 35 career starts, and upped his over-all earnings to $473,931.

Bret Hanover, harness Horse of the Year the last two years, was beaten by Adios Vic at Hollywood Park in California Saturday. It was only his fifth defeat in 67 starts, four of them by Adios Vic on a one-mile oval.

Bret apparently will pass up Romeo Hanover's challenge. According to his owners, the super horse will run the final race of his career Saturday in the $50,000 American Racing Classic at Hollywood Park.

TOUCHDOWN BOUND is Cleveland's Leroy Kelly (44) who evades the reach of Tommy Nobis (60) on his way for a 70-yard touchdown run in the first period Sunday at Atlanta. The Browns went on to rout Atlanta, 49-17. (UPI Telephoto)

Protest Follows Major Stock Car Win By Lorenzen

By BLOYS BRITT

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Fred Lorenzen easily outran 43 other drivers for his first big stock car victory of the season Sunday, but it was 2½ hours before he was sure he could make it stick.

Lorenzen already had departed from North Carolina Motor Speedway when officials of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) ruled against second-place winner Don White, who had protested the ace Ford driver's victory.

The $14,885 winner's share of the $74,000 purse was at stake.

The 31-year-old Elmhurst, Ill., former carpenter's helper, who has won more money than any other stock car driver in history, was three laps ahead of White when the checkered flag fell at the end of the second annual "American 500" over the one mile speedway. The race lasted four hours, 47 minutes.

White's car owner, Ray Nichels of Highland, Ind., filed the protest, asking NASCAR officials to check Lorenzen's fuel tank, engine and car weight. Among other things, Nichels said none of the race cars was weighed on the morning of the race as is customary.

NASCAR officials said they decided to forego a weigh-in since it was the last race of the season.

The issue quickly reached the boiling point when Lorenzen's car owner, John Holman of Charlotte, demanded that the cars of the first five finishers be checked for compliance with all NASCAR regulations.

The cars were immediately impounded, their engines dismantled and given a two hour inspection by technicians. Norris Friel, NASCAR's chief inspector, then announced that all of the cars were legal.

Lorenzen averaged 104.347 miles per hour.

Sophomore Hero In BG's Upset Of Unbeaten Miami

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

A sophomore who participated in only one college play prior to last Saturday was the Big Man on the Bowling Green campus today.

Quarterback Paul Nyitray played the hero's role, guiding the disappointing Falcons to a stunning 17-14 upset victory over Miami that snapped the Redskins 12-game winning streak, longest in the nation.

A product of Toledo Waite, Nyitray bucked across with the decisive touchdown in the final minute of action on a fourth and one situation. He also outshone Miami's heralded Bruce Matte.

"I had to put it in," Nyitray said. "I knew it was do or die. I did it for the seniors, they really wanted this one."

The setback dropped the Skins into a first-place tie with Western Michigan in the Mid-American Conference and set the stage for a wild finish this weekend.

Western, deadlocked with Miami with identical 4-1 records, outlasted Marshall 35-29, and plays host to Ohio University Saturday. Miami must play at tough Toledo Saturday night.

The Bowling Green victory wasn't the only surprise on the Buckeye collegiate football scene.

At Minneapolis, error-prone Ohio State lost another conference game it was supposed to win when the Gophers humbled the Bucks, 17-7.

Coach Woody Hayes, obviously disturbed with the outcome, set some sort of record for post-game interviews with a 20-second commentary.

The Buckeyes, who were bidding to keep their hopes alive for a second place finish in the Big Ten standings with a 1-3 record and face their worst finish since 1959, when they tied for eighth.

It was a bad day elsewhere for Ohio clubs involved in intersectional conflicts.

Villanova downed Xavier 13-7; Tulsa whipped Cincinnati 13-0; Northern Illinois bombed Akron 31-18; Northern Michigan dropped Findlay 24-7 and Earlham clipped Wilmington 26-21. Only Central State, with a 20-0 triumph over West Virginia State and Bluffton which edged Manchester 14-13, came through with successes against outside opposition.

Resurgent Dayton, with the help of a brilliant defensive performance by linebacker Bob Shortal, won its sixth in seven starts by beating Ohio University 20-12. Shortal intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble in key moves that led to two touchdowns.

Cincinnati's loss to Tulsa cost it first place in the Missouri Valley Conference as the Hurricanes took over the top spot.

Xavier's ace quarterback Carroll Williams suffered the worst day of his college career when he hit only two of 23 passes. One errant toss resulted in a pass interception for a 30-yard touchdown that gave Villanova the ball game.

In others, Kent State won its second straight behind the power running of Don (Bull) Fitzgerald, the nation's leading ground gainer. Fitzgerald, who scored twice in the Golden Flashes' 28-20 triumph over Toledo, broke a MAC rushing record with 142 yards. He now has 695 yards in five games shattering the record of 687 set by Kent's Willie Asbury last year.

Wittenberg earned at least a share of the Ohio Conference title by knocking off aspiring Ohio Wesleyan 27-0. The Tigers, finishing league play with a 4-0 mark, held the Bishops to minus four yards rushing.

Denison boosted its OC record to 5-0 getting by rugged Baldwin-Wallace 21-12 setting the stage for its showdown match Saturday against conference champion Muskingum, 4-0.

The Muskies, behind halfback Rick Harbold's four-touchdown splurge, blasted Ohio Northern 47-0 for their fifth shutout of the season.

In others, Akron's Ron Tyson rambled 243 yards in 42 carries, including an 80-yard touchdown dash, but the Zips lost anyway. Chris Smith caught three touchdown passes in Oberlin's 30-6 romp over Kenyon; freshman Johnny Day scored twice, once on a 97-yard kickoff return, in Central State's victory; Mount Union downed Marietta 20-10; Capital edged Ashland 21-14; Heidelberg blanked Otterbein 22-0; Wooster overran Hiram 56-22; Bethany whipped Case 28-0 and John Carroll topped Western Reserve 23-7.

What's this, Detroit in first place in the NBA's Western Division and Los Angeles in the cellar?

The Pistons, unaccustomed as they are to leading the league, are doing just that after edging the Lakers 124-121 in Montreal Sunday night.

And the Lakers, playing without Jerry West and Elgin Baylor — both out with leg injuries — are in last place.

It was Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere's seven points in the final two minutes that did in Los Angeles, which had moved out to a 115-111 lead early in the final period.

In Saturday's action, Philadelphia beat Boston 138-96, Detroit took Baltimore 103-97 and St. Louis edged Los Angeles 110-109.

World's Amateur Golf Crown Won By Australians

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Australia used an old, beat-up strategy but it worked—and so today the Aussies are the men's amateur golf team champions of the world.

"I told my boys to go out and play the course and not worry about the individuals," said the gray-haired team captain, D.W. Dwyer.

"They did just that, and we won. I am proud of them."

The Australians won the Eisenhower Trophy — just as they ... done in the inaugural event ... Andrews, Scotland, in 1958 ... th a four-day score of 877.

... y beat out a rallying United ... ates team by two shots. ... Americans were at 879 with ... third at 892 and South ... fourth at 894. The South ... ns, leaders going into the ... ound, collapsed on the fi... ay, with Bobby Cole, their ... ear-old ace, skying to a 77.

... he Aussies won by keeping ... eir heads while their opposi... on was fighting the tricky ... reens and each other over the ... ,125-yard Club de Golf Mexico, a demanding test of golf.

Only Deane Beman, the little tiger of Bethesda, Md., made a real charge at it. He shot a three-under-par 69 to put the Americans within shooting range but the Yanks couldn't do it.

Dorning Gray of Pensacola, Fla., 28-year-old Walker Cup veteran, had a 75.

The other two Americans, Bob Murphy of the University of Florida, and Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael, Calif., shot 73 and 74, respectively.

Romeo's Owners Renew Challenge To Bret Hanover

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — "We'd like to go for Horse-of-the-Year honors now," said Milton Goldstein, one of the co-owners of Romeo Hanover the 1966 winner of pacing's Triple Crown.

"We're renewing our challenge to Bret Hanover for a winner take-all match race," Goldstein said after Romeo ... romped by 4¾ lengths in the $169,885 Messenger Stakes at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

It was Romeo's 18th straight victory, his 31st in 35 career starts, and upped his over-all earnings to $473,931.

Bret Hanover, harness Horse of the Year the last two years, was beaten by Adios Vic at Hollywood Park in California Saturday. It was only his fifth defeat in 67 starts, four of them by Adios Vic on a one-mile oval.

Bret apparently will pass up Romeo Hanover's challenge. According to his owners, the super horse will run the final race of his career Saturday in the $50,000 American Racing Classic at Hollywood Park.

Protest Follows Major Stock Car Win By Lorenzen

By BLOYS BRITT

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Fred Lorenzen easily outran 43 other drivers for his first big stock car victory of the season Sunday, but it was 2½ hours before he was sure he could make it stick.

Lorenzen already had departed from North Carolina Motor Speedway when officials of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) ruled against second-place winner Don White, who had protested the ace Ford driver's victory.

The $14,885 winner's share of the $74,000 purse was at stake.

The 31-year-old Elmhurst, Ill., former carpenter's helper, who has won more money than any other stock car driver in history, was three laps ahead of White when the checkered flag fell at the end of the second annual "American 500" over the one mile speedway. The race lasted four hours, 47 minutes.

White's car owner, Ray Nichels of Highland, Ind., filed the protest, asking NASCAR officials to check Lorenzen's fuel tank, engine and car weight. Among other things, Nichels said none of the race cars was weighed on the morning of the race as is customary.

NASCAR officials said they decided to forego a weigh-in since it was the last race of the season.

The issue quickly reached the boiling point when Lorenzen's car owner, John Holman of Charlotte, demanded that the cars of the first five finishers be checked for compliance with all NASCAR regulations.

The cars were immediately impounded, their engines dismantled and given a two hour inspection by technicians. Norris Friel, NASCAR's chief inspector, then announced that all of the cars were legal.

Lorenzen averaged 104.347 miles per hour.

Sub Pitts Scores 3 To Lead Packers Past Lions, 31-7

Dallas Rips Pittsburgh Club, 52-21

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski can afford to be patient but Elijah Pitts, the odd man in Green Bay's backfield galaxy, isn't playing the waiting game.

Anderson and Grabowski, the heirs-apparent to veteran stars Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, counted their bonus money Sunday while Pitts, filling in for the injured Hornung, led the Packers to a 31-7 National Football League triumph over the Detroit Lions.

Pitts, a speedster from little Philander-Smith, Ark., College, scurried for 99 yards — most in one game for a Packer this season — and scored three touchdowns as the defending NFL champions romped to their seventh victory in eight starts.

He carried five times for all but 10 yards in a 55-yard second-quarter drive, bolting over from the four for the first Green Bay touchdown, then plunged three yards for another score and caught a 24-yard TD pass from Bart Starr.

Pitts, who made the Green Bay club as a 13th round draft pick in 1960, has run for 178 yards and caught eight passes for 210 yards this year, surpassing his 1965 figures in each department.

Hornung, who suffered a pinched nerve in his neck three weeks ago, was available for action but did not play for the second straight game.

The Packers' third straight one-sided victory protected their two-game Western Division lead over the Baltimore Colts, who whipped Los Angeles 17-3 behind record-breaking Johnny Unitas. Unitas threw two touchdown passes — including an 89-yard bomb to John Mackey on the Colts' first offensive play — and bettered Y. A. Tittle's career record for passing yardage.

Elsewhere, Dallas rocked Pittsburgh 52-21; Cleveland trampled Atlanta 49-17; Minnesota drubbed San Francisco 28-3 and Washington downed Philadelphia 27-13.

Unitas stunned the Rams with his TD strike to Mackey the first time he handled the ball and later hit the tight end with a 17-yard scoring pass. The Baltimore ace broke Tittle's lifetime mark of 28,339 yards with a 31-yard pitch to Raymond Berry in the third quarter and finished with a total of 28,375.

Don Meredith fired four touchdown passes, including an 84-yarder to Pete Gent; Mel Renfro returned a kickoff 87 yards for a touchdown and linebacker Lee Roy Jordan scored on a 49-yard interception runback, leading Dallas past the Steelers.

The victory sent the Cowboys into a first-place tie with St. Louis in the Eastern Division at 5-1-1. The Cardinals play Chicago tonight at St. Louis.

Cleveland's Frank Ryan also passed for four touchdowns and LeRoy Kelly raced 70 yards for another as the Browns pulled away from the winless Falcons in the second half and remained in the Eastern title race with a 5-2 mark. Jim Ninowski, who replaced Ryan late in the game, capped the Cleveland barrage with a pair of TD passes.

Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton scrambled the 49ers, passing for two scores, running for two more and picking up 349 yards in all. Tarkenton completed 17 of 31 passes for 278 yards and added 71 yards on the ground.

Sonny Jurgensen hit Bobby Mitchell with a four-yard touchdown toss in the fourth quarter, snapping a 13-13 tie, and the Redskins wrapped it up less than 1½ minutes later on another four-yard TD pass, Jurgensen to Jerry Smith. Jim Shorter's 54-yard run with a stolen pass set up the go-ahead touchdown.

Petchel's 3 TD Passes Pace 27-22 Win By Western Over South Siders

Sophomore quarterback John Petchel, son of former Midland coach John Petchel, threw three touchdown passes in leading Western Beaver past South Side 27-22 to spoil a homecoming celebration for South Side Saturday afternoon.

Petchel had one favorite target Saturday hitting Pat Lacey on all three occasions on passes covering 15, 12 and 10 yards.

South Side took a 2-0 lead when the hard hitting Ram defense tackled Petchel in the end zone for a safety.

Western Beaver came back to score in the second period when Lacey caught his first of three touchdown passes. The Petchel - Lacey combination clicked for two more touchdown in the third period to open the gap then Mike Lacey ran 15 yards with a fumble to cap the Beavers scoring.

South Side also had a passing combination of Tom Doak and Ron Peden which clicked for two touchdowns covering 15 and 28 yards while Ron Allison accounted for the other TD on a three yard run.

Nance's Rushing Puts Boston 1st

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Scalding water almost washed out Jim Nance's football career when he was four years old. Now he's blazed a trail for Boston to the top of the American Football League's Eastern Division.

Like a bulldozer in a jungle, the 235-pound Nance knocked down just about everything in his way Sunday as the Patriots defeated the red-hot Oakland Raiders 24-21 for their third straight victory.

The triumph, coupled with Buffalo's 33-23 decision over New York, put the Patriots one-half game ahead of the Bills and the Jets in the East. Oakland, which had won three straight, drooped two games back in the West.

Nance, a second-year pro, rambled for 159 yards on 19 carries in the first half and wound up with 208 yards on 38 tries for the game.

The performance, the third best in AFL history, fired Nance far ahead of his closest contenders for the league rushing crown. The former Syracuse fullback has gained 753 yards this season, averaging 107 a game and 4.6 a carry.

Anyone who knew Nance 19 years ago never would have thought such a record possible.

"We had one of those old stoves in our house, and my brother was boiling some hot water," Nance explained. "When he tried to move it from the stove to the sink, I reached up and pulled his arm. I got scalded."

"I was in the hospital for 77 days, but I don't even remember it. Some of the water hit my head, and the doctors told me that if it had hit my eyes I would have been blinded. My left shoulder got the worst of it, and they thought it was burned so badly it wouldn't grow normally.

"But it did. I was lucky."

So were the Patriots.

In other AFL games San Diego defeated Denver 24-17 and Kansas City whipped Houston 46-23.

Nance scored two touchdowns from inside the three while Gino Cappelletti took care of the rest of Boston's scoring with a 24-yard touchdown pass from Babe Parilli, three extra points and a 15-yard field goal. Clem Daniels scored Oakland's three touchdowns.

The Jets, with Joe Namath throwing two touchdown passes, threatened Buffalo with a 20-point fourth quarter, but the Bills already had piled up too great a lead. Charley Warner's 95-yard touchdown run with the second-half kickoff plus four field goals by Booth Lusteg sparked the Bills.

Kansas City stayed on top of the Western Division, bombing Houston with long distance touchdowns. Johnny Robinson and Willie Mitchell teamed on a 78-yard run with an intercepted pass and a lateral, Mike Garrett raced 77 yards and Pete Beathard combined with Otis Taylor on a 77-yard pass play.

It never touches a drop.

The Volkswagen is cooled by air. Not water. An ingenious advantage.

Since air cannot freeze, the Volkswagen engine cannot. Even at temperatures below zero, it is safe and sound.

The VW has no radiator problems for an eloquently simple reason.

It has no radiator.

Viz: It never needs anti-freeze. It never needs flushing out. There is no radiator hose to crack and leak and possibly lose expensive anti-freeze.

When drivers line up for anti-freeze etc. on the first bitter winter day, the VW owner is spared the annoyance.

Not to mention the expense.

The Volkswagen has an equal advantage in hot weather.

Air cannot boil any more than it can freeze.

Neither can the VW.

In bumper-to-bumper traffic, when tempers and water grow short, when cars sit at the side of the road waiting to cool, the little Volkswagen goes right on past.

It is above it all.

Riding on air.

Palmer Wins Aussie Open

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Arnold Palmer three-putted the last green, but it couldn't have mattered less; he won the Australian Open Golf Championship by five strokes.

Palmer shot a one-under-par 73 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 276, 20 strokes under par on the 6,850-yard Royal Queensland course.

At the start of the 18th hole, Palmer was told that he was six strokes ahead of Kel Nagle in second place so he relaxed, taking three putts.

Nagle, of Australia, finished second at 281.

The Atlantic Ocean and the Mediterranean Sea are connected by the Straits of Gibraltar.

It never touches a drop.

The Volkswagen is cooled by air. Not water. An ingenious advantage.

Since air cannot freeze, the Volkswagen engine cannot. Even at temperatures below zero, it is safe and sound.

The VW has no radiator problems for an eloquently simple reason.

It has no radiator.

Viz: It never needs anti-freeze. It never needs flushing out. There is no radiator hose to crack and leak and possibly lose expensive anti-freeze.

When drivers line up for anti-freeze etc. on the first bitter winter day, the VW owner is spared the annoyance.

Not to mention the expense.

The Volkswagen has an equal advantage in hot weather.

Air cannot boil any more than it can freeze.

Neither can the VW.

In bumper-to-bumper traffic, when tempers and water grow short, when cars sit at the side of the road waiting to cool, the little Volkswagen goes right on past.

It is above it all.

Riding on air.

Southern Cal, Wyoming Stung In Top 10

Nation's Top Four Teams Continue With Easy Nods

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Should what happened to Southern California and Wyoming upset Notre Dame and Michigan State?

The Irish and Spartans rolled along their merry way Saturday, registering decisive victories over weak opponents. Notre Dame crushed Navy 31-7 and Michigan State shut out Northwestern 22-6.

But there were ominous signs for the handful of unbeaten college teams in a season that has been remarkably free of upsets until now.

Southern California, ranked No. 5 in The Associated Press' poll last week, was stopped by Miami of Florida 10-7 on Friday night and Wyoming, No. 10, was knocked off 12-10 by Colorado State Saturday.

The remaining unbeaten major college teams — UCLA, Alabama, Georgia Tech, Florida and Nebraska — kept their records clean for at least another week.

Notre Dame's remarkable passing attack bogged down a bit Saturday with sophomore end Jim Seymour nursing an injury, but the runners took over. Larry Conjar and Nick Eddy ran all over the Navy and four pass interceptions—three by linebacker John Pergine — helped matters considerably.

Clint Jones and Bob Apisa ran for touchdowns for Michigan State, which stopped Northwestern, allowing just six yards on the ground. The Spartans may have suffered a big blow, however, when Apisa hurt his leg in the second half.

Third-rated UCLA was led to a 38-13 triumph over the Air Force by Gary Beban who threw for one touchdown and scored two himself. A 71-yard runback of a pass interception by Sandy Green set up Beban's first score with the Bruins trailing 10-7 at the time.

Alabama, No. 4, got past Mississippi State 27-14 on three scoring passes by Wayne Trimble. Steve Davis kicked field goals of 35 and 31 yards.

Sixth-ranked Georgia Tech recovered three Duke fumbles and made three pass interceptions in pounding the Blue Devils 48-7. Florida, No. 7, edged Auburn 30-27 on a 40-yard field goal by Steve Spurrier with 2:12 left in the game. The big quarterback also hit on 27 of 40 passes, one for a touchdown, and scored once himself.

Nebraska, No. 8, jumped all over Missouri 35-0, the worst defeat the Cornhuskers have handed the Tigers in 49 years.

Dave Dickey made his first appearance for ninth-rated Arkansas a good one, scoring four touchdowns as the Razorbacks bounced Texas A&M 34-0. Arkansas scored the first three times it got the ball and coasted home from there.

Two field goals by Al Lavan shot Colorado State past Wyoming. Larry Jackson threw for a CSU touchdown after fumbling a lateral and recovering it.

Away from the Top Ten, Harvard moved closer to its first undisputed Ivy League crown with its sixth straight victory, 27-7 over Penn.

Miami of Ohio's 12-game victory streak was shattered when Bowling Green came up with a 17-14 victory. Purdue moved a step closer to the Rose Bowl with a 25-21 beating of Illinois on a 32-yard touchdown toss by Bob Griese with just 1:20 left in the game. Michigan State, Rose Bowl loser in January, is ineligible to return.

SMU took over the lead in the Southwest Conference by beating Texas 13-12. Texas Tech beat Rice 39-15, TCU beat Baylor 6-0, and Georgia took North Carolina 28-3.

'Bama Is Headed For Sugar Bowl

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Sugar Bowl has wrapped up Alabama for its Jan. 2 post-season football classic here, but nothing official can be said about it for at least two weeks, The Associated Press learned today.

Under Southeastern Conference rules, a member team cannot formally receive and accept a bid until after its final game. This rule has been relaxed some in recent years, particularly when a team has a game after the fourth weekend in November.

Alabama, the defending national champion, closes out its regular campaign on Dec. 3 against state rival Auburn.

A contingent of Sugar Bowlers were on hand in Tuscaloosa Saturday when the Crimson Tide, currently fourth in the national rankings, defeated surprisingly tough Mississippi State 27-14.

They met afterward with 'Bama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, it was learned, and got the official unofficial word. Then the Sugar Bowlers flew with Alabama scouts in the Crimson Tide's own plane to Baton Rouge for the Louisiana State-Mississippi game.

The Sugar Bowl officials, led by Claud (Monk) Simmons Jr., all had broad smiles on their faces that would top any canary-eating cat.

Another group of Sugar Bowlers were in Lincoln, Neb., to see Nebraska demolish Missouri 35-0. Missouri played in the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1 and lost to Florida, 20-2.

Both Alabama and Nebraska are unbeaten so far. The two teams were matched in last season's Orange Bowl with the Crimson Tide winning 39-28.

Alabama has a 6-0 record with games left against LSU, South Carolina, Southern Mississippi and Auburn. Nebraska, 7-0 and ranked eighth nationally, still must play Kansas, Oklahoma State and Oklahoma.

Demonstrators Mill At Rhodes' Mansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 40 welfare demonstrators staged a "Halloween party" outside the governor's mansion Sunday, calling on Gov. James A. Rhodes to "stop tricking the people of Ohio and start treating welfare children properly."

Police in suburban Bexley said the sign-carrying demonstrators, associated with the Ohio Steering Committee for Adequate Welfare, milled outside the mansion for about an hour and remained orderly. They were told the governor was not at home.

The marchers said they were seeking $100 a year in additional clothing aid for each welfare child.

Coal, natural gas, oil and hydroelectric are the four major sources of power in the world.

Student Does Punting, Plays In Band At Half

By J.J. Dorsey
Of The Dover Daily Reporter

STRASBURG, Ohio (AP) — John E. Studer Jr. of Strasburg High School does the punting for the football team—and between halves plays the tuba in the marching band.

It's no problem for John. He's also an outstanding basketball player, a baseball star, last year's "Mr. Track" for Strasburg and an honor roll student.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Studer Sr., faced with the choice between athletics and music along with maintaining a top scholastic record, decided to make good in all three. He's done it.

He's considered a fine tuba player, and during football season, his only problem is switching uniforms.

Two minutes before half time he rushes off field and changes togs. He can do the "quick change" act in four minutes if he has to.

The difficulty comes at home games where he must change in the back of a car. If John were 5 feet 2 inches tall there would be no problem. Things aren't quite so easy when you stand 6 feet 3 inches. John admits that "sometimes it is pretty hard to change all that stuff back there."

The senior all-star's best punting game was against Malvern — Tuscarawas Valley Conference champs — when he booted the ball three times for a total of 147 yards.

The college offers are already coming into John's Strasburg home. There are letters in his room from various colleges and more are expected.

A boy with all these talents should have a tight social schedule, but he does something else to keep occupied. In this time of so-called "lazy" teens, John can be found working in a Strasburg restaurant on weekends.

So what does he do with his "spare" time?

"I go to the Y in Dover a lot," says John. Other times he "tinkers" with a 1958 Chevrolet that "used to be mom's."

What is in the future?

"I want to be a coach the most. When I go to school I want to major in physical education and minor in music."

Many young men have foresaken the basketball courts for the gridiron. Is there any chance of that for John Studer?

"I wouldn't consider leaving basketball for football. Basketball is what I want to do. Band is next."

'Local Boy' Wins Hawaiian 'Open'

HONOLULU (AP) — There was hula deancing in the old town Sunday night. Ted Makalena, a local boy who dug his first divot on the Waialae golf course along the blue Pacific, won the $8,500 top prize in the second Hawaiian Open.

Every Hawaiian, and almost everybody else, was rooting for him and he had to battle his way through a throng of perhaps 10,000—including a dozen kids who climbed up the coconut trees—to finish with a birdie flourish on the 18th green.

The 32 - year - old Makalena fired a final round 68 that could just have well been several strokes lower.

Makalena's final 68 made his tournament total 271, exactly 10 strokes better than the winning total last year, and 17 under par for the Waialae course, where his father still works as a greenskeeper.

He had earlier rounds of 66, 71, and 66.

The win came hard because Gay Brewer, the defending champion, made a gallant try with a final 68, and National Open champion Billy Casper chipped in with a 69. Both finished at 274, three strokes back of Makalena.

Gene Littler, the World Series of Golf winner, fired a course record 65 in his final round and took fourth money with 276.

AFL Keeps Eyes On Any Possible Gambling Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League is keeping a constant check on all games for possible gambling irregularities, but President Milt Woodard says no players are being investigated.

"We are constantly investigating; that is our job," Woodard said Sunday about reports that some players were under investigation. "We are aware that certain games were taken off (removed from the gambling line) and then put back on.

"The gamblers are creating this. We were assured that this was not unusual. We have found no players involved, and we see no reason to be alarmed."

Woodard added that refusal by gamblers to accept bets on some games did not necessarily mean the games should be suspect. The gamblers simply could be worried about their chances for winning the bets, he said.

Bonds Forfeited In Traffic Cases

LISBON — Two drivers charged in traffic accidents Saturday and Sunday forfeited $15 appearance bonds in mayor's court.

They were Lawrence Estill, 52, of 219 Maple St., charged with failure to stop in an assured clear distance, and Robert Miller, 28, of Lisbon R. D. 2, charged with improper backing.

Police said Estill was driving a 1958 sedan and ran into the rear of a 1966 sedan driven by Alex Rutecki, 58, of 206 S. Lincoln Ave. about 12:30 p. m. Saturday on Washington St. at the Jefferson St. intersection.

The other accident occurred about 1:30 a. m. Sunday in front of a S. Market St. tavern. Police said Miller backed from a parking space into a car driven by Thomas E. Grimm, 26, of 677 Fair St., Salem.

Harold Wylie, 25, of Rogers, arrested on a speeding charge Saturday, also forfeited a $15 bond.

Daniel L. Tranter, 27, of 433 Broadway, Wellsville, was fined $50 and costs by Mayor William Daugherty Saturday on a charge of reckless operation stemming from a Saturday morning accident in which three were injured.

Tranter was the driver of an auto which went out of control on Main St. and struck two parked cars and a utility pole.

Tranter and Kenneth Howell of 809½ Commerce St. were treated and released at City Hospital for minor injuries. Daniel Vernon, 22, of R.D. 1, also a passenger in the auto and the owner of the car, suffered a possible neck injury and a sprained right shoulder. He is still listed as "fair" in City Hospital.

Sen. Lausche's Wife Fractures Hip In Fall

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche says his wife probably will be hospitalized for at least two weeks while she recovers from surgery for a fractured hip.

Mrs. Lausche suffered the injury Saturday when she fell on basement steps at the home of a friend in Rocky River. She also suffered a fractured wrist.

She was in satisfactory condition in suburban Lakewood Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Southern Cal, Wyoming Stung In Top 10

Nation's Top Four Teams Continue With Easy Nods

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Should what happened to Southern California and Wyoming upset Notre Dame and Michigan State?

The Irish and Spartans rolled along their merry way Saturday, registering decisive victories over weak opponents. Notre Dame crushed Navy 31-7 and Michigan State shut out Northwestern 22-0.

But there were ominous signs for the handful of unbeaten college teams in a season that has been remarkably free of upsets until now.

Southern California, ranked No. 5 in The Associated Press' poll last week, was stopped by Miami of Florida 10-7 on Friday night and Wyoming, No. 10, was knocked off 12-10 by Colorado State Saturday.

The remaining unbeaten major college teams — UCLA, Alabama, Georgia Tech, Florida and Nebraska — kept their records clean for at least another week.

Notre Dame's remarkable passing attack bogged down a bit Saturday with sophomore end Jim Seymour nursing an injury, but the runners took over. Larry Conjar and Nick Eddy ran all over the Navy and four pass interceptions—three by linebacker John Pergine — helped matters considerably.

Clint Jones and Bob Apisa ran for touchdowns for Michigan State, which stopped Northwestern, allowing just six yards on the ground. The Spartans may have suffered a big blow, however, when Apisa hurt his leg in the second half.

Third-rated UCLA was led to a 38-13 triumph over the Air Force by Gary Beban who threw for one touchdown and scored two himself. A 71-yard runback of a pass interception by Sandy Green set up Beban's first score with the Bruins trailing 10-7 at the time.

Alabama, No. 4, got past Mississippi State 27-14 on three scoring passes by Wayne Trimble. Steve Davis kicked field goals of 35 and 31 yards.

Sixth-ranked Georgia Tech recovered three Duke fumbles and made three pass interceptions in pounding the Blue Devils 48-7. Florida, No. 7, edged Auburn 30-27 on a 40-yard field goal by Steve Spurrier with 2:12 left in the game. The big quarterback also hit on 27 of 40 passes, one for a touchdown, and scored once himself.

Nebraska, No. 8, jumped all over Missouri 35-0, the worst defeat the Cornhuskers have handed the Tigers in 49 years.

Dave Dickey made his first appearance for ninth-rated Arkansas a good one, scoring four touchdowns as the Razorbacks bounced Texas A&M 34-0. Arkansas scored the first three times it got the ball and coasted home from there.

Two field goals by Al Lavan shot Colorado State past Wyoming. Larry Jackson threw for a CSU touchdown after fumbling a lateral and recovering it.

Away from the Top Ten, Harvard moved closer to its first undisputed Ivy League crown with its sixth straight victory, 27-7 over Penn.

Miami of Ohio's 12-game victory streak was shattered when Bowling Green came up with a 17-14 victory. Purdue moved a step closer to the Rose Bowl with a 25-21 beating of Illinois on a 32-yard touchdown toss by Bob Griese with just 1:20 left in the game. Michigan State, Rose Bowl loser in January, is ineligible to return.

SMU took over the lead in the Southwest Conference by beating Texas 13-12. Texas Tech beat Rice 39-15, TCU beat Baylor 6-0, and Georgia took North Carolina 28-3.

'Bama Is Headed For Sugar Bowl

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Sugar Bowl has wrapped up Alabama for its Jan. 2 post-season football classic here, but nothing official can be said about it for at least two weeks, The Associated Press learned today.

Under Southeastern Conference rules, a member team can not formally receive and accept a bid until after its final game. This rule has been relaxed some in recent years, particularly when a team has a game after the fourth weekend in November.

Alabama, the defending national champion, closes out its regular campaign on Dec. 3 against state rival Auburn.

A contingent of Sugar Bowlers were on hand in Tuscaloosa Saturday when the Crimson Tide, currently fourth in the national rankings, defeated surprisingly tough Mississippi State 27-14.

They met afterward with 'Bama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, it was learned, and got the official unofficial word. Then the Sugar Bowlers flew with Alabama scouts in the Crimson Tide's own plane to Baton Rouge for the Louisiana State-Mississippi game.

The Sugar Bowl officials, led by Claud (Monk) Simmons Jr., all had broad smiles on their faces that would top any canary-eating cat.

Another group of Sugar Bowlers were in Lincoln, Neb., to see Nebraska demolish Missouri 35-0. Missouri played in the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1 and lost to Florida, 20-2.

Both Alabama and Nebraska are unbeaten so far. The two teams were matched in last season's Orange Bowl with the Crimson Tide winning 39-28.

Alabama has a 6-0 record with games left against LSU, South Carolina, Southern Mississippi and Auburn. Nebraska, 7-0 and ranked eighth nationally, still must play Kansas, Oklahoma State and Oklahoma.

Demonstrators Mill At Rhodes' Mansion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 40 welfare demonstrators staged a "Halloween party" outside the governor's mansion Sunday, calling on Gov. James A. Rhodes to "stop tricking the people of Ohio and start treating welfare children properly."

Police in suburban Bexley said the sign-carrying demonstrators, associated with the Ohio Steering Committee for Adequate Welfare, milled outside the mansion for about an hour and remained orderly. They were told the governor was not at home.

The marchers said they were seeking $100 a year in additional clothing aid for each welfare child.

AFL Keeps Eyes On Any Possible Gambling Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League is keeping a constant check on all games for possible gambling irregularities, but President Milt Woodard says no players are being investigated.

"We are constantly investigating; that is our job," Woodard said Sunday about reports that some players were under investigation. "We are aware that certain games were taken off (removed from the gambling line) and then put back on.

"The gamblers are creating this. We were assured that this was not unusual. We have found no players involved, and we see no reason to be alarmed."

Woodard added that refusal by gamblers to accept bets on some games did not necessarily mean the games should be suspect. The gamblers simply could be worried about their chances for winning the bets, he said.

Student Does Punting, Plays In Band At Half

By J.J. Dorsey
Of The Dover Daily Reporter

STRASBURG, Ohio (AP) — John E. Studer Jr. of Strasburg High School does the punting for the football team—and between halves plays the tuba in the marching band.

It's no problem for John. He's also an outstanding basketball player, a baseball star, last year's "Mr. Track" for Strasburg and an honor roll student.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Studer Sr., faced with the choice between athletics and music along with maintaining a top scholastic record, decided to make good in all three. He's done it.

He's considered a fine tuba player, and during football season, his only problem is switching uniforms.

Two minutes before half time he rushes off field and changes togs. He can do the "quick change" act in four minutes if he has to.

The difficulty comes at home games where he must change in the back of a car. If John were 5 feet 2 inches tall there would be no problem. Things aren't quite so easy when you stand 6 feet 3 inches. John admits that "sometimes it is pretty hard to change all that stuff back there."

The senior all-star's best punting game was against Malvern — Tuscarawas Valley Conference champs — when he booted the ball three times for a total of 147 yards.

The college offers are already coming into John's Strasburg home. There are letters in his room from various colleges and more are expected.

A boy with all these talents should have a tight social schedule, but he does something else to keep occupied. In this time of so-called "lazy" teens, John can be found working in a Strasburg restaurant on weekends.

So what does he do with his "spare" time?

"I go to the Y in Dover a lot," says John. Other times he "tinkers" with a 1958 Chevrolet that "used to be mom's."

What is in the future?

"I want to be a coach the most. When I go to school I want to major in physical education and minor in music."

Many young men have forsaken the basketball courts for the gridiron. Is there any chance of that for John Studer?

"I wouldn't consider leaving basketball for football. Basketball is what I want to do. Band is next."

'Local Boy' Wins Hawaiian 'Open'

HONOLULU (AP) — There was hula deancing in the old town Sunday night. Ted Makalena, a local boy who dug his first divot on the Waialae golf course along the blue Pacific, won the $8,500 top prize in the second Hawaiian Open.

Every Hawaiian, and almost everybody else, was rooting for him and he had to battle his way through a throng of perhaps 10,000—including a dozen kids who climbed up the coconut trees—to finish with a birdie flourish on the 18th green.

The 32 - year - old Makalena fired a final round 68 that could just have well been several strokes lower.

Makalena's final 68 made his tournament total 271, exactly 10 strokes better than the winning total last year, and 17 under par for the Waialae course, where his father still works as a greenskeeper.

He had earlier rounds of 66, 71, and 66.

The win came hard because Gay Brewer, the defending champion, made a gallant try with a final 68, and National Open champion Billy Casper chipped in with a 69. Both finished at 274, three strokes back of Makalena.

Gene Littler, the World Series of Golf winner, fired a course record 65 in his final round and took fourth money with 276.

Vermont, in ratio to population, maintains more dairy cows than any other U.S. state.

Police said Estill was driving a 1958 sedan and ran into the rear of a 1966 sedan driven by Alex Rutecki, 58, of 206 S. Lincoln Ave. about 12:30 p. m. Saturday on Washington St. at the Jefferson St. intersection.

The other accident occurred about 1:30 a. m. Sunday in front of a S. Market St. tavern. Police said Miller backed from a parking space into a car driven by Thomas E. Grimm, 26, of 677 Fair St., Salem.

Harold Wylie, 25, of Rogers, arrested on a speeding charge Saturday, also forfeited a $15 bond.

Daniel L. Tranter, 27, of 433 Broadway, Wellsville, was fined $50 and costs by Mayor William Daugherty Saturday on a charge of reckless operation stemming from a Saturday morning accident in which three were injured.

Tranter was the driver of an auto which went out of control on Main St. and struck two parked cars and a utility pole.

Tranter and Kenneth Howell of 809½ Commerce St. were treated and released at City Hospital for minor injuries. Daniel Vernon, 22, of R.D. 1, also a passenger in the auto and the owner of the car, suffered a possible neck injury and a sprained right shoulder. He is still listed as "fair" in City Hospital.

Sen. Lausche's Wife Fractures Hip In Fall

Mrs. Lausche suffered the injury Saturday when she fell on basement steps at the home of a friend in Rocky River. She also suffered a fractured wrist.

She was in satisfactory condition in suburban Lakewood Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Johnnie Lee Adkins of Box 134, Newell, arrested at the same time in the same stretch, drew a fine of $10 and costs when he admitted it was his second speeding arrest. ORDINANCE NO. 41

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE OF $9,800 OF FISHER PARK SANITARY SEWER BONDS OF THE CITY OF EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, IN ANTICIPATION OF THE COLLECTION OF SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS TO PAY THE COST OF IMPROVING PARTS OF FISHER PARK SUBDIVISION BY CONSTRUCTING THEREIN A SANITARY SEWER OF HARD BURNED VITRIFIED SEWER PIPE.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of East Liverpool has heretofore by resolution declared the necessity of making certain improvements in Fisher Park Subdivision and in order to finance such construction has heretofore authorized and issued notes in anticipation of the issuance of bonds and the levy and collection of special assessments which notes have now matured or are about to mature; and

WHEREAS, the Auditor, as fiscal officer, has certified to the maximum maturity of the bonds proposed to be issued and as to the estimated life of the improvement so constructed, which maximum maturity may not exceed the five year period provided for collection of said assessments.

NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED by the Council of the City of East Liverpool, State of Ohio:

SECTION 1. That it is deemed necessary to issue the bonds of the City of East Liverpool in the principal sum of $9,800 in anticipation of the collection of special assessments heretofore levied to pay the property owner's portion and the city's portion of the cost of improving parts of North Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 14, Block I, third addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with South Surrey Road, and South Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 29, Block G, third addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to Lot 29, Block J, fourth addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, upon which an easement has been duly dedicated to the public use by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, in accordance with Resolution Number 26, 1961, passed November 6, 1961, and Ordinance Number 9, 1962, passed April 3, 1962.

SECTION 2. Said bonds in the principal sum of $9,800 shall be issued in the denomination of $980 each, shall be numbered from 1 to 11, both inclusive, and shall be dated December 1, 1966. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of three per centum (3 per cent) per annum, payable June 1, 1967 and semi-annually thereafter on the first day of December and the first day of June of each year, until the principal sum is paid; provided, however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified, then the same bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided in the resolution of Council approving the award thereof. Such bonds shall mature on December 1, 1968.

Provided, however, that if the Treasurer shall accept this issue for purchase into the Bond Retirement Fund, then a single temporary manuscript bond in the amount of $9,800 numbered T-1 and dated December 1, 1966, shall be issued in lieu of the series of coupon bonds described in the paragraph immediately above. The temporary manuscript bond shall be payable to the Treasurer of the City of East Liverpool as officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund, or order on the first day of December, 1968, and shall bear interest at the rate of three per centum (3 per cent) per annum, payable June 1, 1967 and semiannually thereafter on the first day of December and the first day of June of each year until the principal sum is paid. The principal sum of the temporary manuscript bond and the interest thereon shall be payable at the office of the City Treasurer, East Liverpool, Ohio, in lawful money of the United States of America, upon the presentation of such bond for the proper endorsement thereon of such payments. Whenever it seems advisable to the authority having control of the Bond Retirement Fund of the City of East Liverpool, the temporary manuscript bond shall be converted into coupon or registered bonds of the same maturity and rate of interest in accordance with the provisions of Section 133.19, Revised Code, and such definitive bonds shall be issued in exchange for the temporary manuscript bond.

SECTION 3. That said coupon bonds and temporary manuscript bond shall express upon their face the purpose for which they are issued; that they are issued in pursuance of this ordinance and shall be signed by the Mayor and Auditor, and sealed with the corporate seal of said City, provided that one of such signatures may be a facsimile signature. The interest coupons attached to said coupon bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the Auditor printed or lithographed thereon. They shall be designated "Fisher Park Sanitary Sewer Bonds" and the coupon bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer, East Liverpool, Ohio. Said bonds shall be callable in whole or in part at the option of the City on the first day of June, 1967, or on any interest payment date thereafter, at their par value plus accrued interest to the date of call. If less than all bonds of any one maturity are called at one time, then the bond or bonds to be redeemed shall be selected by lot in a manner to be determined by Council. Any right of redemption of bonds shall be exercised by resolution or ordinance of Council. If the outstanding bonds are in coupon form, notice of redemption, specifying by numbers the bonds to be called, shall be published once in a newspaper of general circulation in the City of East Liverpool such publication to be made not less than ten (10) nor more than twenty (20) days prior to the date of redemption. If the outstanding bonds are in manuscript form and held by the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund, notice of redemption shall be served on such officer and no published notice shall be given. Upon the redemption date, all interest upon bonds so called shall cease unless default shall be made in the payment of the redemption price and accrued interest to the redemption date, upon presentation of such bonds.

SECTION 4. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on the taxable property in the City of East Liverpool, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay the interest upon said bonds as and when the same fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section 11 of Article XII of the Constitution of Ohio. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are available for the payment of such bonds and are appropriatde for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

SECTION 5. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levy hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which, together with the interest collected on the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds when and as the same fall due.

SECTION 6. That all installments of said assessments and all portions thereof, together with interest thereon, shall be applied to the payment of said bonds and interest as the same shall become due and for no other purpose whatsoever.

SECTION 7. Said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund in his official capacity, and if said officer refuses to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose and be allocated to the improvement herein described. The premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 8. The Clerk of Council is hereby authorized and directed to certify a copy of this ordinance to the Auditor of Columbiana County, Ohio, according to law.

SECTION 9. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in and for the issuing of said bonds in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of the City have been performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the full faith, credit and revenue of said City shall be and are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will be exceeded in issuing said bonds.

SECTION 10. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and for the further reason that the prompt issuance of the bonds herein provided for is necessary to preserve the credit of the City by retiring the outstanding notes issued in anticipation thereof and; wherefore, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

Any right of redemption of bonds shall be exercised by resolution or ordinance of the Council and notice of redemption, specifying by number the bonds to be called, shall be published once in a financial journal of national circulation, such publication to be made not less than thirty days prior to the date of redemption, upon which date all interest upon the bonds shall cease.

Section 3. That said bonds shall express upon their faces the purpose for which they are issued and that they are issued in pursuance of this ordinance; shall be executed by the Mayor and Auditor, provided that one of such signatures may be a facsimile signature, and shall bear the corporate seal of said City. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the Auditor.

Section 4. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in said City of East Liverpool, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Article XII, Section 11 of the Constitution of Ohio.

Section 5. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner, and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest on the principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due, provided, however, that in each year to the extent that the income from off-street parking facilities is available for the payment of such bonds and is appropriated for such purpose the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of such income so available and appropriated

Section 6. That said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund for investment in said fund, and if said officer refuses to take any or all of said bonds, the bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon shall be used for the purpose aforesaid, and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

Section 7. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuing of these bonds in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of said City have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the faith, credit and revenue of said City are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and tha no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or consitutional, has been exceeded in issuing these bonds.

SECTION 8. The Clerk of Council is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the Count. Auditor.

SECTION 9. That this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety for the reason that the notes of this City heretofore issued for this improvement are abou to mature and must be retired with the proceeds of the bonds authorized herein in order to protect the credit of this City; wherefore, this ordinance shall go into effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the Mayor.

SECTION 1. That it is deemed necessary to issue the bonds of the City of East Liverpool in the principal sum of $9,800 in anticipation of the collection of special assessments heretofore levied to pay the property owner's portion and the city's portion of the cost of improving parts of North Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 14, Block I, third addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with North Surrey Road and South Surrey Road, and South Surrey Road from a point in front of Lot 29, Block G, third addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to the intersection with North Surrey Road and a ten foot strip of land running from Lot 10, Block F, third addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, to Lot 29, Block J, fourth addition to Fisher Park Subdivision, upon which an easement has been duly dedicated to the public use by constructing therein a sanitary sewer of hard burned vitrified sewer pipe, in accordance with Resolution Number 26, 1961, passed November 6, 1961, and Ordinance Number 9, 1962, passed April 3, 1962.

SECTION 2. Said bonds in the principal sum of $9,800 shall be issued in the denomination of $980 each, shall be numbered from 1 to 11, both inclusive, and shall be dated December 1, 1966. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of three per centum (3 per cent) per annum, payable June 1, 1967 and semi-annually thereafter on the first day of December and the first day of June of each year, until the principal sum is paid; provided, however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified, then the same bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided in the resolution of Council approving the award thereof. Such bonds shall mature on December 1, 1968.

Provided, however, that if the Treasurer shall accept this issue for purchase into the Bond Retirement Fund, then a single temporary manuscript bond in the amount of $9,800 numbered T-1 and dated December 1, 1966, shall be issued in lieu of the series of coupon bonds described in the paragraph immediately above. The temporary manuscript bond shall be payable to the Treasurer of the City of East Liverpool as officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund, or order on the first day of December, 1968, and shall bear interest at the rate of three per centum (3 per cent) per annum, payable June 1, 1967 and semiannually thereafter on the first day of December and the first day of June of each year until the principal sum is paid. The principal sum of the temporary manuscript bond and the interest thereon shall be payable at the office of the City Treasurer, East Liverpool, Ohio, in lawful money of the United States of America, upon the presentation of such bond for the proper endorsement thereon of such payments. Whenever it seems advisable to the authority having control of the Bond Retirement Fund of the City of East Liverpool, the temporary manuscript bond shall be converted into coupon or registered bonds of the same maturity and rate of interest in accordance with the provisions of Section 133.19, Revised Code, and such definitive bonds shall be issued in exchange for the temporary manuscript bond.

SECTION 3. That said coupon bonds and temporary manuscript bond shall express upon their face the purpose for which they are issued; that they are issued in pursuance of this ordinance and shall be signed by the Mayor and Auditor, and sealed with the corporate seal of said City, provided that one of such signatures may be a facsimile signature. The interest coupons attached to said coupon bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the Auditor printed or lithographed thereon. They shall be designated "Fisher Park Sanitary Sewer Bonds" and the coupon bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer, East Liverpool, Ohio. Said bonds shall be callable in whole or in part at the option of the City on the first day of June, 1967, or on any interest payment date thereafter, at their par value plus accrued interest to the date of call. If less than all bonds of any one maturity are called at one time, then the bond or bonds to be redeemed shall be selected by lot in a manner to be determined by Council. Any right of redemption of bonds shall be exercised by resolution or ordinance of Council. If the outstanding bonds are in coupon form, notice of redemption, specifying by numbers the bonds to be called, shall be published once in a newspaper of general circulation in the City of East Liverpool such publication to be made not less than ten (10) nor more than twenty (20) days prior to the date of redemption. If the outstanding bonds are in manuscript form and held by the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund, notice of redemption shall be served on such officer and no published notice shall be given. Upon the redemption date, all interest upon bonds so called shall cease unless default shall be made in the payment of the redemption price and accrued interest to the redemption date upon presentation of such bonds.

SECTION 4. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on the taxable property in the City of East Liverpool, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay the interest upon said bonds as and when the same fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section 11 of Article XII of the Constitution of Ohio. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are available for the payment of such bonds and are appropriate for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

SECTION 5. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levy hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which, together with the interest collected on the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds when and as the same fall due.

SECTION 6. That all installments of said assessments and all portions thereof, together with interest thereon, shall be applied to the payment of said bonds and interest as the same shall become due and for no other purpose whatsoever.

SECTION 7. Said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund in his official capacity, and if said officer refuses to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon, shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose and be allocated to the improvement herein described. The premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 8. The Clerk of Council is hereby authorized and directed to certify a copy of this ordinance to the Auditor of Columbiana County, Ohio, according to law.

SECTION 9. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in and for the issuing of said bonds in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of the City have been performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the full faith, credit and revenue of said City shall be and are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will be exceeded in issuing said bonds.

SECTION 10. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, and for the further reason that the prompt issuance of the bonds herein provided for is necessary to preserve the credit of the City by retiring the outstanding notes issued in anticipation thereof and; wherefore, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage and approval by the Mayor.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — What can be done about animal stains on rugs?

A. — Clean these as quickly as possible after they occur. Sponge the stains with a solution consisting of a half - cup of salt to a quart of water. Following by sponging with a solution of one part ammonia to 10 parts of water. Best results are achieved when soonest applied.

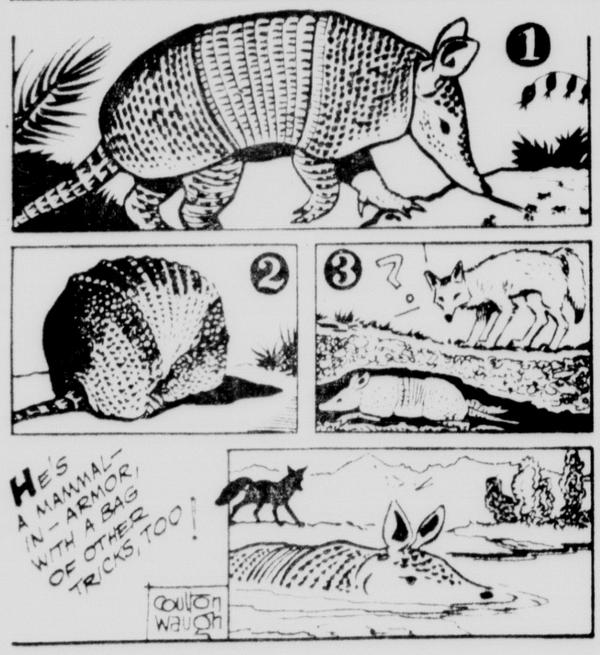

Q. — How can I deal with carbon paper stains on fabrics?

A. — Usually with carbon tetrachloride. If there are any traces remaining, flush out with a solution of water, detergent, and a small amount of ammonia.

Q. — What is a good way to clean a sponge?

A. — Place it in milk, allow to remain for at least twelve hours, then rinse in cold water.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARMADILLO

QUESTION: How can an armadillo swim with all that armor?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Long ago, there was a large group of animals called the Edentata, or toothless mammals. Their teeth were only in the back and they lived by pulling in insects or leaves with their long sticky tongues. Modern survivors of this group include the anteater and the amazing little armadillo. This last is the only mammal in the world encased in bony armor plates. Our picture (1) shows the strong shields, looking like chain mail, which encase the animal's hips and shoulders, and the bands between which overlap, allowing him to move freely. When an armadillo curls up (2) it is difficult for a predator to get at him. There are different kinds of armadillos. Some can curl more tightly than others. The armadillo has other methods of escape. He can dig rapidly underground (3) using his powerful feet and claws. And he can swim, if necessary. This is possible to an armadillo because his armor plates, if strong, are quite light in weight, and also because he has a way of swallowing air, which makes him more buoyant.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up a picture of an anteater and check his peculiar long snout with our pictures of the armadillo. You will understand why they belong to the same animal group.

★ ★ ★

Dan Mears of Burlington, Iowa, wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARMADILLO

QUESTION: How can an armadillo swim with all that armor?

ANSWER: Long ago, there was a large group of animals called the Edentata, or toothless mammals. Their teeth were only in the back and they lived by pulling in insects or leaves with their long sticky tongues. Modern survivors of this group include the anteater and the amazing little armadillo. This last is the only mammal in the world encased in bony armor plates. Our picture (1) shows the strong shields, looking like chain mail, which encase the animal's hips and shoulders, and the bands between which overlap, allowing him to move freely. When an armadillo curls up (2) it is difficult for a predator to get at him. There are different kinds of armadillos. Some can curl more tightly than others. The armadillo has other methods of escape. He can dig rapidly underground (3) using his powerful feet and claws. And he can swim, if necessary. This is possible to an armadillo because his armor plates, if strong, are quite light in weight, and also because he has a way of swallowing air, which makes him more buoyant.

FOR YOU TO DO: Look up a picture of an anteater and check his peculiar long snout with our pictures of the armadillo. You will understand why they belong to the same animal group.
